

N. W. T. MACE TO BE DISPLAYED IN CHARLOTTETOWN

The Mace of the Northwest Territories Council is carried by a R.C.M.P. Constable. Fashioned from such native materials of the north as a narwhal tusk, ivory, native copper, and oak from a wrecked ship, the Mace is an outstanding example of the artistic ability of the Eskimos who made it. The Mace, which was commissioned by Governor-General Vincent Massey and presented to the Council by His Excellency in Jan., 1956 is being shown in various Canadian provincial capitals. It will be in the Confederation Chamber Oct. 30 - Nov. 20.

RELIGION AND LIFE

By Very Rev. George G. Pidgeon, D.D., LL.D.
First Moderator of the United Church of Canada

KNOWING HOW TO TELL ESSENTIAL FROM TRIVIAL

An Ontario schoolgirl wrote to the head of the Royal Bank of Canada asking the question: "Why do you think I should continue school and get an education?"

In a gracious answer, packed with wise counsel, there is this phrase: "Education, when of the right sort, helps you to distinguish between the essential and the trivial."

We recall that, years ago, the late Dr. J. A. MacDonald used to phrase "to discern (or distinguish) the things that differ." He was concerned over the tendency he noticed in certain churches to emphasize secondary virtues at the cost of the primary, and he was trying to bring them back to the essential things.

All Canada has been moved by the searching criticism of politics and politicians in the Province of Quebec by two professors of Laval University. When discussing the causes of the conditions they deplore, they mention the stress often laid by the church on the trivial in conduct rather than the essential.

It is not for us in Ontario to be shocked at the splinter in a sister province's eye when there may be a log in our own. Instead we should examine closely our own church's teachings lest we too are falling into this mistake.

A country physician used to say that he judged a preacher by his list of deadly sins. Under a certain ministry, he would add, he had heard of only four deadly sins, all four on the border-line between right and wrong and all four of which he intended to practise.

Some of us were acquainted with the conditions with which he, as a doctor, had to deal, and his church was certainly failing disastrously in her dealings with the real evils of the day.

Jesus dealt with this moral failure in His criticism of the religious leaders of His time: "Woe to you, Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites, for you the mint and dill and cummin, and have neglected the weightier matters of the law, justice and mercy and faith; these you ought to have done without neglecting the others. You blind guides, straining at a gnat and swallowing a camel." (Matthew 23: 23-24.)

But she must also be specific about what is right and what is wrong in the conditions of her time and place. Not only the church, but the home, the school, the servant as well as the master are called upon by the God to whom all must give account to state clearly and stand strongly for the right as they see it in their particular situations.

It is highly significant that the application of these Christian principles to the conduct of public affairs has been made a national issue by teachers in a great university. We are not allowed to forget that these men are primarily priests, ordained and authoritative religious leaders of their people. To such men these moral issues in politics must be governed by moral principles, and therefore belong to the ultimate, the universal, and eternal.

This is no mere provincial matter; it belongs as much to the national and international realm. "Righteousness exalts a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people."

"When there is no vision the people perish." Thank God for the prophets who speak in His name.

OWES A DEBT

The man whom Christ has redeemed and brought into the Kingdom of love, owes a debt which he can never repay, but he can contribute much toward it by the abandonment of love in an active ministry.

Professor John Campbell was once asked for a definition of "Conscience." He drew two circles on the blackboard, and labelled one "Right" and the other "Wrong," and then explained: Conscience tells you that you must do the one and avoid the other, but your education tells you what to put in each circle.

The Hindu mother puts into the circle "Right" throwing her child into the Ganges as a tribute to her god; the Christian mother puts such an act into the circle "Wrong," and considers it the child's right to have everything done for him that will contribute to his full development.

When the prophet Micah was asked what God required of us, he said: "To do justice, to love mercy (or kindness), and to walk humbly with God," a requirement as high as heaven and deeper than the sea.

Now the church has been called "the conscience of the community." As such it is her duty to emphasize the eternal obligation of the Right which man ought to do no matter what the cost.

