TRYN NORTH SCHOOL.—THE PRIZE WINNERS.

The semi-annual examination of the Tryon North School took place on Friday afternoon, 29th ult. The Trustees of the school and a number of the parents of the children were present, all of whom were well pleased with the prompt answers and excellent deportment of the pupils. At the request of the Trustees, Mr. McRae examined the classes in reading, with a view of ascertaining who read the best in each class.

After a careful hearing Ida Dawson was pronounced best in 5th grade, Earnest Pooley in 4th, and Ida Ives and Leonard Wood equal in 3rd.

In Grammar, Geography and Arithmetic, the pupils gave evidences of careful and thorough training. The following is the Prize List:—

Department—1st, Maria Lord; 2nd, Matilda Wood.

Punctuality—1st, Deinstadt Calbeck.

General Proficiency, (Class 5)—1st, Ida Dawson; 2nd, (Class 4) Fred. Dawson.

Writing—1st, George Ives.

Geography—1st, Charles Ives.

Special Prizes—Lucy Keough, Diligence; Minnie Chisholm, Dictation; Charlie Dawson, writing.

At the close of the examination a handsome glass set and other valuable articles was presented to the Teachers by the pupils. Some of the gentlemen present took occasion to compliment the Teacher, Miss Bertie Fowler, on the excellent state of the school, after which the children were dismissed for the usual midsummer holidays.—Com.

Progress of Free Trade in the United States.

The Montreal Gazette says that if the Cobdenites of England headed in the most curious way the drift of public opinion in the United States, they would understand that fiscal protection as a principle of statecraft has a stronger hold upon the people than ever before. The presidential election in 1880 was won by the Republican party solely because of the widespread disbelief in the economic principles of its opponents. Every Republican convention which has met this year in preparation for the fall elections has declared unswerving allegiance to the principal of protection to home industry, and for the first time in its history the Democratic party has formally renounced its adherence to a tariff for revenue only, and adopted a fiscal policy which will encourage the development of native industries and protect the American workingman against the pauper labour of Europe. The mistake which the Cobdenites of England and Canada commit is supposing that a reduction of the American tariff so as to decrease the revenue and lessen taxation, involves a modification of protection to manufacturers. They hopelessly confound the question of a tariff for revenue and protection. That the United States tariff requires modification will readily be admitted. It would have been of infinite advantage to the people if the taxation had been materially decreased five years ago, for then they would have escaped the incumbrance of the corrupt and scandalous Penion and Rivers and Harbors jobs which Congress fastened on them. In spite of the largely increased annual expenditure which this legislation has entailed, there is yet room for a considerable curtailment of taxation beyond that made last winter. But they make a sad mistake who imagine that the reduction of taxation implies a modification of protection. So far from that being the case, the effect of the tariff bill passed by Congress at its last session has been to intensify the protection of American manufactures upon the whole, although it struck off sixty to seventy millions of revenue annually. Mr. Horace White was probably not far astray when he told the members of the Cobden Club that when the United States adopts free trade she will be England's chief competitor in the world's commerce, but that is not what the abstract free traders of Great Britain are driving at.
They desire a free trade in America which will place its markets under the control of England. Mr. White was looking forward to the time when, as a measure of protection, the United States shall seek free trade relations with other nations, when her manufactures have become firmly established, her population so large, the price of labor so moderate, and the national wealth so vast that an outlet for the surplus products must be found in foreign markets; and when that time comes we will find the Cobdenites transformed into thorough-going protectionists, clamoring for a tariff wall to preserve British markets against the encroachments of American product.

Excitement Caused by a Strangely Marked Egg.

IS THE END OF THE WORLD COME?

Moscow, Addington County, Ont., June 26.—While the little daughter of Wm.
Carr, who lives about three miles from here, was gathering eggs at the barn she found one that had the following in raised figures and letters on the shell, which were very plain and distinct:—

1883 The last year.

Under the word year was a scroll or dash, and under that a raised cross, on which could be seen the form of a man hanging; and on the opposite side of the egg was a spot that looked like a sun or moon. Considerable excitement is caused by it, many people believing it to be a warning of the consummation of the world. This is no hoax, as your correspondent has examined the egg carefully.—Toronto Globe.

Pills are unrivaled. They root out disease, as if by magic. [1w wklv
