

Finance Minister Hears Pleas For Municipalities

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Harris was besieged by opposition pleas in the Commons Tuesday to help ease interest rates and credit curbs so that hard-pressed municipalities might find it easier to raise much-needed capital.

But Mr. Harris gave no indication of any plans to change federal policy. In time of inflation and when money was scarce all sectors of the economy found it difficult to raise funds without paying high interest rates he said.

"If a municipal corporation finds that as an elected body it has to choose between paying a higher rate of interest and postponing work it has in mind that is simply a responsibility which comes to all of us at one time or another whether it be the federal or a provincial or municipal government or indeed a business institution."

The question of the impact of federal policy on interest rates and the availability of investment funds arose during the Commons question period.

BOND MONEY TIGHT
Erhart Regier (CCF—Burnaby—Coquitlam) asked whether Mr. Harris was aware that Bank of Canada action was making it exceedingly difficult for municipal governments to market bonds at suitable interest rates. Would the federal administration consider supplying municipalities with low-interest funds?

"The question indicates a complete misunderstanding of the money market at the moment," replied Mr. Harris. "It is not the action of the bank which is causing the rise in interest rates; it is the demand on the money supply both in business and in government circles. The Bank of Canada interest rate is only a reflection of the increased interest rates in the money market."

J. M. Macdonnell (PC—Toronto—Greenwood) seemed surprised. Did Mr. Harris intend to say that the central bank had nothing to do with the interest rate prevailing at the moment, the Conservative financial critic asked.

Mr. Harris said he wanted to dispel the notion that the central bank "at sometime in recent memory consciously raised interest rates in Canada."

"When it is said the Bank of Canada rate was increased and thereby other rates were increased, it is just merely putting the cart before the horse, because it is the reverse."

RATE FLUCTUATES
Under new policy, the central bank's rate, now at a peak of 3.69 per cent, fluctuates from week to week, floating one-quarter of one per cent higher than the average yield on 91-day government treasury bills.

J. C. Van Horne (PC—Restigouche—Madawaska) maintained federal policies are having a crippling effect on the Maritimes, "the poorest area" in Canada. Mr. Harris denied it.

Hon. Earl Rowe, acting opposition leader finally asked whether there is any truth to rumors that the government will work with the central bank to reduce interest rates before next June, when a general election is expected. Mr. Harris did not reply.

LAVAL CHORISTERS
Deeply appreciated was the singing of a number of French folk songs yesterday by the Laval Choristers comprised of a group of French speaking students from St. Dunstan's University Glee Club under the direction of Rev. Adrian Arsenault. The singers appeared at the annual meeting of the Prince Edward Island Fishermen's Association annual banquet held at the Charlottetown. French folk songs are always a crowd pleasing performance and the students who took part in the chorus gave ample evidence of careful instruction both in harmony and timing. The applause they received was appropriately indicative of the manner in which they were received.

NEW DELHI (AP)—New Delhi newspaper editorials Monday sharply criticize the Russians on the disappearance of former Hungarian Premier Imre Nagy.

The Hindustan Sire Nagy, who was sympathetic toward Russia in the past—says the reported arrest of Nagy is an "act of such a mean, cowardly and perfidious a nature as will shock the conscience of the world."

The treatment given Nagy "is reminiscent and comparable to the French government's treacherous dealings a few weeks ago with the Algerian leaders," says The Standard.
