Close Co-operation Is Urged Between Home And School

Rev. William Simpson, rector of St. Dunstan's Basilica was the guest speaker at the opening meeting of the season for Notre Dame Academy Home and School Association, held last night with J.J. Connolly presiding.

Father Simpson stressed the importance of close co-operation between the home and the school. He also stated that it is important that the child be respected as an individual today and to base much consideration on what the future might hold for him or her.

He admitted that very often the home is under attack from all sides, and quite often the parents found it difficult to effectively cope with the many probems connected with the modern mode of living.

He warned that in many homes the children tend to make the rules for the home, because parents fail to exercise their authority and do not carry out proper discipline and exampe.

To improve the effectiveness of the home and school he suggested that more panel discussions and question and answer periods should be conducted at the meetings.

"In this manner the association would gain much from what each individual has to offer", Father Simpson said.

He also stressed that more effort should be taken in moulding the will of the child but at the same time it must be made certain that the intellect is not starved.

The speaker stated that he was disappointed in one aspect of these associations in that men fail miserably to give their full support.

During the evening, three committees, considered to be the most important in home and school, were formed. They were community life, family life, and visual education.

The president of the provincial organization, Matt Hagan, was also in attendance, and addressed the meeting briefly.

The session closed with the serving of refreshments by a group of the senior students.

Riverside Hospital Patients Enjoying Outing, Ferry Cruise

Between 25 and 30 Riverside Hospital patients enjoyed a special outing on Tuesday afternoon when the Canadian Mental Health Association (a member agency of the P.E.I. United Fund) made arrangements for them to be taken on a round trip of the MV "Abegweit".

The cost of the tickets for the trip was taken care of by the Borden branch of the Royal Canadian Legion and several members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Legion accompanied the group on the sail to Tormentine and back.

The captain and crew of the "Abegweit" were most helpful and showed the patients over various parts of the ship. Light refreshments on board were provided by CMHA, and later in the afternoon, on their return to Borden, the patients were served supper by the ladies of the Legion Auxiliary.

Fine, sunny weather and the beautiful autumn colorings of the countryside added to the pleasure of the day, and a tired but happy group returned to the hospital later in the evening.
