When Barrot was hit by Jacker, he exclaimed, "I'm shot!" "Where?" inquired the second, in whose arms he had fallen. "In the front part of my back!" he answered, fainting.

Thanks to the new style of the street dresses, the important discovery has been made that ladies have ankles. Something of the sort is indeed hinted at in books of science, but the fact is now being practically and optically demonstrated.

A paper in Indianapolis, Indiana, proposes that hereafter, instead of saying "let us sing the Doxology," the minister shall say, "Let us put on overcoats, adjust our furs, ship on our gloves, grab our hats, look to the lord, and be dismissed."

A young gentleman, five years of age, was approached with childish endearments by an infant of eighteen months. "Don't you see," said the mother, "that the baby wants to kiss you?" "Yes," replied young maturity, indignantly, "that's because it takes me for his papa."

An old-fashioned clergyman, named More, was riding on horseback one stormy day, enveloped in a loose cloak of large proportions, and having a large scarlet collar. By the action of the wind the cloak was tossed about in all directions, when a gentleman rode up on a spirited charger, and the horse shied and almost threw the rider. "That cloak of yours would frighten the devil!" said the irate rider. "You don't say so!" replied Mr. More, "why, that's just my trade."

A youngster once happened to be playing in the room where his mother and a lady visitor were conversing. Another friend called in the meantime, and after she had left, the two commenced to discuss her peculiarities very freely. Willie was apparently busy with his toys; but, after a little, looking up shrewdly, he said to the visitor:

"Mrs. Butler, that's the way mamma will talk about you when you go away!" Money saved is just as good as earned; though it is to be remembered that there is often much good in spending. Illustrations: Investments, even if small, for the benefit of the deserving poor and unfortunate; paying a pretty shop girl's fare in a horse car (her wages are always shabby) and not letting her know it—the fare not the wages; dropping a kiss upon the lips of some lady who is hungering and thirsting after something sweet and good.

Excited Frenchman at Niagara Falls: "Ah! dis is de grand spectakel! Subarb! Magnifique! By gar! he is come down first rate!"

Why are wooden ships (as compared with ironclads) of the female sex?—Because they are the weaker vessels. It was observed of a celebrated physician that he never said in company "I drink your health," but "My service to you."

A laborer in an ice house down East was killed by a large lump of ice falling on his head. Verdict of the jury—Died of hard drink.

A young lady studying French, and finding that "belle" meant "fine," told somebody in a letter that she had a great deal of bell-weather lately.

Josh Billings says, "Most people decline to learn only by their own experience, and I guess they are more than half right, for I don't s'pose a man could get a correct idea of molasses candy merely by letting another feller taste it for him."

A countryman, who often called at a certain bishop's, and was always told that his lordship was at his studies and could not be disturbed, at last observed, "I wish the Queen would never make folks bishops who have not finished their studies."

A witty son of St. Patrick was in charge of a ferry boat. A lady passenger, being frightened by the waves, asked him, "Are people ever lost by this boat?" He gave her the encouraging reply, "Not often, ma'am; we generally find them afterwards by dragging the river."

An old Aberdeen laird's wife, when other ladies were enriching the tea-table with broad descriptions of the vices of their several spouses, said her own "was just a guid, weeltempered, couthy, quiet, innocent, daidlin' drunken body, wi' nae ill practices about him ava!"

A spendthrift had a fortune left him, and was advised by a friend to purchase a farm notorious for its neglected state and its sterility. "Why," said the spendthrift, "there is not a single passable road through the whole farm."

"That is the very reason I wish you to buy it," said the other; "it will take you the longer to run through it."

A few weeks since a man, mounted upon a skeleton of a horse, met a gentleman who was riding a superb animal upon one of the bridges of Paris which cross the Seine. The gentleman laughed at the poor beast, when the rider offered to beat him a thousand francs that he could not do with his horse what he could do with his poor animal. The bet was accepted. The poor man lifted his horse upon the parapet and shoved him into the river.

Lord Kenyon, the eminent judge, was for a time a clerk in a solicitor's office, and while there was frequently annoyed by the wife of his master, requesting him to perform almost menial duties. Once this lady addressed him with, "Pray, Mr. Kenyon, as you are going out, will you be kind enough to call at the greengrocer's and order me a cauliflower? or, stay—perhaps you would have no objection to bring it home with you?" Kenyon, on his return informed the worthy dame he had performed her commands, that he had paid sixpence for the cabbage and eightpence for a chair to bring it home. This was the last time he was subjected to such improper treatment.

If you would know the value of money, go and try to borrow some.
