

MR. AND MRS. JOHN ARSENAULT

Couple Pledge Vows At Seven Mile Bay Church

St. Peter's Church, Seven Mile Bay, was the setting for the marriage of Annette Frances Richards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Richards, Fernwood, and John Edmund Arsenault, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Arsenault, Kensington, on September 6, at 9 a.m. Rev. Reginald MacDonald performed the double ring ceremony. Rev. Louis Callaghan and Rev. Louis Steele were in the sanctuary. Mrs. Irene Peters was organist and accompanied Miss Betty Blacutire as she sang, "Panic Angelicus," "Mother Beloved" and "Mother at Thy Feet I'm Kneeling" during the nuptial mass and the signing of the register. The altar was attractively decorated for the occasion with baskets of summer flowers and gladioli.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attended by Miss Melba Richards, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, Mrs. Charles Tanton, and Mrs. Yvonne Gauthier, sister of the groom, as bridesmaids. Mr. Leo Arsenault, brother of the groom, was best man and Messrs. Stanley Godfrey and Leonard MacLellan were ushers.

The bride chose for her wedding a floor length gown of white silk organza, with a fitted bodice and full hoop skirt, featuring portrait neckline and sleeves coming to a point over the hands. Her finger tip veil of silk illusion was held in place with a crown trimmed with pearls. She carried a lace-covered prayer book and a cascade of red sweetheart roses.

The maid of honor was gowned in blue and white floral nylon organza, ballerina length, with matching headdress, and she carried a nosegay of pink carnations.

The bridesmaids were gowned in pink and blue net over taffeta, respectively with matching headdresses and nosegays of white and yellow 'mums.

Mrs. Richards chose for her daughter's wedding, a sheath dress of blue crepe with matching accessories and a corsage of white carnations. The groom's mother was attired in navy and white taffeta with matching accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception for sixty guests was held at the home of the bride, where the bride's table with its attractive arrangement of sweet peas and other summer flowers, was centred with a three tier wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom. Friends of the bride, who assisted in serving, were Mrs. Stanley Godfrey, Mrs. Frank Aylward and Miss Emily DesRoches. Miss Wilena Sherry was in charge of the guest book.

For the honeymoon trip through the Maritimes and Eastern States, the bride travelled in a green flowered shantung dress with beige accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Arsenault will reside in Summerside. The groom is employed with Kensington Feed Service and the bride is stenographer with the P.E.I. Mutual Fire Insurance Company.

Among the out of province guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Beck, Miss Judith Beck, and Miss Caroline Beaton, Halifax, N.S., and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Manuel, grandparents of the bride of Norris Arm, Newfoundland. — Photo by Heckbert Studio.

ELLEN'S DIARY

The Lean Brindle Cow Redeems Herself, Surely

This morning then, field-work suspended, interests were centred on shipping out from Alderlea to market odd ones of the grass-fattened young cattle. Since at this farm we depend in goodly measure on the sale of beef to keep respective hearths aflame any such disposal is naturally regarded as something of an event. Not that as beef-farming goes, we can lay any great claim to its volume, at the same time there were today those surplus ones of our own raising, and also the young subjects brought in last spring, and later, as feeders.

"Now let's see" James commented this evening when with Mack and the younger farmer, and sales slips at hand, they went into the disposal thoroughly. "What did that brindle one gain? You know which I mean. He was among the first we bought in the spring!"

"Yes" Mack giggled "he hadn't a pick of flesh on his bone then. There was nothing there but the frame—the running-gear I'd call it" he amended with a nod.

"He didn't do too badly at all" the younger farmer said consulting his slips. "Yes, made a nice little gain. This was certainly a great summer for pasture! I don't think we ever had it better."

"Oh me, oh my!" Papa Starling offered dismally from the garage-roof when we came to spread some pieces of wash on the clothesline below. "James declares we 'always take to the wash tub when there's any great endeavour of the farm in progress' meaning that instead of lessening it, we are inclined to add to the general confusion about!"

Papa Starling was garbed in his best bib and tucker, traveling hat in hand. We heard the dying rustles of the serf. "Take care of you serf. Doan we'd too ha'd!" "There's no danger!" we chuckled. "Have a pleasant winter and we'll be listening for your whistle come the spring!"

The truck bearing off the fat animals was now climbing the hill of road, outward-bound to the Highway. Mack was there tucked in, sitting-eyed between his grandfather and the driver. And why not? Not every school-boy had the privilege of riding off in a great multiple-wheeled vehicle into high adventure this morning!

And away goes the day now off on a breath of the dark. Until tomorrow—Diary—good-night.

TONIGHT

Do you know the reason why Witches ride across the sky On their brooms, with capes a-flying While the winds are softly sighing? The reason why is plainly seen For to-night is Hallowe'en.

Ghastly figures, in the gloom, Cast their shadows on the moon Crying, as the fit about, "Trick or treat, shell out, shell out!"

Jack o'Lanterns brightly gleam For to-night is Hallowe'en.

Don't you wish, like me, you might, Be young again, just for tonight. To tread familiar paths once more With childhood friends from door to door? Timid other nights we'd been But unafraid at Hallowe'en.

Then, welcome them, these children dear Witches, goblins, that appear. All too soon, their youth goes by And, e'er long, like you and I They will yearn for days of yore Cherished friends who are no more. Leaving them with memories keen. Of by-gone days at Hallowe'en. K.W.
