Liston Vs. Clay, Tonight

One of the most puzzling questions in the history of professional boxing will be answered at Miami Beach Convention Hall tonight. Is Cassius Clay actually good enough to climb into the ring against Sonny Liston?

A 22 year old fast talking Olympic gold medal holder, Clay, has never faced a fighter with a reputation like Sonny Liston. Perhaps the best he has faced, Doug Jones, made Clay go the limit before the Lip won by a referee's decision after 15 rounds.

Liston on the other hand, has scored such impressive wins in all of his recent fights that promoters have been scared to engage anyone to fight him for fear of failure at the gate. Patterson lasted 126 seconds on one occasion Cleveland Williams two rounds one time and three a second.

Boxing experts who have been in favor of the Liston-Clay meeting ever since Cassius proclaimed he would win the world title several months ago say that Clay has fleetness of foot, that his hands are fast and that he has more than enough courage. Experts have also said however, that he can "take a punch". But "taking a punch" and taking one of Liston's punches are two different things.

Following Clay's match against Jones, Ring magazine's Nat Loubet wrote about Cassius: "He showed no knowledge of pacing, was tiring rapidly, much more than his older opponent in later rounds, and made mistakes like backing up to get out of range of hard blows instead of falling into an opponent. He carried his left hand too low and after tossing a punch dropped it even lower."

Gene Tunny said of Clay: "I would like to train that kid for a couple of years and there's no doubt he could be the world champ . . . he has the stuff but needs a lot of seasoning . . . a remarkable embryo who could blossom . . . he just isn't ready. "

We're still with Liston as we said in an earlier column, and don't think Clay will be around for the seventh round. To pin it down we expect a knockout in the fourth.

Dart League Having Successful Year

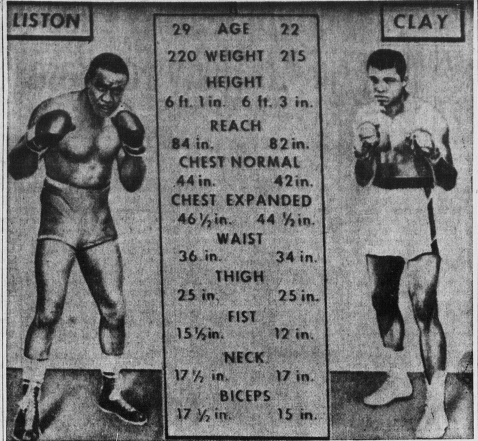
The seven team Charlottetown Inter-Club Dart League is having its best season to date, president Peter Kays told us the other day, with large numbers of persons turning out to the competitions held at the various city clubs each Thursday night.

Sixty games have been played in the league and the Charlottetown Legion team, captained by Edward MacCabe, leads the pack with 70 points. In second is George Garnhum's Sportsman's Club, and Main Brace, Charles Weatherbie, capt.; Charlottetown Armouries Seargent's Mess., Percey Storey, capt.; and the Rod and Gun Club, Leo Duffy, capt., are tied for third place. Tied for seventh place are the RCAF Association, Louis Kay's, capt., and the RCN, Queen Charlotte, Don Claybourne capt.

League playoffs will begin April 16, the teams competing for the Kays Bros., Trophy. An Island playoff series will be arranged with Summerside for later in the summer and the winner will go against the mainland for Maritime honors. This weekend local clubs will journey to RCAF Station Summerside for an exhibition series.

Off The Cuff

The Charlottetown Legion Juveniles didn't waste much time with the SUMMERSIDE KINSMEN'S team at the Forum Sunday, walking off with an 11-0 win. The two teams will meet in Summerside this Sunday afternoon .... UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO BLUES, senior incollegiate hockey champs, may not compete in the national finals scheduled for Kingston next month because the tourney is too close to final exams. ST. DUNSTAN'S has an excellent chance of representing the Maritime Conference at the championship .... MURRAY HARBOR appears a good bet to go all the way in provincial Intermediate "B" playdowns if their showing against Montague means anything. The Harbor boys captured the series in four games and are now playing SOURIS BRUINS for the county title. BILLY COLLINS, switched to New York in the weekend deal that sent Andy Bathgate to Toronto, scored two goals for his new Denver team Sunday night as they made sure of at least a first place tie for the Western Hockey League pennant.



