HER CHIEF GLORY.

Woman's Hair and the More Recent Ideas as to Its Treatment.

Female ingenuity in devising new fashions for dressing the hair has done very much to harm it. Happily, since the atrocious fashion of wearing the hair in a chignon or waterfall has been abolished, very little false hair is worn, and the graceful, easy style of wearing the hair to-day makes it possible for a woman with very little hair to dress it prettily. Curly or wavy hair is an advantage, and the possessor of it is the envied of her sex, as the possibilities of pretty arrangement are greater, and it lends softness to the face. Women with straight hair have to resort to curling irons and crimping tongs, which are very injurious. The heated iron applied to the hair burns the ends, however careful the user may be, and their persistent use dries the life and color out of the hair, leaving it dry and harsh to the touch.

Now that the frizzled bang has passed away, and woman's forehead is seen again, the curling iron has, in a measure, lost its usefulness, but it is still in evidence on most dressing tables, as fashion requires that the hair be "undulated," and women prefer its soft effect rather than the severity imparted by straight hair drawn off the forehead. The leading hairdresser of Paris a few years ago invented a new "undulating" iron, and with it introduced the style of hairdressing made so popular by Mme. Hading. The women of Paris saw and admired, and Henri's fortune was made. He charged an exorbitant amount to dress the hair, $8, but nevertheless women stood in line outside his shop awaiting their turn as men stand at the box office of the theatre at the opening of the opera season, and not infrequently a woman of speculative turn would sell her place in line for a very good price to some one more anxious than she to get in. The effects of this crimping was soon apparent in the broken ends of the French women's hair.

Brushing is the best tonic, and is absolutely necessary if one would have bright, glossy hair. The bristles of the brush should be long and of medium stiffness; not sharp enough to irritate the scalp, but of sufficient body to penetrate thoroughly the hair. Half an hour should be devoted to this brushing night and morning. The best way is to part the hair in the middle and down the back and taking each side separately run the brush through at least twenty-five times to a side. The good effect will be noticeable in a very short time, and will well repay the trouble. This brushing, besides bringing out all the natural gloss of the hair prevents dandruff. If one is troubled with it, vaseline rubbed well into the scalp will help it.

Women make a grave mistake in washing the hair too often. It is popularly supposed that a washing is necessary once a week to keep the head clean but it is not so. Brushing will keep the scalp clean and free from dust, and a shampoo is only necessary once a month. Every woman has her own recipe for a shampoo, but pure Castile soap and enough borax to soften the water is as good as anything. Ammonia should not be used unless the hair is very oily. In that case a little is very good, but otherwise it tends to make the hair dry and brittle. Soda used as a hair wash will turn dark hair to a dirty red-brown color and kill all natural lustre.

A well-known physician, Dr. Fox, who is now dead, gave a prescription for a hair tonic to a patient several years ago. She found in it a wonderful invigorator for the hair, and gave the prescription to several friends, who in turn told others about it, until now druggists keep it as a regular stock in trade.

It is a liquid, made of vegetable ingredients, and is called "Green Soap." Hairdressers are divided in their opinions of the efficacy of singeing the ends of the hair instead of cutting it. Some hold that it seals the hair, keeping life in it, and preventing the splitting of the ends that is so annoying. Others maintain that it really causes the hair to split.

It is pleasing to be able to say that bleaching the hair has almost become a past fashion. The woman who has given an artificial color to her hair regrets it in time. It is generally begun with the idea that one application will last a lifetime, but when it is discovered that it is necessary to "touch it up" at least once a week, as the new growth appears, the constant repetition of the process soon becomes annoying. Many women, repenting of the folly of coloring the hair, have had it cut off rather than risk the glare of daylight on their variegated locks.

Most women have a horror of turning gray, feeling that it indicates the encroachment of years. Premature grayness is very common, and may be attributed to various causes. Sometimes it is due to an absence of iron in the blood. It is common among people of an anæmic nature, and sickness often causes the hair to change. People who suffer from neuralgia generally show very gray at the temples, and the fact that hair suddenly turns gray through fright or intense worriment has been so positively proved that there is no doubt of its occurrence. Gray hair is always beautiful with a young face.

FLANNELS MUCH USED.

Straight and Diagonal Checks Are Seen in Many Varieties.

Flannel stuffs are now used to such an extent that, while formerly they were only classed as staples, they can now be included among the novelty goods. Tasteful styles are now being produced in cotton flannels for next summer. The favor for checks in all combinations finds its expression in the large number of such patterns on flannels. Straight and diagonal checks are shown in the new color combinations of fuchsia red, cherry red or cornflower blue, with white, heliotrope and cream. Tasteful effects are obtained in checked flannels by the addition of small dots, stars or blossoms in relief.

Besides the well-known velvet qualities the satin flannels are also well represented in the collections. These make a good show. They are seen in new patterns with fine stripes or small checks, with small embroidered dots. Satin flannels with Himalaya stripes are seen, but they look too wintry, while with fine mohair stripes the collection is richer. Here are also seen new color combinations, the new blues with fuchsia red and reseda stripes, etc.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

MARVEL OF HYPNOTISM.

An exhibition of hypnotic anæsthesia was witnessed at Chicago on Nov. 7th, in the office of Dr. Farnum. Prof. Roche produced a young business man of Kanakee who was suffering from a bruised finger nail. The case was not serious, but involved treatment of one of the most sensitive of the nerve centres.

"The operation is one," said the doctor, "which would make a man flinch, even under an ordinary anasethetic."

The patient in a minute became as one in a profound sleep. While in that condition the flesh was laid back from the root of the nail, and the membrane cut. There was not the slightest tremor visible on the patient's face, neither did the finger flinch from the operation.

The strangest part of the experiment consisted in the young man's ability to converse and answer questions, although under the most perfect hypnotic influence. Even the flow of blood from the wound was stopped at the professor's word of command, a fact which caused the assembled doctors the greatest surprise.

All the witnesses say it was a marvellous exhibition.

GENERALLY PRESCRIBED.

The Idea that Bright's Disease cannot be cured Proven to be a Fallacy.

QUEBEC, Nov. 5—Local physicians are much gratified over the letter of Dr. A. G. McCormick, of Bichmond, this province, testifying to his cure of Bright's Disease, by the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Since the introduction of the remedy in this city, many physicians have not hesitated to prescribe the pills, and numerous cures have been the result. This latest testimony, coming from so well known a medical man, proves that the local men were right in changing the old-time remedies for Dodd's Kidney Pills. Hence their jubilation.

Cause and effect; constipation is the cause of a host of diseases. Hawker's liver pills cure constipation, thereby preventing its consequent ills,

Widow (sorrowfully)—yes; for the second one.—Truth.

Tom—Yes, I understand she says she won by a neck.

THINGS TO REMEMBER.

A cold in the head is the first cause of cattarrh.

Cattarrh is an unhealthy disease and is often followed by consumption.

Hawker's cattarh cure positively cures catarrh, cold in the head and all catarrhal troubles.
