There has been a steady demand for choice fresh eggs, and the market for such goods is full firmer than last week. But a large proportion of the receipts, especially of western, are badly affected by the hot weather, and give poor satisfaction even if handled with the greatest care. Eastern extras are in short supply at 17c. P. E. Island, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, when choice and fresh, sell very well at 14c. Western take a wide range, from 13 to 14c, for fair to extra marks.

There is not much change in the provision trade. The market for pork and lard remains dull, with prices a shade easier. Hams are steady and in very good demand. Beef quiet and easy.

Meeting at Mount Stewart.

A large and influential meeting of the electors of Mount Stewart and surrounding country was held in the hall at that place on Friday evening last.

Mr. James B. McEwen was appointed chairman, which position he fairly and impartially filled. It was mutually agreed that 30 minutes each be allowed the candidates, and 20 minutes to the other speakers.

Mr. Vesey (Opposition) was the first speaker, followed by Mr. Ross, of Mount Stewart, the Government candidate. Then Mr. Smith (Opposition) followed in turn by Mr. Nicholson (Government). Then Hon. Mr. Ferguson and Mr. F. Peters, M. P., addressed the electors, and it was conceded by many present that the Government supporters were by long odds the superiors of their political opponents, and clearly and ably sustained the actions of the present administration, and demonstrated beyond a doubt that the party in power is the most economical, as well as the surest and safest to be entrusted with the management of our public affairs.

Free trade and Dominion politics were introduced by some of the Opposition would-be Legislative-Councillors, which, however, as Mr. Ferguson said, the Councillors had no more control over than school trustees had.

That Mr. Ross and Mr. Nicholson will be elected there is little doubt. The hall was filled from the platform to the door. The very best of order prevailed, and all the speakers got a good hearing.

After a vote of thanks was tendered the chairman, the meeting quietly dispersed.

National Division

The forty-sixth annual session of the National Division of North America opened at Ocean Grove, New Jersey, on Wednesday morning, July 9th. About 130 representatives were present from the different States and Provinces—from Prince Edward Island on the north to California on the south.

At the public reception on Wednesday evening, Judge Ransom of New Jersey presided. The address of welcome was given by the Rev. Dr. Stokes, which had just been wired from New York, and which created a profound feeling of regret on the large audience assembled. He cordially and eloquently welcomed the N. D. to Ocean Grove. Rev. A. G. Van Aken also tendered a hearty welcome on behalf of the G. D. of New Jersey. The M. W. P. Rev. R. A. Temple, delivered an able address in reply. The venerable W. E. McDonough, of Brooklyn, sang with the usual effect "The Old Oaken Bucket." E. H. Clapp, of Mass., and B. J. Dennison, of Penn., also spoke. Miss Nellie Stearns, of New York, sang a beautiful temperance ode.

The business sessions of the National Divisions are held from 9 to 12 and 2 to 5. Thursday afternoon the officers were duly elected, and are as follows:—

- M. W. Patriarch—Edward Crumme, New York.
- M. W. Associate—George R. Bill, Connecticut.
- M. W. Scribe—Benjamin R. Jewel, Massachusetts.
- M. W. Treasurer—James H. Roberts, Massachusetts.
- M. W. Chaplain—Rev. A. M. Palmer, New Jersey.
- M. W. Conductor—James Brooks, Ontario.
- M. W. Sentinel—J. B. Dungee, Maryland.
- P. M. W. Patriarch—Rev. R. A. Temple, Nova Scotia.

Superintendent of Young People's Work—F. M. Bradley, Washington.

A memorial meeting was held in the Auditorium on Friday afternoon, at three o'clock, the hour of the funeral of General Fisk in New York, when the National Division were invited to attend in a body.

The place for holding the next annual session is fixed for St. John, N. B., on the second Wednesday in July.

Boston Markets.

Boston, July 10.

The demand for potatoes continues active and prices are still ruling high. On Monday receipts were pretty full and sales were generally at $3.75, but since then all good lots of Rose and Hebrons have been selling readily at $4, and at the close bring $4.25. Most of the supply is still coming in from Virginia.

There is but little change in the general condition of the fish market. Codfish keep closely sold up. Box herring in fair supply and steady. Barrel herring quiet. Mackerel firm, and all arrivals selling readily at quotations:—

New York Sweltering.

THE THERMOMETER TOUCHES 100 DEGREES—AN UNUSUAL RECORD.

