Variations on an Ancient Theme.
 "My wife," said the tall, lantern-jawed man, "is as womanly a woman as you could find, but she can hammer nails like lightning."
 "Wonderful," sang the chorus.
 "Lightning," the tall, lantern-jawed man continued, "seldom strikes twice in the same place."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The Austrian government has a Hungarian opal 3 3/4 inches long and 2 1/2 inches thick. It weighs 17 ounces and is worth $300,000. The fire opal, of hyacinth red to a honey yellow, with firelike reflections of bright light, is valued at from $5 to $10 per carat.

The republic of Uruguay has more newspapers in proportion to its population than any country in the world.

Still in the Lead.
 "Is it true, auntie, that you have refused Blake's every year for the last 20 years?"

"Yes, my dear."
 "Do you mind telling me why?"
 "Not at all. The first time I refused him I told him that he was not good enough for me, and I'm not the woman to admit that he has grown better any faster than I have."—Detroit Free Press.

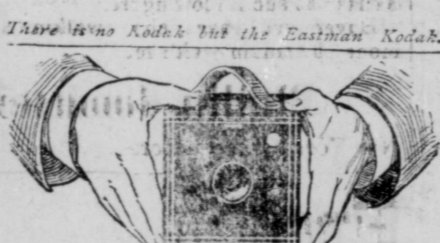

If you would be well spoken of, learn to speak well of others, and when you have learned to speak well endeavor likewise to do well, and thus you will reap the fruit of being well spoken of.—Epictetus.

Maternal Trials.
 "Edie," cried the mother from the hall below, "what's all that noise up stairs? It's shocking."
 "Oh, it's these two dolls of mine, mamma. I'm going to put them right to bed and see if we can't have a little peace."—Detroit Free Press.

The Laziest People on Earth.
 The laziest and dirtiest people in the world have recently been discovered in the Caucasus. They live in an inaccessible mountain range between the Black sea and the Caspian sea, and as they were 2,500 years ago so they are today. Seen from without, there is a certain picturesqueness about a Caucasian village, although it merely consists of miserable stone hovels without any attempt at form or adornment. Within the houses are inconceivably filthy. They are filled with rags, vermin and dirt of every description. They possess no fireplace or chimney. All the cooking, in fact, is done over a hole scooped out in the middle of the floor. In these houses men and women and children are huddled together. During the long winter months they are shut in for days at a time, the cattle often sharing their quarters. Every aperture has to be closed on account of the cold. This long imprisonment is perhaps the cause of the degradation of the people. Horrible diseases result from it, which are aggravated by an abnormal consumption of arrack, the strong distilled drink of the Asiatics. Besides this, it is an invariable rule to make four days a week holidays, with saints' days as extras. Since they have adopted the holidays of every other country with which they have been in contact, it is not surprising that the men find little time for work. Farming, bee culture and cattle breeding are the only industries of these people, while throughout their territory there is not a single manufactured article.—New York Ledger.

When the conqueror came out upon the hills that overlooked the doomed city, his stern face lighted.
 "Nuts for us!" he exclaimed.
 "Is it your excellency's wish," asked an officer of the artillery, galloping up just then, "that the town be shelled?"
 A raw recruit laughed loudly in the ranks, but the trained soldier merely groaned.—Detroit Journal.

Instead of a Chromo.
 "Where on earth could she have picked up so insignificant a man for a husband?"
 "I haven't any exact information, but he looks as if he might have gone with a pound of tea."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Found Boston Girls Frigid.
 She—Did you notice the white ruching around that Boston girl's neck?
 He—Oh, was that ruching? I thought it was icing.—Yonker Statesman.
