

Resources Group Sees Experimental Farm

Highlights of Tuesday's meeting of the provincial resources council was a two-hour tour of the Experimental Farm in Charlottetown.

The council was invited by farm superintendent Robert Parent to hold its September meeting there. Mr. Parent is also chairman of the development council.

In its business session, the council discussed ways of handling ARDA projects by local groups and the executive committee of the council was instructed to set up machinery for dealing with these projects which will go into effect under provisions of the federal-provincial agricultural rehabilitation and development agreement.

Three major research projects were discussed. The projects which have culminated in reports to be issued within a month deal with a directory of provincial government personnel and technical information available; a similar directory of federal personnel and a manual of operations for sub-committee development.

It was decided that at future meetings of local development groups that 20 minutes of time will be given over to discussing methods and techniques of community development.

Most council members felt that the time has come for the council to move into the field of agricultural research and development. It was stated that much research in agriculture has already been done and it is now necessary to work out plans

Deceptive Packaging Denied Despite Consumer Beefing

By GREG MACDONALD, Canadian Press Staff Writer

There is no "deceptive" packaging by Canadian manufacturers, says Lynn G. Jamison, general manager of the Packaging Association of Canada.

Consumer groups use the word "deceptive" to describe any and all complaints about packages and products, says Mr. Jamison, "but it actually means a deliberate act to cause a false impression."

"We have definite government regulations on packaging and the manufacturer must give prescribed information as to contents in the proper place and the size of a package must not give a misleading impression of the contents."

He said that problems exist with products that fill a pack-

Stewart Signed For Full Season

OTTAWA (CP)—Halfback Ron Stewart will play the full season with Ottawa Rough Riders of the Eastern Football Conference and also attend law courses at Osgoode Hall in Toronto, the club announced Monday.

General manager George Topley said that 27-year-old graduate of Queen's University has agreed to terms and will sign a contract with Riders for this season with an option for next year.

Knicks Obtain Gene Conley

The announcement clears up Stewart's status which has been in doubt since the start of the training season. Coach Frank Clair said then that he would not allow Stewart to commute between the gridiron and his law studies as he did last year.

Stewart failed to pass examinations and Clair felt his play suffered because he could not attend enough practices.

"Ronnie has assured us that he will be able to practise more often this season because of his school schedule and, because of this, coach Clair has agreed to allow him to commute," Terlep said.

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Knickerbockers of the National Basketball Association obtained Gene Conley, 6-8 centre, from Chicago Zephyrs in exchange for Phil Jordan, a centre, and Cliff Lusk, a rookie from the University of Florida Monday.

Conley, star pitcher with the Boston Red Sox, will report to the Knicks at the end of the baseball season.

Board Hears Wage Views

Next meeting of the provincial labor relations board to hear representations on a minimum wage for the province will be held next week when representatives of the Charlottetown and District Labor Council will be invited to attend.

Tuesday night the board met with representatives of the Charlottetown Board of Trade and other members of the business community to discuss minimum wage regulations.

Board chairman C.R. McQuaid said yesterday that such matters as whether or not regulations should be province-wide, over-riding and exceptions to the regulation were discussed.

"We heard from business men," he said, "and we intend to hear the views of labor at our next meeting."

Blight Causes Alarm Among N.S. Producers

KENTVILLE, N.S. (CP)—The Nova Scotia Potato Producers Association has expressed concern over the severity of blight infection to the Nova Scotia potato crop caused by almost continuous rain of the last three months.

High L. Parer, secretary-treasurer of the association, said here that this summer was one of the worst farm seasons in the history of the province.

Kenneth A. Harrison, a plant pathologist at the Kentville experimental farm, said the wet conditions have made a lot of spraying impossible because spraying equipment couldn't operate in the rain-soaked fields.

There was a feeling at the meeting that should the rain continue, many fields would be impossible to harvest, the only solution the association could offer farmers was to continue to spray wherever possible to combat the blight.

Intemperance's Deplored

BANFF, Alta. (CP)—Alcohol intemperance is deplored by Western diplomats in new countries, says Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson.

Speaking Tuesday in a convention of the Canadian Women's Christian Temperance Union, he said Europeans have introduced the alcohol habit to emerging countries and one of the earmarks of Western empires is the cocktail party.

Mr. Thompson spent several years as a technical adviser in Ethiopia. He is a teetotaler.
