OVERPAID HIS SAVING.—According to an exchange, a farm laborer died recently in Lunenburg, Annapolis, whose wages while he could work were $3.60 a week, as he never took above a working holiday and a cowman. He was able to work until he was 73, when he had worked no less than $1,000. On this he managed to live for twelve years longer, with a little help from his former employers, then, as he cultivated his saving, he had to be relieved by the Poorlaw official, leaving a pauper at 87.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

Meeting at Pownal—More Cream Wanted—Some Points to be Noted.

Speeches by Messrs. Dillon, Moore, McKee and McDonald.

A good audience was present in Pownal Hall on Friday evening. Many of the farmers of the district were present. Mr. Alfred Dewar, President of Hazelbrook Cheese Factory, occupied the chair. Mr. Dillon was the first speaker. He began by saying that he wanted to get more cream, and make more butter at the Central Creamery. A thousand pounds of milk could be manipulated there to every hundred pounds that is manipulated now, and the expense would be very little more. He desired to urge upon farmers who have cows, to feed them well and keep them in milk as long as possible. Some farmers are letting their cows go dry already. This ought not to be done while oats and other things are as cheap as they are to-day. Not a single bushel of oats should be sold from the farm at less than fifty cents a bushel. A great deal of oats is sold from this Island, and some of it goes to Denmark, where it is turned into butter, which is sold in the British market. We ought ourselves to feed this oats, and have it turned in the finished product right here. Mr. Dillon explained the testing of the milk, and the conditions on which the Government dealt with the farmers, and showed that there was good economy in sending cream to the creamery rather than in making butter at home because the fat globules in the milk are smaller than in summer time and do not separate as readily on account of the greater amount of fibre in the milk. A considerable proportion of the butter fat is necessarily lost in the home process, but all is extracted by the creamery. Proceeding, Mr. Dillon spoke of the work of last season, pointing out that about $200,000 had been made last year out of the milk supplied by about one-third of the farmers of this province, and half of the creamery supplied only half the milk they were able to state that, reports to the contrary notwithstanding, the cheese now manufactured in Montreal is all right, and is somewhat superior to that made last year. His desire was most of all to enable the farmers to make money and to put them in the way of doing so. Whether the cheese or the butter is the thing for the farmers that we have now on the market 23,000 boxes of excellent cheese. Poverty is a great drawback, a great curse to everyone. He had no doubt that if the dairy industry were intelligently and unitedly engaged in, there would soon be plenty of money circulating among our farmers to meet all their reasonable requirements. But organization is essential. By organization the farmers of Canada had carried off the most of the cheese prizes at Chicago, and more recently not less than $945 out of a $1,000 offered in a sheep competition held in New York. Organization and cooperation are essential to the success of the business. Besides that we need cold storage in order that steam vessels may be induced to call here and take our products directly to the British and for the cheese, etc. No less than $2,833.26 had been paid this year as cost of shipping our cheese to Montreal and trucking and warehousing it there. This amount would have gone a long way towards the erection of the cold storage warehouse that is wanted here. Mr. Dillon was repeatedly applauded.

Mr. John Moore produced a diagram showing the results of the experiment made at the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa, that the separator process extracted a much larger amount of butter fat from the milk than either deep setting or shallow setting. He advised giving each cow a half gallon of crushed oats night and morning, besides a good ration of hay and straw. If turnips have to be fed, let it be done immediately after milking, not before. Mr. Moore also explained the best treatment of calves. Calves should be taught to drink from the start. For the first three weeks they ought to have plenty of new milk. After that they might be given skimmed milk with a little carefully boiled flax seed emulsion thoroughly mixed in with it. He congratulated the farmers on the success of Hazelbrook and Hillsborough Creameries, and the Hillsborough establishment for fruit and vegetables, then delivered a short and pointed address. He showed that every patron of the Vernon River factory would have to sell nearly 300 bushels of potatoes at 12 cents per bushel to obtain the money that had been received for the cheese produced this year by their factory, and pointed out that in the production of butter and cheese, the farmers were not extracting the soil as in growing potatoes to sell abroad. He said there must be industrial life in this country if it is going to prosper, and referred to the folly of permitting iron, steel and coal to be taken from New Glasgow, Nova Scotia, thousands of miles into Ontario, to be manufactured into machines and implements for the farmers of P. E. Island. He then spoke of the new venture in which he was personally engaged, viz., the canning of fruits and vegetables, showing that there had been an encouraging development, and that the canned goods of this Province had been well received by the trade. He traced briefly the history of the canning industry in the United States, and concluded by calling on our young men to develop the resources of the Province, quoting in this connection the words of Shakespeare:

Do not take any substitute when you ask for the true blood purifier, Hood's Sarsaparilla. Insist upon Hood's and only Hood's.

IN PRAISE OF PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND AND ITS GOVERNOR. (By a Canadian Correspondent of the Canadian Gazette.)

Are you not a little disposed in England to overlook the really remarkable strides which maritime Canada is making in the arts of peaceful progress? The wonders of the vast prairie West are doing your thoughts that you are inclined perhaps at times to forget that we in the East are also making records of which Canada has good reason to be proud. I am thinking especially of little Prince Edward Island. Do you know that some of the best of the cheese on your English tables comes from this little province even though it is no bigger than your county of Norfolk and its population is little more than that of Norfolk's county towns, Norwich? During the last four years so much special attention has been directed to dairying that farming has been revolutionized on the island. For this we have largely to thank the Federal Government. Last year from the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa have been lecturing the farmers on the most approved modes of making butter and cheese, and now factories are established in nearly all the principal settlements. As many as twenty-eight cheese factories and two creameries have been in operation during the past season. All the leading agriculturists are alive to the importance of this growing industry which has, even in its infancy, done so much for the province, for Prince Edward Island cheese brought half a cent a pound less in the English market than any other Canadian cheese.

