THE CROQUET SEASON.

[From the London Saturday Review.]

The croquet season is supposed to be setting in this year with unusually fine and encouraging prospects. Croquet has acquired an established position, like cricket or waltzing, or grouse shooting, and diversions multiply their own popularity as rapidly as capital multiplies itself. Besides, croquet has solid and real expungable claims to popularity. It is more than a diversion. It is business. The author of the "New Handbook" is carried by the natural zeal of the specialist still further. Croquet, he sententiously declares, "has been elevated from a pastime to the dignity of a science." Perhaps this is a shade in excess of the fact, unless the author proposes to add to inductive and deductive a new class of seductive sciences, in which clearly his own pursuit will be entitled to a highly distinguished rank. Anything which furthers the development of man as a social animal merits the approval of the wise, and anything which brings young men and young women together must obviously develop their sociality. At croquet the stoic may smile and the epicurean exult, while even the cynic can say nothing worse than that it is much less a matter of social development than a matter of trim ankles and balmoral boots. The author of the handbook unfairly gives a handle to the cynic, for he admits, with profound serenity, that "one of the most prominent reasons of the pleasure that men take in the game is the sight with which they are indulged of a neatly turned pair of ankles and a pretty pair of boots." Croquet is highly decorous flirtation in a pleasant disguise. It is a less perilous form than waltzing, because waltzing is an affair of two, and affairs of two may be transferred from the harmless into the dangerous in the twinkling of any eye. Croquet, on the contrary, has the advantage of being an affair of at least three. Two may play, it is true, but obviously to play tete-a-tete would be tantamount to an advertisement of an approaching alliance in the Owl or the Morning Post.—No mother with a proper sense of her duty could tolerate such intimacy in a needy man, and no man who was not needy would allow himself to fall into such indiscretion.

In an ordinary way a croquet party consists of eight, and no swain or maiden can run into too grave flirtations in the sight and within earshot of six other persons. A man with profound experience in ball-room flirtations may find all his experience useless and all his skill baffled in the more wholesome atmosphere of the croquet ground. The open air always checks excessive emotion, and the affectation of emotion which passes muster by the light of wax candles is insufferable and absurd under the light of the sun. Life has a very different aspect at two in the morning from that which it presents at four o'clock in the afternoon. Then, again, at croquet champagne does not flow, and there is no music; and a man who would plunge headforemost into any matrimonial or other gulf under the influence of sweet sounds, finds himself the soberest of beings when the click of the balls and the disputing voices of the players are the only music to be heard. Sobriety is the prime characteristic of croquet.—The flirtations which it permits or inculcates to its votaries is thoroughly seemly and harmless. It is flirtation in which the curate may indulge without compromising the dignity of his austere profession, and at which even a rector may smile without forfeiting the lofty majesty of his position. A ball-room flirtation may end in anything up to an elopement. The flirtation of the croquet-ground is of the more modest kind, which cheers but never inebriates. The writer of the "New Handbook," with immense gravity, assures us that "most men would undoubtedly prefer playing entirely with the people of their sex, rather than have the interest of the game spoiled by a lady who knows little or nothing about the rules. Was there ever a proposition in the world which stood in such need of qualifications and modifications, or which, without these, was so thoroughly incredible? The most powerful imagination and the most imflammable and elastic capacity of enthusiasm would fail to find the pleasure of driving a ball through a hoop at all comparable to the pleasure of teaching a goddess to do the same, or of scolding her if she proved herself incapable of learning. There is another effect referred to by the writer, consequent upon the elevation of croquet to the rank of a science, and one in which we believe much more willingly than in the alleged preference of a good game without ladies, to a bad game with them. Since croquet has become a science, "it is now more often the cause of bickerings and quarrels than the commencement of love." This is quite natural, and what one might have expected. Intent on making croquet something very subtle and crafty, and profound and difficult, the compilers of manuals overlaid the primitive simplicity of the game with masses of rules, so that now a croquet manual may be got of which it is as hard to acquire a knowledge as if it contained the lost books of Euclid, or the body of English case-law.

