Missionary Aids R.C.M.P. In Making Arctic Arrest

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T., (CP) —Only the Eskimos knew of the death of old Kititogak until a black-robed missionary listened to the gossip in the encampment at the Arctic outpost of Perry River.

A man had been shot, they said, out on the ice on Queen Maud gulf on the Arctic ocean. Some of them had seen the body. He was an old man and his name was Kititogak. No, the police didn't know about it.

The missionary harnessed his dog team and travelled 150 miles over ice and snow—treacherous with the first traces of spring—to the RCMP post at Cambridge Bay.

There, he told his story, rested a bit, and then accompanied RCMP constable Gerald Heapey back to the Perry River settlement.

The constable asked questions and more questions and this week in Yellowknife a formal charge of murder was laid against Koatuluk, son of the 73-year-old dead man.

OPEN VERDICT

The body was brought to Yellowknife, a cigaret holder still clenched in the mouth and snow glasses covering the eyes.

A coroner's jury was told that Kititogak died about April 25 of a gunshot wound and the jurors returned an open verdict; that the old man had died at the hands of a person or persons unknown. No motive was advanced.

Testimony was given by constable Heapey and Dr. F. F. Finch of Yellowknife, who performed the autopsy and who travelled 650 miles northeast to Perry River to ship the body here for the inquest.

The missionary was identified as Father Roger Bulliard of the Roman Catholic Oblate Order, who went to the far north from his native France in 1934.

The Perry River-to-Cambridge trip was nothing out of the ordinary for him and many have been more dangerous. He has estimated that in his first five years in the north he travelled 5,000 miles by dog team.

Koatuluk will be held for preliminary hearing.

Vandals Sentenced

—Acts of vandalism which caused damage to the War Memorial on Memorial Square in Summerside led on Tuesday in Summerside Police Court to jail sentences for two youths, 16 and 17 years of age, one from Borden and the other from Summerside.

The youths were picked up after investigation by police officer Harry MacKay, of the incident in which the bayonet was broken from the statue of the soldier on top of the War Memorial, and a wreath which had recently been placed at the base of the monument was draped around the head of the statue.

When departing from the square, one of the boys threw the broken bayonet through two windows of the private garage of J. Arthur Clark, nearby.

Before passing sentence, Magistrate E .H. Strong handed down a stern lecture to the youths regarding their desecration of a memorial to the memory of men who gave their lives in the preservation of freedom.

For causing the actual damage to the monument the Borden youth was given six months and assessed $25 damage to the monument or an additional month in jail.

For being a party to the incident and for throwing the broken bayonet through the garage windows the Summerside youth was fined $100 or six months in jail, and assessed $10 damages to the windows, or an additional 15 days.

S'side Girl A Hit In Ottawa

(Austin Cross, Ottawa Citizen)

Surely one of the loveliest young ladies to come to Ottawa during Rotary's Adventure in Citizenship was Miss Mary Thompson of Summerside. Your correspondent ran into this dazzling blond girl with another young teen ager from Picton, Ontario, trying to cross Sparks Street.

Frankly these kids are so appealing that after three days this writer got into the habit of stopping every one of them, peering at their name and address, and passing the time of day with them. There was a Miss MacMillan from Oshawa, a fellow from Weyburn, another thoughtful guy from Vancouver, and a tall blond from Lloydminister on the Alta.-Sask. border.

Then the most attractive I've seen so far. "Everybody is so friendly," she said.

Then she said she loved the Parliament Building but frankly admitted it was hard to make a choice.

Miss Thompson was in fact in a hurry to get to the Royal Bank and found it difficult to compose her thoughts.

Then who should show up but the irrespressible Bad Boy of Parliament, Jean Francois Pouliot, veteran MP from Temiscouata, Quebec.

He eyed the girls appreciatively and then said: "I only wish my son was here to meet you."

Mr. Pouliot has a dark, good looking boy who is about 18.

Miss Thompson has one characteristic of which her parents might be proud. She is polite to her elders, and has splendid manners.

Mr. George Brown of Toronto, with me, remarked: "That girl is only a school girl but she talks like a woman of 25."

But no 25 year old woman has that pleasant smile, the unspoiled face, the lovely blond hair, the cheerful manner.

I asked her if she has seen Watson MacNaught. She said she was sorry to have missed him, but she had seen N. A. Matheson of Charlottetown but had missed King's Kickham. Whether she had met Angus MacLean I did not learn.

If Prince Edward Island has any more like Miss Thompson, what a lovely place it must be.

(Miss Thompson is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Thompson, Spring St., Summerside, also niece of Mrs. A. M. Stewart, City.)

Although insults have flown back and forth in the last few days, no deep and passionate issues have divided the opposing parties—a rare development in British political campaigns. This helps to explain why the campaign has been the quietest in the last half-century.

Both parties think broadly along the same lines on critical foreign issues. Whichever party wins, it is unlikely to make drastic changes in the bipartisan line followed since the beginning of the Second World War.

On the domestic policy, the Conservatives support free enterprise and oppose state control, including any further nationalization of industry. The party promises to continue its policy of abolishing left-over wartime controls.