HOW THEY SHAPE UP

Big Battle Goes Tonight; The Lip Vs The Ugly Bear

By JACK HAND

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Heavyweight champion Sonny Liston, an ominous 7-1 favorite, is expected to button the lip of Cassius Clay tonight at Convntion Hall in a heavyweight title fight that could be a shocking $5,000,000 mismatch.

Is Clay a hoax? Or a new golden boy? The true story of this 22-year-old former Olympic champion will be told when he has to put up or shut up against the man he calls "that big ugly bear."

The gabby poet from Louisville, unbeaten in 19 pro fights, has been popping off so long that his spiel sounds like a recorded message from an answering service.

"I'm the king. I'm the king. I'm the greatest. Ain't I beautiful? I'm too pretty to be a fighter. I'm going to whup that ugly bear. If he whups me I'll crawl across the ring and kiss his feet. I'm predicting eight to prove I'm great."

That is the Clay party line, delivered with the glibness of a carnival pitchman while he stares out into space.

USED PUBLICITY

A publicity campaign, patterned after that used by the late Georgeous George, has hoisted him into the No. 1 spot among the challengers although he has beaten few name fighters while compiling his record with 15 knockouts.

Because of Clay's "Big I am" speeches, this curious match may gross as high as $5,000,000, largely through closed circuit television which has 1,103,451 seats available at 271 theatres and arenas in the United States and Canada.

The 15-round match is scheduled to start at 11 p.m., AST.

Liston needed only two minutes and six seconds to knock Floyd Patterson loose from the title at Chicago in 1962. The menacing mauler who now makes his home in Denver took care of Patterson at 2:10 of the first round in their rematch last July at Las Vegas.

"You'll be going home btween the first and third rounds," Liston told newsmen Sunday with the semblance of a smile on his grim, expressionless face.

Bill MacDonald, a Miami sportsman who guaranteed a live gate of $625,000 at 16,000-seat Convention Hall appears to be sure to take a licking. He also has to pick up the tab for expenses which put the nut close to $800,000.

CHEAP SEATS $20

With the top ticket for the golden circle prices at $250 and others ranging from $200, $150, $100, $50 to a low of $20, there has been a decided apathy at the box office.

Hard figures are impossible to come by. One estimate said $330,000 was in the till. It appeared that $500,000 would be about the best the promoters could hope for, although the house is called for over a million dollars.

Depending on the turnouts at the closed circuit outlets, Liston could get as much as $1.3 million and Clay as much as $600,000 for the night's exercise. Liston gets 40 per cent and Clay 22½ per cent.

However, Liston also is the president and a 50 per cent owner of Intercontinental Sports, Inc., the parent promotional group, which gets 37½ per cent of everything.

The delay between Clay's highly publicized mouthing before, during and after the second Liston-Patterson fight at Las Vegas and this match has dulled the appeal of the glib snake oil salesman. Reports connecting Clay with the Black Muslim movement, a Negro supremacy sect, also have eaten into the Louisville Lip's gate appeal.

SOBER THOUGHTS?

There are some who think Clay, the man who says he "floats like a butterfly and stings like a bee" will have some sobering moments of thoughtful contemplation in these hours before ring time. They will watch carefully for any signs of panic at the weigh-in.

Each expects to come in at around 215 pounds, but it will not be surprising if both are under that figure.

Clay, at 6-foot-3, is two inches taller than the powerful champion with his ham-like fist and 17½-inch neck.

Liston flattened Patterson with his left hook after slamming to the body with his thumping right hand. Most observers expect Clay to run and move from side to side in an effort to confuse and tire his 30-year-old opponent, who has fought only six minutes, 14 seconds since Dec. 4, 1961.

Clay's last outing was in London where he stopped Henry Cooper last June 18 after being knocked down.

The champ has won 28 straight and boasts a 35-1 record with 25 knockouts. The only man to beat him, Marty Marshall, who did the trick in 1954, has been on the scene, telling everybody how he did it.

VISITS RING

Clay visited the Convention Hall site Monday morning to check up on the ring that was being set up in the arena where pianist Van Cliburn played to a sellout crowd Sunday night.

Cassius, accompanied by his brother, Rudy, and other members of his group, wore his "Bear hunting" outfit, complete with heavy boots but, for once, was not doing much talking. Both fighters were scheduled to go into seclusion until weigh-in time.

The Miami Beach Boxing Commission will name a referee and two judges at ring time. They will score the fight on the 10-point must system by which the winner of a round must get 10 points and the loser nine or less.