Just as uncertainty and complication in the laws of the land lead to litigation, so do uncertainty, intricacy, and confusion in the laws of croquet lead to bickering and quarrels among people whose little hands were never made to tear each othes's eyes. It is the greatest of merits in a game of any sort that it opens no door to doubtings and uncertainties. Cricket would be an impossible game if the wise foresight of our ancestors had not established the authority of the umpire, whose decision is as prompt as it is beyond dispute. In croquet there would be a good deal of difficulty in persuading anybody to be umpire. The invidiousness of such a position would be a thing unequalled since the days of the Choice of Paris. Let us look at the kind of problem which presents itself. Originally, the tight croquet was the only permissable mode. Now, you may have, besides this, both the loose croquet and the slipping croquet. This seems very simple. But there is a sect, pestilent as the Monophysites, or Nestorians, or Basilidians of the early church, which grimly holds that "to rovers only should the privilege of the loose croquet be accorded." Others, on the contrary, hold that the privilege should only be allowed to those who are not rovers. Anybody who understands human nature will see that a difference of this sort is enough to convulse the best-regulated crouquet ground in England. And any body can decide the controversey. It is desperate, and it is never ending, because by no ingenuity can we discover any atom of principle by which to measure the contending theories. Why should you not adopt the loose croquet in the case of a rover? Precisely, but then why should you? Again, some heterodox players have introduced the practice "of taking two off." Thus, if the player croquet a ball, he is allowed to drive his own ball in any direction he pleases, without touching the croqued ball. After this he has another stroke, so that he is enabled to get close to any ball on the ground. To our instructor this plan seems "so highly objectionable," so subversive of all good play," that he unhesitatingly condemns it. We accept his dictum with profound faith, the state of mind proper for things beyond the level of reasoning. The worst of it is that ladies, the great pillars of croquet, detest this attitude, and if they may not "take two off," will insist on having a reason why. They are content with a very poor reason, we admit, but it is to be feared in the most abstruse secrets of croquet even the shadow of a reason is wanting. The more simplicity the game preserves, the more likely it is to meet the purpose for which it exists, because there will be thus the more time left for "those delicate attentions to the fair sex" which lend to croquet its most effective charms.

Judson's Pills.

THE ROAD TO HEATH AND LONG LIFE

SECURED BY

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.

Impurities of the Blood.

In selecting the most appropriate medicine for a particular ailment, there may be some difficulty unless one can be found to purify, regulate, and improve the quality of the blood. These Pills possess and exert these three qualifications in an extraordinary degree. They enable the stomach to digest any ordinary food, increase the secretory powers of the liver, cleanse and purify the blood, expel all morbid matter, and throw into the circulation the purest elements for sustaining and repairing the frame.

Weakness and Debility.

How many persons suffer from debility without knowing the causes why they are feeble! In most cases the stomach is the aggressor. Holloway's Pills have long been famed for regulating a disordered stomach, and restoring its healthy digestive tone; they are, therefore, confidently recommended as a never failing remedy in all cases where the constitution, from any cause, has become impaired or weakened.

Disease of the Head and Heart.

These formidable diseases are, unfortunately, of frequent occurrence; for the most part they creep on gradually, but may be prevented by proper precautions. Holloway's Pills are the surest preservatives against all derangements of the brain, and are the speediest correctors of irregular circulation. If they be taken without delay, when tingling in the limbs, drowsiness, or giddiness comes on, the effect will be marvellous.

Females of all Ages & Classes.

The fame of these Pills is partly based upon the beneficial effects they have upon the constitutions of females. From the domestic servant to the peeress, universal favor is accorded to them for their invigorating and purifying properties, which render them so safe and invaluable in all disorders peculiar to the sex. Obstructions of every kind, either in young persons entering into womanhood or approaching the turn of life—the most critical period—may be radically removed by a recourse to these Pills.

All Disorders affecting the Liver, Stomach and Bowels.

CHILDREN TEETHING

MRS. WINSLOW,

An experienced Nurse and Female Physician, presents to the attention of mothers her

Soothing Syrup,

FOR CHILDREN TEETHING,

which greatly facilitates the process of teething, by softening the gums, reducing all inflammation—will allay all pain and spasmodic action, and is

SURE TO REGULATE THE BOWELS.

Depend upon it, mothers, it will give rest to yourselves, and

Relief and Health to your Infants.

We have put up and sold this article for over thirty years, and can say, in confidence and truth of it, what we have never been able to say of any other medicine—never has it failed, in a single instance, to effect a cure, when timely used. Never did we know an instance of dissatisfaction by any one who used it; on the contrary, all are delighted with its operations, and speak in terms of highest commendation of its magical effects and medical virtues. We speak in this matter "what we do know," after thirty years' experience, and pledge our reputation for the fulfilment of what we here declare In almost every instance where the infant is suffering from pain and exhaustion, relief will be found in fifteen or twenty minutes after the syrup is administered.

This valuable preparation is the prescription of one of the most experienced and skilful nurses in New England, and has been used with never-failing success in

THOUSANDS OF CASES.

It not only relieves the child from pain, but invigorates the stomach and bowels, corrects acidity, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. It will almost instantly relieve and overcomes convulsions, which, if not speedily remedied, end in death. We believe it the best and surest remedy in the world, in all cases of Dysentery and Diarrhœa in Children, whether it arises from teething, or from any other cause. We would say to every mother who has a child suffering from any of the foregoing complaints—do not let your prejudices, nor the prejudices of others, stand between your suffering child and the relief that will be sure—yes, absolutely sure—to follow the use of this medicine, if timely used. Full directions for using will accompany each bottle. None genuine unless the facsimile of CURTIS & PERKINS, New York, is on the outside wrapper.

GRIPING IN THE BOWELS, AND WIND COLIC,

☞ Sold by Druggists throughout the world.
