A DAY AT JACKSON PARK.

Trip by the Water Route to the "White City."

AN ITINERARY FOR VISITORS.

How to Get a Fleeting Glimpse of the Great Show and Lay the Foundation for a More Thorough Inspection of Its Marvels—An Evening Visit.

Can one see the World's fair in one day? Well, he can see a great deal of it, much more than one would think. In truth, a very good general view can be taken in a day, including the evening, though of course there are many buildings the details of which would occupy many days.

First, it is to be a bright and pleasantly warm May day, and so the first visit should be made by water. We will start at the Van Buren street dock. The World's Fair Steamship company, which owns the dock, has four big boats running between Van Buren street and the World's fair grounds—vessels amply able to carry 15,000 passengers every hour, and if a crash comes the company operates enough smaller craft to double this capacity, not to mention the number of people the independent lines will carry.

We are taking the best possible method of seeing the buildings of the "White City." Not only can the very best view of the fair in its entirety be had from the water—that is, from the water—but every one of the most important buildings is to be seen to best advantage either from the lake or from the canals and ponds inside the grounds. From the water, too, every one of the larger and more important build-

Up here, past the Manufactures, is the Government building, which occupies 2.8 acres. We are passing up the lagoon now, between the wooded island and the east shore. We must take a walk about that island before we are through—now through this inlet at the right, leading out to the lake. Here on our left is the Fisheries building. It, with its two annexes spreading out on each side of it like a pair of wings, occupies nearly 100,000 feet of ground space.

Beyond this, on the left, right, and before us, are the fire and guard station, the life saving station, the clam bake, the light-house exhibit, weather bureau station, and so on. On the left are some of the foreign buildings, among them those of Great Britain, Russia, France, Germany and Sweden.

Now we will turn round and paddle up into North pond. We retrace the Fisheries building and find ourselves in the lagoon again, and out of this into the inlet leading to the pond. Skirting along the shore, we pass the buildings of some of the South American republics and find ourselves before the great Art galleries. West of the pond are a number of state buildings, those of Ohio, Indiana, and Wisconsin in the foreground. Ample provision has been made for the fine arts exhibit, nearly six acres being devoted to the gallery and annexes.

Here we are before the Illinois building, the largest state building of them all. It is a splendid structure, with a ground area of over three acres and a height of 234 feet. After a good look at Illinois' great building we find our way back into the lagoon, hugging the north and west shores. To the west, from the lagoon, is the Women's building, an affair which covers over 77,000 square feet. The ladies ought to feel proud of this building, particularly as it was designed by a woman—Miss Hayden of Boston, and our first trip is completed so far as of Milvny pleasure, which you will see later. Here are two or three unique small buildings—notably the offices of Puck and the White Star steamship line—and at the north end of the island are the Japanese buildings and garden, the latter of which is toward the lagoon. Horticulture is well provided for in the matter of

A. DEW, BARRIS, A.M., M.D., F.R.C.S., a man of culture and refinement, is Lecturer on Physiology and Hygiene in Acadia College, Nova Scotia. OF SKODA'S REMEDIES he says—

"I have carefully examined the formula from which they are constructed, and find they have been judiciously selected and are well adapted, for the accomplishment of the various ends desired. I believe the ingredients used, the BEST of their kind, and the PREPARATION should have a large sale, when placed before the general public."

The late Dr. P. A. Roberts, a leading Homeopathic Physician of Maine, said—

"No Remedies upon the market equal SKODA'S, in neatness and elegance of appearance. I believe Skoda's Germanina, Chlormercur and Skoda's Germanin Solum, are the most perfect remedies with which I am acquainted, for the cure of all SKID'S Diseases. I do not hesitate to recommend them as such."

GAY GONDOLIERS.
 The whole fair was built with these ends in view, and the plans have been judiciously carried out. That's why we are going by water to get our first view of the exposition.

Many will debar at the North pier, but let us go down to the farther pier and begin at Alpha—that is, the great peristyle representing Alpine Pleasure boats and yachts can land as well as steamers. On the south side of the pier as we land you can see the government's model battleship. Once ashore, we'll take a round on the movable sidewalk. It's nearly half a mile long, and we can get a magnificent view of the fair buildings and Lake Michigan as well from it. Now, if only this plan could be worked in cities, what a lot of shoe leather we might save!