SIGOURNEY, Iowa (AP)—Father William Weibler recited the mass of the Angels in Sts. Peter and Paul Church here Saturday at funeral services for the eight children of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hammes. The children, ranging in age from 1 to 9 and including two sets of twins, were injured fatally Thursday when the family car driven by their mother was hit by a train.

EXPERIMENTS

In experiments conducted for a period of over twenty years at the Charlottetown Experimental Farm it was found that feeder cattle could be housed locally, fed in stalls, or loose when deboned, during the winter months at a fair profit; that moderate quantities of roots or cull potatoes added to the ration, increased the gains and quality of the steers, as shown by the prices obtained for these lots when sold at auction or to the trade. A bulletin giving these details on steer feeding was issued in 1923 by the Dominion Department of Agriculture.

ANNUAL MEETING

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 30, 8 O'CLOCK

HOLY NAME HALL

NEWSY NOTES

By J. A. Clark, D.Sc.

FEEDER CATTLE

When in Moncton on October 15, it was our privilege to visit the Canadian National Railway cattle sheds near the Packing house of Swifts, and to see the stocker and feeder cattle as they were being assembled for the auction sale that was held on the afternoon of Tuesday, October 16, 1956.

We saw the cattle that were consigned to this sale, weighed off trucks, tagged, blood tested and sorted into uniform lots. There were over 300 head of Shorthorn, Herford and Angus cattle, and grades of these breeds. The majority of these were a medium grade of feeder cattle, with shorthorn breeds predominating.

SECOND FEEDER SALE

This was the second annual feeder sale sponsored by the New Brunswick Department of Agriculture and the Westmoreland, Kent and Albert County Federations of Agriculture. Some of the cattle had come from Lower Sackville, quite a long distance by truck.

The purpose of the sale was to assist in developing the cattle feeding industry by providing an outlet for farmers in the area who had young feeder type cattle for sale, and to make such cattle available in uniform lots, to farmers of central marketing points.

This sale should also remove from immediate slaughter, lightweight animals, so that as feeders they could be greatly improved in weight and quality, before they were offered at public auction, before being sold for beef. Because values would then be established on the basis of quality and by supply and demand, there were quite a number of young, small animals that looked to us rather out of place in such a sale. This no doubt was responsible for lower average price per pound at the sale, which we understand was 11 cents. The highest price per lot being 15 cents per pound and the lowest 7 cents.

Conditions of sale were: (a) Payment by cash or certified cheque. (b) Lots to be sold on a per pound basis. (c) The sale was financed by a deduction of 3 per cent on all sales.

All cattle were to be sold, consignors were not allowed to bid on their own cattle. The sales management reserved the right to reject any bid considered too low. The buyer became responsible for all animals when sold, but the management took care of them, under agreement, until shipping arrangements were made. The Clerk of the Sale provided each purchaser with the certified weight and the number of animals in each lot when sold, and provided him with a sales slip, which he signed, and which was his authority to take delivery of the cattle purchased by him.

OTHER FEEDER SALES

We note from the press, that in Northern Ontario at four different feeder cattle auctions, a total of 9,700 head were sold for over one million dollars. Prices generally were slightly lower than last year. Some steers sold as high as 22 cents per pound; at Thessalon, heifers sold for 14 1/2 to 14 cents per pound, and cows sold at from 4 to 10 cents per pound.

The 21st annual Feeder Show at Saskatoon Union Stock Yards, had an entry of 380 cattle. The judges stated that the cattle on sale showed an improvement over former shows. The championship pen of 10 calves and the pen placed in 4th place were owned by the same exhibitor; and both were sold at 19 cents per pound. The 10 calves that were placed second, brought 18 1/2 cents per pound. The best carload of 30 head of yearlings sold for 17 1/2 cents per pound. The reserve champion carload of two-year-olds sold for 17 cents per pound and the champion carload of calves sold for 16.3 cents per pound.

At the largest sale of feeder cattle ever held in Walsh, Alberta, 1,245 head of feeder cattle sold for $9,658.28 (Average $206.98. Nine carloads of yearling steers sold at an average of 18 cents per pound. The highest price paid was for two carloads of 650-lb. steers at 19.4 cents per pound. The highest price paid for a carload lot of yearling heifers was 14 cents per pound. They averaged 589 pounds each.
