

The Daily Examiner

APRIL 22, 1885.

"Looks Like Business."

The fact that the British Government have asked for a credit of £55,000,000 stg. ($275,000,000), to support the army and navy, shows that they—patient and long suffering as they are—think the game of evasion and deception has been played by Russia long enough.

The Fish Duties.

In his speech on the Reciprocity question, Mr. Hackett said: "With our large extent of fishing coast—some 4,000 miles—with our hardy and active class of fishermen, with some of the best fishing vessels that can be built in the world, we ought to be able to provide our own people with all the fish they require; with these advantages, the people of the Eastern Provinces ought to be able to provide the people of the Western Provinces with all the fish they can consume, better and at cheaper rates than can the United States."

Improvement.

Indefatigable, as ever, Mr. Arthur Newbery has been and is now actively engaged in the work of tree-planting and improving Queen Square and a portion of Grafton Street. It behoves others to be up and doing in the good work.

Some of the Americans seem to be waking up to the fact that Reciprocity of trade with Canada would be a good thing; and as the Canadian Parliament has shown its readiness, to make a fair bargain at any time, we may still hope—the efforts of the Grit Party to the contrary notwithstanding—that a treaty may "ere long" be made.

"We have coolly assumed that while reciprocity might not be a bad thing for us, it would be beneath our dignity to make a move in that direction; and that, by and by, Canada would come suppliantly to us, begging us to send her our products duty free."

"The Riel rebellion, though on a small scale, has stimulated the loyalty of the citizens of the Dominion, who are not prepared to have their federation broken up, their orderly life disturbed, their railway communications impeded, and the value of their unoccupied lands diminished by the turbulence of a few hundreds of 'half-breeds'."

"We do not know that they have had any legitimate cause for disaffection. We are in no doubt as to the way in which their disaffection has displayed itself, and as to the recompense which it has merited. For the second time Riel has appealed to arms. His followers may have some excuse, and if he is suffered a second time to escape condign punishment, we shall put it down as proof, not of the clemency, but of the culpable weakness of the Government."

L. and S. Society.

At the last session for the Literary and Scientific Society, on Friday evening last, Mr. J. Alfred McDonald read his paper on Steam and Electricity, which particularly dwelt on the fact of the progress made since steam and electricity became such potent factors in the hands of man, and were giving an immense impetus to the whole human race.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

A New Question.

SIR,—I read with much interest the Report of Licentiate Commissioners for Queen's County, and also the Report of the Chief Inspector in your issue of yesterday.

The reference in the Inspector's report to the fact that while John J. Trainor had served his term of imprisonment for a third offence, Peter Paul Gillis, who had been imprisoned for a similar offence, had been released from custody before his term expired, without the authority of the Inspector or Board, will occasion some surprise.

ENQUIRER.

Out of 380 men composing the Halifax battalion, some 200 have left their families, in many cases, insufficiently provided for. Employment in their country's service means remuneration that will not provide decently for the requirements of their families during enforced absence.

THE RUSSIAN WAR.

FURTHER PARTICULARS.

The London Times' St. Petersburg correspondent says: "Later details state that the Afghan losses by Russian bullets, cold and hunger, amount to 1,000. The Sarik Turcomans, acting under the advice of the Russians, pursued them almost to Herat. It is rumored that the Sariks encountered a portion of Sir Peter Lumsden's convoy. They also burned his old camp. Gen. Komaroff has appointed a Russian Governor of Penjdeh, and has put Sarik officials in charge, who are Russian subjects. Everybody here is convinced that if war breaks out the Russians will seize Herat before England can turn around."

The Amer, before departing from Jamrud, said he had ordered the tribes to repair the road from Cabul to Herat, and that reinforcements had left Candahar for Herat. He believed that Russia might yield to remonstrances, being unable to give good excuse for her aggression. Only when all arguments have failed, he said, must war be considered, and then the Afghans will rise as one man to repel invaders. His policy was determined upon and would not be changed. It was founded on common sense, not on oaths. His people must accept it as he had, and must trust him as he had been trusted by England.

Those who remember Gen. Komaroff at St. Petersburg 15 years ago as the military critic of the Petersburgskaya Vedomosti (St. Petersburg News) could hardly have foreseen that the quiet little dark-haired man, who seemed to have got "army reorganization" upon the brain, would ever become famous throughout the whole civilized world.

MR. GLADSTONE'S POSITION. A very determined and grave position has been assumed by the Government toward Russia concerning the Penjdeh incident. At first Mr. Gladstone satisfied himself with demanding an explanation of General Komaroff's attack upon the Afghans. He felt sure, it is stated, that Russia was sincerely desirous of peace, and would discountenance Komaroff's action, no matter how thoroughly he might have represented the bellicose policy of the St. Petersburg war party, but when the Czar answered that he would explain to England as soon as Komaroff explained to him, the Premier was forced to conclude that the Czar was trifling to gain time.