Only twice in the last nineteen years has the weather been hotter in New York than it was on the 9th. Huidant's record shows that on Sunday, July 9, 1876, the mercury rose to 101°. The day before the maximum register was 99°, and for the following week it kept up in the 90's, climbing on the 12th to 95°, and on the 13th to 99°. That made a very hot week for the town, and the day of 101 seemed worse, probably, than it was, because of the prostrating effect of the previous day. In 1879, on July 16, the maximum of 101 degrees was again reached. Since those two days in 1876 and in 1879 New York has not known a day when the mercury got past 99° in the shade until the 9th, when 100° was registered. When people were asleep at 3 a. m. it was 73°. At 6 a. m. it was the same. A slight mist hung in the sky at 9 a. m., and with the heat at 78°, and the humidity 80 per cent, it was really uncomfortable. Finally at noon the sun sent the quicksilver up to 89 notch. Up, up, up went the mercury, until at a little after 3 o'clock it touched 100° in the shade. There it stuck. It was 99° at 5 o'clock, and even at 6 o'clock, when the volcanic sun was just getting his hottest rays upon the summits of the Sierra Nevada, he was strong enough on Broadway to keep things at 97°. It seemed as if it would stay there for hours, but at 7 o'clock there was a quick decline, and at 7:30 the mercury was 99°. When the 9 o'clock observation was taken it was 88°, but it seemed hotter. Only 13 cases of sunstroke are reported.

The United States man-of-war Saratoga, while leaving Plymouth, Eng., a few days ago, struck on Duke rock, but backed off within a few minutes. The damage was slight and the Saratoga proceeded to Southampton.

The town of Lethbridge celebrated its fifth birthday by taking a census of its population. The growth of the place is typical of the steady progress of our North-west settlements. Five years ago Lethbridge consisted of a few tents, but now it contains 1,478 souls, the number of men being 789, women 181, and children 408. The population is English-speaking, largely from Great Britain and Nova Scotia, though Hungarians, Belgians, Swedes, Germans and French are to be found there too.

Fault has been found with the British authorities and people for not extending needed help to surviving members of the Light Brigade which made the famous charge at the battle of Balaklava. A relief fund is being raised in England, and the Secretary for war has explained that "the difficulty of drawing a line between the survivors of the Light Brigade and the men who performed the duties assigned to them with great gallantry and even more hardships before Sebastopol and during the Indian Mutiny is insuperable. It must always be borne in mind that in many cases those now unprovided for are men who, either through misconduct or insufficient service, are absolutely disqualified for pensions, and it is manifestly impossible to require the taxpayer to provide funds for their support." A committee consisting of the Duke of Cambridge, Lord Hartington, Lord Wolseley, Sir Ralph Thomson and Mr. Stanhope are now engaged in raising a fund to be applied to the benefit of needy heroes.

Early and Late Cut Hay.

The opinion is common that early cut hay is more valuable for feeding purposes, than what is cut when fully ripe, and that the early cut does not tend so much to exhaust the soil. The first idea is correct, but the second is not. From experiments made in 1888 at the State Agricultural Experimental Station of Vermont, it was found that in many instances the feeding value of early cut hay was fully one dollar per ton more than that of late cut hay. It was found, however, that the late cut hay had not extracted so much of fertilizing properties from the soil in proportion to the whole weight as that cut early. There are two reasons for this: First, in the later stages of growth other substances than fertilizing constituents are taken up faster in proportion to the increase of weight; and second, some of the former are washed out by rain. Were it not that the feeding value of the early cut is greater than of the late cut, it would be better to let hay get fully ripe, but this difference in feeding value more than counterbalances the loss in comparative fertilizing properties. It follows then that the farmer who feeds his hay, especially to dairy cows, gets the best value when the same is cut early, but when it is sold he gets most the crop who cuts it late. The fertilizing value of hay is computed by ascertaining the respective amounts of nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash which it contains, multiplying these by the market value of each, and adding the products.

It follows then that cutting a crop in the early stages of ripening does not tend to conserve the fertility of the soil growing it.

According to a despatch from Chicago there is to be a general revolution in the Central American Republics. The old slow-going ways a revolution in even a section of a republic is an event of prominence, but in these times of syndicates, trusts and aggregation of capital few revolutionists are coming the business of making revolutions for all Central America. Thus is the centralizing tendency of the age reaching on its all-conquering way.