The Labor party has announced it will re-nationalize the steel and road transport industries, which were restored to private ownership by the Conservatives.

Labor is pledged to bring back controls where necessary to curb rising prices.

In Memoriam

MRS. PHILIP McNALLY

—There was called unto Eternal Life during the holy season of Christmas, nineteen hundred and fifty-five, at Summerside, P. E. I. the soul of Genevieve McNally. Ill for the past two years, Mrs. McNally, who was fifty-nine years of age, had remained cheerful and patient until she was granted a most peaceful passing on the morning of Dec. 26th.

Consoled by frequent visits from Rev. Father McLeod, she was surrounded in those last hours by all the immediate members of her beloved family. During the past two years she had been tenderly cared for by her daughter, Mrs. Clarence Gaudet, with whom she made her home, frequently assisted by a second daughter, Mrs. Lloyd Boulter.

Mrs. McNally was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Myles Doyle of Jacquet River, N. B. Her mother, the former, Katherine Ultican, predeceased her in 1896; her father in 1911; and her only sister (Aulrey) Mrs. Edgar Frenette.

A niece of the late mother St. Ignatius C. M. D., who lost her life in the holocaust of the Marionapolis Convent, Montreal in 1943. Katherine Genevieve Doyle began her educatin at Bellevue Convent, Quebec. Here she laid the foundation of her fine French education; speaking and writing it frequently. Her knowledge of the French language in those tender years became so thorough it was deemed necessary that she journey to Charlottetown, P. E. I. where she remained in a Convent three years re-instating her English grammar. She then entered Villa Maria Convent, Montreal, where she completed her studies in 1912.

Genevieve Doyle then returned to P. E. I. where she made her home the role of mother being lovingly filled for her by her aunt, Mrs. D. B. McDonald of North Bedeque. In 1914 she married Mr. Philip McNally of Summerside and of this union there were ten children.

An intelligent person, a pleasant and interesting conversationalist, to many she will be remembered as a neighbour kind and generous to the extreme; a woman whose charitable nature reached, day or night, when called upon, to any soul less fortunate than her self. Of her it can be truly said she gave until it hurt." Above all to her family and all those to whom bequested a gift, more tangible than, and unparalleled by material treasures, the indelible memory of one whose remarkable disposition will long remain as a shining example of a true optimist, a quality born of faith.

A devoted wife and mother she leaves to mourn a sorrowing husband, Mr. Philip McNally of Summerside, four daughters and six sons, namely:—John, Amherst; David, Summerside; Katherine, Mrs. Lloyd Boulter, Victoria, P. E. I.; Audrey, Mrs. Leonard McInnis, Amherst; William, Amherst; Theresa, Mrs. Clarence Gaudet, Summerside; Myles, Summerside; Dillon, Oakville, Ontario; Lillian, Mrs. Edward Currie, Oakville, Ontario; James, Moncton.

To mourn the loss of a beloved and affectivate grandmother are twenty-seven grandchildren. Also surviving are her aunts — Mrs. D. B. McDonald, Ottawa; Miss Annie Ultican and Mrs. John Culligan, Jacquet River, N. B.; and one uncle, Mr. Herman Ultican, J. R.

The funeral was held from St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church, Summersdie on Dec. 28th, Rev. Fr. McLeod officiating at the grave.

The pallbearers were the six sons of the deceased.

Gives Views On Society's Needs

MONTREAL, (CP)— The president of Princeton University said Wednesday present day society needs "the unifying principle of liberal learning" to hold it together.

Dr. Harold Willis Dodds said "in all western history the one institution that has succeeded best in sustaining the wholeness of life is the university."

He delivered the convocation address at McGill University after receiving an honorary doctorate of law.

Also receiving honorary doctorates of law were Mr. Justice Gerald Fauteur of the Supreme Court of Canada and John Bassett, president and managing director of the Gazette Printing Company and chancellor of Bishop's University, Lennoxville, Que.

Dr. Dodds said universities in the United States "are emerging from a particularly severe period of attack as seats of subversion or anything else that the critic dislikes,"

Much of the criticism arises from a "widespread lack of knowledge concerning what a university really is," he said. Discovery and sharing were the true functions of the university.

Ideas are virtually important in the preservation of society, Dr. Dodds said, and "universities support the right to use our heads."

Crew Members Escape Injury

HALIFAX (CP)—The eight-man crew of an RCAF Lancaster from the RCAF station at Greenwood, N.S. escaped injury Wednesday when the undercarriage of their plane collapsed on takeoff at Kindley field, Bermuda.

The aircraft of 405 Squadron was on an anti-submarine exercise in the Bermuda area.

Members of the crew were identified by the RCAF here as Flt-Lt. Joseph Smith and Flying Officers Peter Hayfield, Dennis J. Copper, George A. Gaskin, Raymond H. Chaddack and Sgt. Arthur F. Ingram, all married and living at Greenwood; FO Edward J. Maxwell, Montreal; and FO Joseph P. Dery, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Dery, Quebec City.
