Water-front activity is reaching its peak as fishermen are tackling the spring work of putting their boats and lobster gear in readiness for the coming fishing season. Boats are being scraped and painted and engines are being installed. Traps which have been built and old ones which have been repaired and re-headed during the winter, are being hauled to the waterfront and pretty soon rope and anchors will be taken out of storage places and put in readiness. Every fine day from now to the first of May will see the tempo increase as boat after boat is made ready to take the water for another season.

Shipping Opens At Montague

Shipping officially opened in the Montague port yesterday with the arrival of the General Burstall, from Bellorum, Newfoundland, the vessel, under the command of Capt. Levi Kearly, will lead produce from local exporters. This is the first vessel, to arrive here this year, and another "Palfrey", is expected to arrive within the next week.

The arrival yesterday of the General Burstall makes a record for the earliest opening of or shipping on the Montague River. Last year the Dredge 116, completed the dredging of the river in the dock vicinity, and also the first course to MacEachern's Point. It is hoped that the dredge will return here this year to complete the work so that the Montague River will be completely open to heavy draught shipping.

Business Spotlight

By Forbes Rhude Canadian Press Business Editor. Canadians often are told that they don't invest enough money in their own country.

They are told that they are allowing American money to do the major job in developing Canadian resources; and that they are missing opportunities to share in the ultimate profit from these developments.

Their attitude is not told this with the idea that American money should be kept out, but with the idea that they should increase their own stake. Various investment firms have been conducting educational programs to teach people that investment is not only for well-off people, but is for anyone able to embark on a modest and balanced savings program.

The subject will get particular attention at the annual meeting of the investment dealers' Association of Canada at Jasper, Alta., June 11-14, when a full session will be devoted to a forum on public relations and education. Firms which have taken part in lecture courses across Canada will be heard from, and an examination made of the best ways of making Canadians more investment-minded.

Sugar And Publications

Canadian farmers received a record $17,242,000 for their 1950 sugar-beet crop, says sugar facts, published by Canada and Dominion Sugar Co. Ltd., Chatham, Ont. The crop totalled 1,115,699 tons from which 299,727,186 pounds of sugar was produced—by far the largest output in the Canadian industry's history, and one-third more than from the 1949 crop.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics has published "Canada 1951", described as an "official handbook of present conditions and recent progress." There are special articles on "our last frontier—the Canadian north" and "moving Alberta's black gold to market." Illustrations, some of them in color, show activities across the country.

The continuous current dynamo was invented by the Italian, Picinotti, in 1860.
