

Special Clinic For Children With Cerebral Palsy

A clinic for a special type of crippling was held at the headquarters of the Junior Red Cross Society yesterday when 20 children suffering from cerebral palsy, better known as spasms reported for examination.

The children varying in ages from a year and a half to seventeen showed the various stages of this congenital disease from the younger ones who were unable to sit up to the older ones who walked hesitatingly or with the use of braces and support crutches.

Dr. T. B. Acker, orthopedist from Halifax was assisted by Mr. F. G. Welland, President of the Colchester Cerebral Palsy Association, Nova Scotia. Mrs. Welland has had many years of experience in the training of this type of child.

munique said the Eighth Army had assumed responsibilities previously assigned to U.S. army forces in Korea. This force, headed by Maj.-Gen. William F. Dean, has been discontinued, it added.

Despite heavy Australian-American air support, hard-pressed American and South Koreans were rolled back all through Wednesday by a vastly superior number of men and tanks flung southward by the Communist invaders.

The Associated Press said that for two days Americans have been Kum River south of Chochiwon withdrawing across the winding while a rear guard detachment tried desperately to stall the North Korean drive.

The new positions on the south bank of the river are only 13 miles from Taejon.

Reuters News Agency said that even though heavy transports poured into Taejon with reinforcements, "there was still considerable chance that the help was 'too little and too late.'"

A spokesman at advanced American headquarters announced the latest retirement across the Kum. Much of it was carried out in daylight — "the toughest kind of military operation," he told an AP correspondent.

Reuters said that although aerial activity against the invaders' ground forces was intensified, Russian-built Yak fighters flew unopposed Wednesday over Taejon airport "as though looking for a light." A Yak later shot down an American army observation plane directing strafing operations.

Chochiwon, only 23 air miles northwest of Taejon, fell earlier Wednesday when the Communists moved through a fog in overwhelming numbers.

"Rodent Operator" Has King Puzzled

CALLINGTON, Cornwall, Eng., July 12—(AP)—The King today came face to face with a pretty example of Government gobbledegook.

He was as confused as many a commoner in the same spot. The King, the Queen and Princess Margaret were here to visit the Royal Cornwall Agricultural Show.

At the Ministry of Agriculture exhibit, the King was introduced to a lively dark-haired girl. "Miss Joan Morley," said a Ministry official, "rodent operator for Cornwall."

"Rodent operator?" echoed the King. "What's that?" "It is a new name for rat catcher," she replied. "The King shook his head. "Who," he sighed, "thought that one up?"

Large Crowd Views Keen Boat Racing At Souris Regatta

The Town of Souris was en fete yesterday when the first Regatta in 45 years was held in the well-known fishing centre. Hundreds of spectators from Eastern King's and more distant parts thronged the picturesque town and moved to vantage points to view the boat races.

There were boats from Murray Harbour North, Murray Harbour South, Gasperaux, St. Peters, Montague, Bristol, Fortune, Annandale, North Lake, as well as Souris itself participating in the program.

Spectators, reckoned at over 2,000, viewed the various power boat events from the breakwater, Government Wharf and "The Hill." The town was gaily bedecked with flags and bunting and a real holiday air prevailed.

Promoted jointly by the town and hospital, the Regatta proved a big success and bids fair to become an annual event in future years.

Following the conclusion of the afternoon program supper was served and the evening program concluded with a mammoth dance. Regatta honours in the power boat events went to Billy Graham of Gasperaux who piloted his sleek craft "Citation" to three victories. He finished first in the 6-cylinder car engine race, first in the 100 cc engine special event and in the final outstripped his competitors in the Free-For-All.

One accident, happily not serious, marred the otherwise smoothly run program. In the 6-cylinder class the craft "Phyllis H", piloted by Preston Higginbotham, and "The Bunt", piloted by Billy Harris, collided on a turn. "The Bunt" was hit side on and foundered. The "Phyllis H" escaped damage. Both craft were from Murray River. No occupant suffered serious injury.

In a short address His Worship Mayor Edwin LaVie thanked the people for their attendance at the Regatta—the first since 1904. He expressed thanks to those who had worked so hard to make the event the success that it was and also commended those who had taken part in the various events. He expressed the hope of seeing one and all next year.

Free gasoline for boats taking part in the races was furnished by Imperial Oil, through their representative Bruce Stewart.

The sound system by which the events were called and described was operated by Paul Sharpe.

Power Shortage Looms In Winnipeg

WINNIPEG, July 12—(CP)—Manitoba sees a power shortage ahead unless Winnipeg and the Provincial Government can get together soon.

City and Province are deadlocked over control of Manitoba's chief sources of hydro-electric power. Negotiations have been going on for two years.

Winnipeg—the city-owned hydro system and the Winnipeg Electric Company—owns the best existing power sites. The Manitoba Government wants to expropriate the properties and set up a hydro authority for the whole Province.