Out there is the anchorage for big vessels. Closer in the pleasure yachts and smaller craft will anchor—that is, they will tackle themselves up to those anchored buoys you see out there. At night the buoys will be illuminated by electric lights. There is an anchorage for the pleasure yachts and the like up at Van Buren street pier.

First to be glanced through are the Casino and Music hall. The next thing is to try a boat—a gondola, of course, for the novelty of the thing. This is the main landing for the pleasure craft in the grounds on the south side of the basin, just north of the Agricultural building. The electric and steam launches have to make regular round trips, once every hour, covering the 8-mile course. There are so many of them—40 in all—and 24 steam launches—that they have to be kept moving with some regularity, excepting, of course, the steam launches in their afternoon and evening trips out into the lake. Maybe we'll go out in one before we get through. They start from this landing.

We first float by the Agricultural building. Our gondoller (he's genuine—a real Italian) must keep close into shore while we take a good look at the buildings as we pass them. Here we turn into the South canal and view the west end of the Agricultural building. You will see the annex presently. The Agricultural building is 800 feet long and 500 feet in width, and the annex is 300 by 500 feet—a matter of 13 acres covered by these two buildings.

These are the electric fountains at the lower end of South canal. They are among the great attractions at night. Over there, past the colonnade, is the stock pavilion, and beyond that are the exhibit yards.

Here on the west side of the canal is Machinery hall, next to the Manufactures building the largest structure on the grounds. It runs with its annex nearly 1,400 feet east and west. We will get a good look at it in a few moments, when we make a halt in the west end of the basin.

A VICTIM OF MARRIAGE.
 Henpecked Confesses That Matrimony is a Failure.

"Hain't been ary cyclone scootin' 'round these parts, has they, stranger?"

"Not unless she got by when my back was turned."

"Nary catamount with her back up, lookin' fer trouble?"

"Not lately."

"Nary compound extract of Calamity Jane en wholesale destruction?"

"Nary."

"Then I reckon I kin stop en breathe myself."

"Broke a faro bank at The Colonel's Own last night, en my wife's been arter me ever since with three knives, two guns an' her dander up. Say, I'm layin' low, I am. Liz wants a caliker dress, nalligator grip an' a dimun' ring, 'long with a ticket to Tombstone, so's she kin run down en see her folks. I don't object to sendin' her up the road, but I've got my eye on the bank at Jupiter Joneses, an' it'll take every dollar I've got to bust it en throw a dollar live, double-headed, foot. But that's the way with wimmen. No ideas of what's what. Ain't married be ye?"

"Well, I guess not."

"Young feller, yer in big luck, 'cause marriage is a failure, blamed if 'tain't. Say, I'm goin' over t' Jupiter's, an' if you run counter of a blizzard in petticoats runnin' that way, kindly lead 'er off en tell 'er you saw me makin' fer The Colonel's Own, an' obliged t' ye. Day, stranger."—Detroit Free Press.

ARNPRIOR NEWS

A LADY'S LETTER.

She Speaks Enthusiastically.

ONCE IN THE QUICKSANDS!

Now Safe and Out of Danger.

A WARNING TO THOUSANDS.

In our Canadian cities and town suffering, agony and sickness are hidden from public view; none but the sufferers and their friends know of the intense pain endured, and the long weary hours and sleepless nights that make life a misery on account of suffering and disease the majority of physicians work honestly, but too often in vain. These of our Canadian physicians who have broken down the barriers of professional etiquette and form, in order to save lives, have met with success. The medical men who have prescribed Paine's Celery Compound for rheumatism, neuralgia, nervous affections, sleeplessness, liver and kidney troubles, have obtained the grandest results for their patients.

Mrs. Eliza Page, of Arnprior, Ont., was strongly advised to use Paine's Celery Compound while she was suffering terribly; she, like thousands of others, had failed with the ordinary medicines of the day. Mark well what a work was done for her by nature's remedy. She says:

"I have been for many years a great sufferer from rheumatism and a complication of other troubles. About a year ago I was prevailed upon to try a course of Paine's Celery Compound, with a result so marvellous that my most intimate friends and neighbors could scarcely believe me to be the same woman. Formerly I could only move about with the greatest caution, now I am well and active and my general health is good. I believe Paine's Celery Compound will do all that is claimed for it."

Sufferer, are you willing to trust your life to the common medicines of the day, which have to record with our people; or will you take that grand medical prescription, Paine's Celery Compound, which has the approval of medical experts, and which has drawn forth so many honest Canadian testimonials?