The boxers will wear eight-ounce gloves. The mandatory eight-count rule will be in effect for knockdowns. If a fighter is down when a bell rings, the count will continue. The bout will not be stopped automatically if a fighter is down three times in one round.

Practically no betting was reported on the result. The usual pre-fight poll of boxing writers showed only two of 30 picking Clay. The only wagering was even money man-to-man that the fight would not last more than five rounds.

The pick here is Liston in three on the theory that Sonny knows best.

The Ugly Bear Has Been Beat

By WILL GRIMSLEY

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The man who beat Sonny Liston says it can be done again. But you have to throw away the book.

"You got to confuse him, keep him off balance," says Marty Marshall of Detroit. "And don't let him tag you with that left hook."

On Sept. 7, 1954, in Detroit, Marshall, a tall, lean Negro, scored an eight-round decision over the current world heavyweight champion—the only loss on Liston's record.

"I scouted Liston in two fights before I met him," said Marshall, here for Liston's title defense tonight against Cassius Clay.

"I noticed he used a long, left jab and kept his right hand cocked. So I figured out a campaign. I moved from side to side, and counter clockwise instead of the normal clockwise.

"He never hit me once with that murderous left hook of his. He just kept grazing my left ear."

CONSIDERS COMEBACK

Marshall, 33, now a receiving clerk in a Detroit paint factory, hasn't fought in four years but said he was contemplating a comeback to try to repeat his 1954 victory.

"I weigh 197 pounds, only about three pounds over my best fighting weight," he said. "I'd like another shot at this fellow."

After losing to Marshall in 1954, Liston avenged the setback with a sixth-round technical knockout in 1955 at St. Louis and won on decision in 1956 at Pittsburgh to make it two-out-of-three.

"Liston is a much better fighter than when I met him," Marshall said. "He snaps that left a lot faster and he has shortened his right cross.

"But he's still no ballet dancer. He can still be whipped by a man who is smart, patient and uses the right strategy. One thing is sure—you can't go by the book.

"Clay is fast enough and he has the artillery to do it, but I think he will get too careless. Sonny will catch him in the sixth or seventh round and the lights will go out."

Marshall, father of five children, added that it isn't easy for him to forget the shots that knocked him out in that second fight in 1955.

"Nobody ought to hit a mule that hard," he said.

Manitoba Rink Is Defeated In First Round Of Ch'ship

By JOHN SHORT

EDMONTON (CP) — A costly miss by skip Myrtle McGregor of Manitoba with her last rock allowed Alberta to join the first-round winners in the Canadian women's curling chempionships Monday.

Mrs. McGregor attempted to punch out two Alberta rocks with her final delivery but missed and allowed skip Mickey Down's foursome to collect three for a 9-8 victory.

British Columbia, Saskatchewan, Ontario and New Brunswick also won first-round games. British Columbia scored five on the final end to topple a surprisingly tough Newfoundland rink 14-7. Saskatchewan tripped Quebec 11-4, Ontario stopped Nova Scotia 11-7 and New Brunswick held off Prince Edward Island 11-9.

The favored B.C. rink skipped by Ina Hansen of Kimberley trailed Tinker Rockwell of Newfoundland 5-2 after the first three ends and 7-5 after six. But the 1962 champions scored singles on the seventh and eighth ends to pull even and went ahead to stay with two in the ninth.

NO DIFFICULTY

Saskatchewan, skipped by Janet Perkin of Regina, had no difficulty with Quebec after the third end. Quebec skip Anne Phillips was short with a draw to give up three on the fourth and narrow with an attempted takeout on the seventh to give up one when she had a chance to count four.

The Rene Snow rink from Nova Scotia gave Helen Hanright's Ontario rink from Ottawa a scare.

Nova Scotia led 4-0 after two ends. But Ontario moved ahead 5-4 after the fifth. The game broke open on the final end when Ontario plugged the front end to wipe out Nova Scotia's last-rock advantage.

Prince Edward Island skip Mary Nicholson of Montague needed a double with her last rock to count three and tie the New Brunswick rink led by Joan Callaghan of Bathurst. Mrs. Nicholson was narrow, however, and counted only one.

CROWD OF 500

The Alberta - Manitoba game captured most of the interest of the crowd of nearly 500.

The Down rink, from Dawson Creek, B.C., represented the Peace River block of B.C. in the Alberta playoffs and earned an upset victory. The Peace River district is affiliated with the Alberta Curling Association.