And it is just to mention one man among those who are taking an active part in fostering this new industry—I refer to the Lieutenant-Governor, the Hon. George W. H. Wilson, a gentleman still in the prime of life—who, for over thirty years, has been one of the Island's foremost legislators. His name has been associated with pretty well every undertaking for the welfare of the island, and the building of telegraph and railroads, the purchase of proprietary estates, the union with Canada, and the development of improved means of communication with the mainland. Mr. Howland has indeed been one of the most active, and naturally enough, when he came to the retirement of the Government House, he found time hang heavily on his hands. He set to work to visit a large number of the schools and higher educational institutions. He also turned his attention to the annual exhibitions of agriculture and local industry, which, more than a quarter of a century ago, he had himself assisted in establishing, and which have since been expanding and increasing in importance. After four of these had been successfully held and disposed of, Mr. Howland undertook a tour of the butter and cheese factories, at each of which he addressed a meeting of the farmers and their wives and daughters, in words of practical advice and encouragement.

Here was ample scope, and the result is suggestive of the field of practical usefulness which is open to a Lieutenant-Governor. In the course of one of these visits, made a few weeks ago, to the Marshall cheese factory, the Lieutenant-Governor extolled the profession of agriculture. Why, he asked, should so many young men leave the farm to go abroad and work in the factories of America? Their million-acre farms (Prince Edward Island) had openings for them, all under a system of mixed farming. As compared with other portions of Canada, their farms were in a good financial condition, and all that was necessary to make farming a success was to prosecute it on intelligent lines. Every implement ought to be held out to the boys to remain upon the farms, and they should be educated so that the brain would help the muscle.

At all the meetings addressed by the Lieutenant-Governor he has stressed the urgency of the cultivation of fruit, and he has read letters received from Professor Saunders, director of the Experimental Farm at Ottawa, asserting that the conditions of the Island are highly favorable to the growth of apples and smaller fruits. Considerable shipments of canned apples, pears, beans, cucumbers, plums, cherries, etc., have been made in the last two seasons. This is a branch of industry in which great things may be done.

"We may say that we never had a Lieutenant-Governor who has done more, or seemed more anxious to advance the interests of our people, both commercially and socially, than has our present Lieutenant-Governor. Without flattery we must say, while not of his political faith, he has loaned his office, his time and his influence to the bettering of the condition of our people."

"If You Should Die To-night!" Well, it would be your own fault, if it was consumption that took you off, and you refused to take Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, which has been pronounced by scientists to be a positive cure for that dread disease. If you have any lung trouble, if you are threatened with consumption, use not an hour in obtaining a supply of Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil. It is the great blood maker, and blood is what is wanted by the consumptive. Miller's Emulsion is the great nerve strengthener and blood maker, and cures Coughs, Colic, Bronchitis, Scrofula and all lung affections. In big bottles, 50c. and $1, at all drug stores.

spare, put into the mouth of Henry V. at the battle of Agincourt: "He who hath no stomach to the fight, Let him depart. His passport shall be made, And crowns for convoy Put into his purse; We would not die in that man's company."

Mr. John T. McDonald gave a number of good points to the farmers on the course of a short speech. He dwelt upon the necessity of good food and pure running water for the cow, as well as absolute cleanliness in the handling of milk. Rev. Mr. Turner asked whether or not the cheese was affected by permitting why to be taken home in the cans. Mr. McDonald replied and said that the why must not be allowed to stand in the cans.

Mr. A. A. Moore, of Pownal, complimented Mr. Dillon upon the excellence of his speech as well as upon the excellence of his work for our cheese and butter factories. "When he is taking so much interest in the business," said Mr. Moore, "what interest should we take?" Mr. Moore said also that he felt proud of the young men who are taking an active part in the dairy industry and helping to make it successful.

Mr. McCabe desired to say that he was highly pleased with the addresses to which he had listened. He wished that he could persuade an additional number of farmers to cooperate in the production of butter and cheese. From his own experience he was convinced that it would pay better than selling the raw products of the farm. Last year he had one of good clover hay. The product he fed to a cow for five months. She gave on the average 20 lbs. of milk per day, equal to 600 weight per month, worth $4.20, amounting in five months to $21. If he had cut the milk, and sold it he would have had about 2 tons worth $12 in Charlottetown. He would have had to haul it, pay the ferrage, and stand upon the market square until it was sold; and moreover he would have lost all the manure produced from it—a sufficient quantity to manure the acre over again. Another experiment had proved to him that crushed oats fed to cows would increase the yield of milk to such an extent as to make oats worth at least 34 cents per bushel for feeding purposes. He advised the farmers to try these things.

Mr. Robert Jenkins moved the vote of thanks which was seconded by the Rev. Mr. Turner in a neat speech.

Mr. Dillon responded for himself and the dairymen present, and Mr. W. L. Cotton, of THE EXAMINER, responded on the part of the press.

HE HAD NO DRUM. "Toot, toot! Gallop and prance, Along the roadside, early, Why the little horse seems 'most to dance, But Ben looked sad and surly. "Toot, toot!" What is it Ben? Why, what can be the matter? Toot, toot! the trumpet make noise enough? And do you want more clatter? "Toot, toot!" "I want a drum," replied the soldier Benny. "Most every boy has a drum to beat, And I—I—have not any." "Toot, toot!" "Your trumpet's fine, Your soldier-cap is surely The prettiest cap that ever was made." "Yes," answered he demurely. "Toot, toot!" "But, then I want To have, just like the others, A drum and sticks; then I could go And drum for the big brothers." "Toot, toot!" the trumpet called; The horse goes patter, patter; But little Ben he has no drum; And that is what's the matter. —Jennie Harrison.
