Designer Of Vimy Ridge Memorial Dies In Toronto

TORONTO, (CP)—Walter Seymour Allward, who designed Canada's National War Memorial on Vimy Ridge, toiling 14 years to create what has been called the noblest memorial in all Europe, died here Sunday at 78.

The great stone memorial, with its massive pylons and the figure of a woman brooding over her two dead sons, was dedicated in 1936 by King Edward VIII at a ceremony attended by 6,000 Canadian veterans.

It dominates the topmost line of the ridge that was the scene of the Canadian corps' great victory in 1917 and honors the 60,000 Canadians cut down by First World War's sickle of death.

With the unveiling, international fame came to Mr. Allward and at his death he was known as Canada's most distinguished sculptor.

INSPIRED BY DREAM

A dream was Mr. Allward's inspiration for the Vimy memorial, a dream in which the dead rose in masses and entered the fight to save the living.

"So vivid was this impression that when I awoke it stayed with me for months," he recalled. "So I have tried to show in this monument to Canada's fallen what we owed them and will forever owe them."

The sculptor made 150 sketches before submitting the design which won him the commission from the federal government.

Co-operation Made Vaccine Available

OTTAWA, (CP)—Health Minister Martin said Monday there would have been no Salk vaccine in Canada this year but for the vision, foresight and co-operation of the federal and provincial governments.

"Too frequently when they think of federal-provincial relations, people tend to think of disputes and differences," he said at the opening of the 67th semi-annual meeting of the Dominion Health Council.

"It is perhaps only human to magnify the divisions and difficulties and to overlook the solid basis of continuing co-operation that has been worked out with such success in so many fields of shared responsibility. Health is one of these fields."

The council is made up of federal and provincial deputy health ministers. This year four provincial health ministers also are attending from Ontario, British Columbia, Manitoba and Saskatchewan. It was through the council that the federal and provincial governments agreed to have Toronto's Connaught Laboratories start producing the vaccine immediately, months before the decision was known on the vaccine's 1954 field trials.

Silver Wedding

On April 16th the friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Good assembled at their home on Hawthorne Ave., to honor them, and to extend felicitations, on the occasion of their twenty-fifth anniversary.

The groom and bride of twenty-five years ago were escorted to gaily decorated chairs by Mrs. C. H. Swan. Mr. Henry Douglas in the role of chairman, paid tribute to this worthy couple, and called upon Mrs. Swan to read an address, while a chest of silver was presented by Mr. C. H. Swan. Although taken by surprise Mr. and Mrs. Good fittingly replied. All joined in singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows."

Many colored balloons decorated the fireplace, at a touch suddenly showered the bride and groom with confetti. At this time congratulations and best wishes were extended by all present. Mr. Edward Sellick in his own inimitable manner rendered two solos, "My Wild Irish Rose" and "I'll Get Wed In The Summer Time," accompanied by Mrs. Fanny Bertram.

A sing song was entered into with zest. A feature of the evening was the delightful music furnished by Ralph Gay on the violin with Mrs. Bertram.

Stamp Fair

OSLO (CP)—The international stamp show here next June in connection with Norway's postal centenary will feature stamps belonging to 325 world collectors and dealers, including some from the royal collection in Britain. Value of the exhibits is estimated at more than $4,000,000.

EDINBURGH, Scotland (CP)—W. M. Snadden, Scottish undersecretary of state, told the annual meeting of the National Farmers Union of Scotland that some 63,000 acres of Scottish farmland have been lost to agriculture in the last two years through industrial and other development.