In the second draw of the first day of the 10-team round-robin competition at 8 p.m. MST, Alberta met Nova Scotia, Quebec met British Columbia, New Brunswick met Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island met Ontario.

Legion Juveniles Shade Saints 4-3

Buck Whitlock's Canadian Legion Juveniles defeated Jimmy Cullen's Saints 4-3 in a very exciting and fast hockey game played Saturday evening at the SDU rink. This was the main attraction of the SDHS Sports Night.

The score was 1-1 at the end of the first period, and 3-2 for the Legion at the end of the second period; the Legionnaires had to battle for the win against the determined SDHS highschoolers who came close to upsetting Buck's boys. Jerry Kane was a real sparkplug for the Legion as were Frank Robinson, Rex McCarville, Carl McQuaid and Blaine Jelly for the SDHS team.

Jerry Kane sank two goals for the Legion with singles going to Joey Brown and Herbie Steele. Cyril MacDonald, Cecil MacDonald, and Andy Arsenault scored for St. Dunstan's.

In the preliminary of the would-be partner race Marilyn Doyle and Carl McQuaid finished first; Margie St. John and Rex McCarville finished second; Deryl Dunsford finished third but was disqualified for not having a partner.

Some 400 fans attended the Regatta which ended on a happy and successful note.

Legion Defeats Welshmen 7-5

The Charlottetown Legion Juveniles send the Bill Mulligan coached Welshmen down "via the old back road" last night by defeating them 7-5 in their last regular league game of the Charlottetown and District Junior League, played at the Forum last night.

This defeat means the PWC boys went through the season winless. Although the Welshmen seemed to be on the verge of winning on several occasions throughout the schedule but though they seemed to have the ability to score goals but were not so potent when it came to holding the opposing team down on the scoresheet. Although they didn't take home any honors the Welshmen did a lot for this newly formed Junior League in that every time they took to the ice they gave it "the old college try" and most fans felt they were sure to come through on several occasions.

The Legion's smooth skating and slick passing line of Kennedy, Flood, and Weatherbie was the backbone of the Legion's scoring attack in the last nights fixture; with Kennedy leading the way with a "hat trick".

Henry Cooper Wins Ch'ship

MANCHESTER, England, (AP)—Henry Cooper scored a 15-round decision over Brian London Monday night and added the European heavyweight boxing championship to his British and British Empire titles.

Cooper, a 29-year-old Cockney called Our 'Entry by British fans, came in at 188¾ and London, also of England, weighed 209¼.

It was the third time Cooper and London had met and the third time Cooper had won by using an educated left hand. Cooper first won in 1956 and won the British and British Empire championships with another decision, over 15 rounds, in 1959.

It was Cooper's sixth straight British heavyweight victory, and the one that made him the first man in history to win two British heavyweight belts. Fighters get one belt for successfully defending their title three times and another for three more successful defences.

Cooper, who suffered a fifth-round knockout by Cassius Clay last June 18, has held the British title since 1959.

Cooper opened a cut over London's right eye in the third round and kept it open with a jabbing left hand most of the rest of the way.

INTERRUPT OVERTIME

MONTREAL (CP)—Two cautious patrolmen phoned headquarters after hearing "strange noises" Sunday from within the Royal Bank of Canada building on downtown St. James Street. Minutes later, a fleet of patrol cars surrounded the entire block.

Seth Martin Is Favorite

VANCOUVER (CP)— According to Canadian Olympic team members Canada's goalie Seth Martin of Trail, B.C., is one of the most famous hockey players in Europe.

"Everywhere we went people wanted to know 'which one is Seth?'" said Bob Hindmarch, the teams general manager.

Another indication of his popularity was at the Vatican when the team was waiting to see the Pope one day last week, and a Swiss guard turned to coach Father David Bauer and asked: "Which one is Seth Martin?"

But goalie Martin was home in Trail.

Hindmarch, trainer Johnny Owen, team doctor Gerry Nestman, and players Henry Akervall, George Swarbrick, Bob Forhan and Jack Wilson, who returned during the weekend, showed disappointment and resentment at not having won at least a bronze medal.

They said the rule which gave the bronze medal to the Czechs was passed at the last minute. They said Canada would have it if goals for and against were taken only for games involving the first four teams.

But they said the rule was changed at the last minute to include all games.