The impasse is holding up plans to develop power sites to meet increasing consumer demand. Experts agree that a start must be made this year on new undertakings if a serious shortage is to be averted in 1952.

It takes 24 months for delivery of generating equipment for new plants. Winnipeg is threatening to experiment with steam turbine generating facilities unless the hydro tangle is straightened out by Sept. 1.

Fear of dim-outs similar to those in Eastern Canada two years ago may spur both sides to compromise.

British Scientists Speed Research In Cancer Treatment

LONDON, July 12—(Reuters)—British scientists are shortly to use a 30,000,000-volt synchrotron, which produces gamma and X-rays of high energy and penetrating power, in the treatment of cancer cases.

Announcement was made today in the annual report of the British Empire Cancer Campaign, central body co-ordinating cancer research throughout the Commonwealth. It said research into the use of radioactive material against cancer is "growing apace."

The report added that at the University of Saskatchewan, Saskatoon, during the last year, 23 cancer patients, considered beyond normal surgical radiation methods, had been treated experimentally with the 25,000,000-volt betatron—an improvement on the atom-smashing cyclotron which fires off radioactive particles at tremendous speeds.

Conclusions on the treatment were not yet available. The synchrotron, only machine of its kind devoted exclusively to cancer work, had been "running" very satisfactorily for the last year at the Royal Cancer Hospital in London on experimental work. It would shortly be used clinically.

Using X-rays of more than 17,000,000 volts, researchers at the hospital had succeeded in making animal tissue radio-active. But the induced radiation was too small to be of significance in the conditions studied.

East Germans Going To Korea?

BERLIN, July 12—(AP)—Reports multiplied today in Berlin that detachments of East German police troopers in new field-grey uniforms are being shipped to mysterious destinations.

A senior United States intelligence officer said he is inclined to agree with one theory, that if the units are being sent out of Germany their mission is to some Communist point in Southeast Europe such as the Yugoslav border.

He did not exclude the possibility, however, that the police are being dispatched to Korea. The Berlin anti-Communist press has been reporting recently that East German police would be used in "international brigades" being formed for intervention in Korea.

OBJECT IN SKY—The "flying saucers" came back into the news here last night as several people reported seeing a fast moving burning object about 9:30. A Mount Stewart man driving in a truck about Belvedere corner reported seeing the object hurtling towards the ground with a trail of fire emitting from its tail. The object he stated was disk shaped in front and appeared to have a long tail. It appeared to be falling about the jail, he added, and suddenly disintegrated into flying sparks. Discusses Problem Of Hopelessly Ill

By Alton L. Blakeslee

LIEGE, Belgium, July 12—(AP)—Should doctors have the right to let old, hopelessly-sick persons die by not trying any longer to keep them alive?

The question is raised by Dr. Jacques Roskam, professor of internal medicine at the University of Liege Medical School.

Killing a patient to end the pain of hopeless illness is called euthanasia. Dr. Roskam opposes that. He says it might open the door to murder for money and barbarism.

But, he says perhaps omission of treatment is an answer to a growing problem of aged persons paralyzed by brain diseases and living only like plants or vegetables.

Dr. Roskam posed the question to the first international conference on gerontology—the science of aging. It should be considered from medical, legal, economic, religious and sentimental aspects, he said.

Would it be right or wrong? Dr. Roskam, tall, white-haired, alert, puzzled, spread his hands in inquiry.

For 17 months, he said, a woman has lain unconscious in a hospital, unable to do the slightest thing for herself.

There is no known means yet of correcting her trouble, no hope. Should several doctors, the family, the court, the patient himself be asked to talk, have the right to stop trying to keep this life spark glowing?

It could be done simply, Dr. Roskam pointed out, by stopping feeding for example.

Or should doctors continue deliberately prolonging such lives?

Jet Planes Too Fast For Maps

OTTAWA, July 12—(CP)—Canadian jet planes are so fast they are virtually flying off the map.

Defence officials said today the jets are so speedy that maps currently in use, drawn to scale of about eight miles to the inch, are little use to them. They contain too much detail.

The Department is considering obtaining maps of a different type with less detail. However, a new set of aerial maps for the whole of Canada would be so expensive a job that the Department is weighing all factors before deciding to make a change.

One difficulty with existing maps is that a jet pilot travels at such high altitudes and high speeds that he runs off the map before he can fix on a landmark.

Crown Corporation Reference Withdrawn

Mr. Horace Wright, chairman of the Workmen's Compensation Board has withdrawn his reference to the Supreme Court in Banco of the question whether the P. E. I. Industrial Corporation is or is not owned or managed or controlled by His Majesty as represented by the Provincial Government. The question had not been taken up by the Court because of a preliminary objection that the reference should have been by the Board and not by Mr. Wright. At least two other matters are to come before the Supreme Court today. An appeal against the Crapaud jobsite under the Village Services Act and the reference regarding the divorce jurisdiction of the Supreme Court.
