

Why is it that nearly all aged persons are thin?

And yet, when you think of it, what could you expect?

Three score years of wear and tear are enough to make the digestion weak. Yet the body must be fed.

In Scott's Emulsion, the work is all done; that is, the oil in it is digested, all ready to be taken into the blood. The body rests, while the oil feeds and nourishes, and the hypophosphites makes the nerves steady and strong.

Beecher and Ingersoll.

Col. Ingersoll was thrown one day into the society of Henry Ward Beecher. There were four or five gentlemen present, all of whom were prominent in the world of brains. A variety of topics were discussed with decided brilliancy, but no allusion to religion. The distinguished infidel was of course, too polite to introduce the subject himself, but one of the party finally, desiring to see a tilt between Bob and Beecher, made a playful remark about Col. Ingersoll's idiosyncrasy, as he termed it. The Colonel at once defended his views in his usual apt rhetoric; in fact he waxed eloquent. He was replied to by several gentlemen in every effective repartee. Contrary to the expectation of all, Mr. Beecher remained an abstract listener and said not a word. The gentleman who introduced the topics with the hope that Mr. Beecher would answer Col. Ingersoll, at last remarked:

"Mr. Beecher, have you nothing to say on this question?"

The old man slowly lifted himself from his attitude and replied:

Nothing, in fact, if you will excuse me for changing the conversation, I will say that while you gentlemen were talking my mind was bent on a most deplorable spectacle which I witnessed to-day.

"What was it?" at once inquired Colonel Ingersoll, who notwithstanding his peculiar views on the hereafter, is noted for his kindness of heart.

"Why," said Mr. Beecher, "as I was walking down town to-day I saw a poor, lame man with crutches, slowly and carefully picking his way through a cesspool of mud in the endeavor to cross the street. He had just reached the middle of the filth, when a big burly ruffian, himself all bespattered, rushed up to him, jerked the crutches from under the unfortunate man, and left him sprawling and helpless in the pool of liquid dirt, which almost engulfed him."

"What a brute he was!" said the Colonel.

"What a brute he was," they all echoed.

"Yes," said the old man rising from his chair and brushing back his long white hair, while his eyes glittered with their old-time fire as he bent them on Ingersoll—"yes, Col. Ingersoll, and you are the man. The human soul is lame, Christianity gives it crutches to enable it to pass the highway of life. It is your teaching that knocks these crutches from under it and leaves it a helpless and rudderless wreck in the slough of despond. If robbing the human soul of its only support on this earth—religion—be your profession, why, ply it to your heart's content. It requires an architect to erect a building; an incendiary may reduce it to ashes."

The old man sat down, and silence brooded over the scene. Col. Ingersoll found that he had a master in his own power of illustration, and said nothing. The company took their hats and parted.

What he Paid to Preach.

When I was rector of a church in Baltimore, says an Episcopalian bishop, I used to see a dear old lady in the garb of a Quaker very often in the congregation of the church. One of the wardens said to me:

"Mrs.—is a great friend of yours."

"I am glad to hear it," I replied.

"Yes," said the warden, "she said to me: 'I love to hear your pastor preach,

Never put off for tomorrow what you can do today.

If you think you are not getting value or the money you pay out every week for groceries, try us to-day.

but I should like him so much better if he did not receive any money for it."

"But," said the warden, "he pays $20,000 a year for the privilege of preaching to us."

"Does he, indeed? And how so?" asked the old lady.

"Well, we were both educated at the same time, we are about of an age, and I earn $23,000 a year at my profession, while he only receives $3,000."

"I tell thee," said the dear old Quaker, "I shall always hear him hereafter with a great deal more pleasure."

A Thought for Every Day,

There's many a thing for you to do,
My lad, if you but knew it,
That's sent to you, and only you—
Don't let another do it.

Don't let another lift the load
Your back was meant to carry;
Don't think your task were done as well
By Tom or Dick or Harry.

Don't say God's work can wait to-day
'Twill do as well to-morrow;
Don't put your own will always first,
And count His service sorrow.

Don't wait till you are strong and wise
Trust him to gauge your burden;
And then at last trust Him, my lad,
To give the well-earned guerdon.
—C. W. Gregory.
