WAS FATHER SHOWING OFF?
A lesson learned through what you see.

May most effective prove to be.
—Old Mother Nature.

It is true. Things that you see are more easily remembered than things you are told. The furred and feathered mothers and fathers in the Green Forest know this well. So it is that often their children are shown things to do, and how to do them.

Gray Fox and Mrs. Gray had discovered that one of their three woolly-coated children had climbed a little way up in a tree. It filled them with pride.

"You never would see one of our cousin Reddy's children beginning to climb at such an age," said Gray Fox proudly.

"You wouldn't see them climbing at any age," replied Mrs. Gray. "You know our red cousins are not tree-lovers as we are."

"They don't know what they miss," said Gray Fox. "No, sir, they don't know what they miss. I think I'll show that little scamp who wants to climb just how it can be done."

A little later that very day when the children had come out after a nap, Gray Fox walked over to the foot of a tall tree.

There were no branches from the trunk of that tree for quite a distance above the ground. Gray Fox sat down for a moment at the foot of the tree looking up.

The three little Foxes watched him. What was he going to do? What was he looking up in that tree for? They looked up, but there was nothing up there to see.

Suddenly father made a quick high jump and hugged the trunk of that tree, digging his claws in as best he could, but really hugging the tree. He began to go up.

He was climbing very much as a boy climbs up a tree that he can get his arms and legs partly around. It is called shinning. Father was shinning up the trunk of that tree. Open-mouthed, and round-eyed, the three little Foxes watched him.

Presently he reached the first branches. From there on he climbed from branch to branch. He went higher and higher. To the small watchers down below the tree grew smaller and smaller.

When he began coming down, he came down carefully from branch to branch. When he reached the lowest branch he looked down at the three little watchers.

"Watch me now!" he barked, just as if the three little Foxes hadn't been watching him every minute. Carefully he began backing down hugging the trunk of the tree, much as he had gone up. When he was near enough to the ground he let go and dropped. Then he shook himself.

"Some day you'll be able to climb like that," said he.

"What did you do it for?" asked one of the small Foxes.

"Just so you could see how it is done," replied his father.

days in freetown last week.

Mr. S. Campbell, Charlottetown, as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe MacDonald recently.

Miss Aletha Brown, York, was the week end guest of Miss Lois Mutch, North River.

Mr. and Mrs. Leith Brown, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Abner Vessey and Mrs. Elmer Brown, motored to South Shore last week.

York School has closed for the holiday, and the teachers have returned to their respective homes to enjoy their vacations.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave MacDonald were visitors to York on Wednesday. They also attended the funeral of the late Ira Shaw, Charlottetown, formerly of Covehead.

Mr. Bonnell Ling, York, had the misfortune of breaking his cheek bone while playing ball Thursday evening on York School Grounds, and had to be taken to the P. E. I. Hospital.

Mrs. Edison Hardy and two daughters, Annabelle and Gloria, York, spent Wednesday in Charlottetown.

Miss Aletha Brown, York, attended a tea Saturday afternoon in honor of Miss Audrey Kitson, Hampshire.

Mr. Edison Hardy, Halifax, is spending the week end at his home in York with his wife and family.

Miss Christine Proud is spending her holidays at her home in York.

Little Judy Coles, Milton, spent Thursday in York.

Allen Brown, York, spent a few days in freetown last week.

A very enjoyable afternoon was spent on Friday, June 24, when the Pisquid East Women's Institute provided transportation for the pupils and their families to Stanhope Beach. The teacher, Miss Joyce Jay, had ice cream for everyone and chocolate bars for prizes for sports. Everyone from the oldest to the youngest enjoyed this annual picnic.

Miss Isabelle Birt, Charlottetown, spent the June 25 weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Birt.

Miss Shirley Jay left Moncton by plane Friday evening to spend the weekend in Montreal.

Miss Juanita Jay, Charlottetown, spent the June 25 weekend at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jay.

Miss Evelyn Woolridge returned to her home Sunday from Eureka, N.S., having spent the past month visiting her brother, Mr. Bruce Woolridge and Mrs. Woolridge.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By Josephine Culbertson

SMALL CARDS

WHEN experts talk about "intermediates" they are usually referring to tens and nines—it is rare indeed that lower cards can play a vital role, (except, of course, as establishable long cards).

However, no one can hope to play bridge as it should be played without giving due consideration to all the "spot-cards." Take the following case for example:

South dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

♠	K 10 8 4 2	♥	9 5
♦	A K 8 7	♣	J 10
♠	6 5	♥	7 3
♦	K J 8 6	♣	3 2
♠	4	♥	Q 9 6 5
♦	10 8	♣	4 2
♠	K Q 7 5	♥	A Q 9
♦	4	♣	A Q 10 7
♠	—	♥	J
♦	—	♣	A 8 6 4

The bidding:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass
2 ♠ Pass 4 ♠ Pass
3 ♠ Pass 6 ♠ Pass

Experts disagree over the proper opening bid on such a hand as South's, but the majority favor one club. It is only fair to observe, however, that South managed the bidding satisfactorily from the spade opening, and that the final contract was correct.

West, on lead against the slam, suspected that South had bid the club on the second round for the express purpose of discouraging a club lead, so he did not intend to lead clubs. West led down the club king. South won, drew the outstanding trumps, and then tried the heart finesse. West took the trick and cashed his club queen, defeating the slam.

South was somewhat premature with his heart finesse—there was another line of play that was well worth investigating! That was to lead a club, giving West his queen, and then to ruff the club six in the hope that the nine would fall and establish South's eight. South could then discard a heart from dummy on that club eight.

Obviously, the club nine would have fallen, and the contract would have become ironclad.

Pisquid East

Mr. Wallace Woolridge, employed on the government dredge, spent the June 25 weekend with his wife and family in Pisquid East.

Miss Shirley Jay left Moncton by plane Friday evening to spend the weekend in Montreal.

Miss Juanita Jay, Charlottetown, spent the June 25 weekend at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jay.

Our Boarding House Major Hoopie

Peter's Road

The P. E. I. Guernsey Breeders Association have replaced their own club bull Kingfield Nimbus with Brookmill B.R. Musicmaker. This bull is on loan to the Association by the Production Service of the Dominion Department of Agriculture on P. E. Island.

Musicmaker was brought to the island from "Mountain Way Farm", operated by Murray Leonard of Clarence, N. S., and according to the Guernsey Breeders Journal, he left thirty daughters of his in Mr. Leonard's stable of seventy-two, before coming to the island.

Southern Kings thus has in the way of dairy bulls one of the best. Musicmaker is located at the stable of Mr. Geo. Johnston, Peter's Road.
