Improvement Noted In Prairie Farm Prospects

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Pessimism about Canada's Prairie farm picture is giving way to optimism as new markets are found for Canadian wheat. Agriculture Minister Gardiner has said that the "grain glut" will be cleared up "right away" with new sales to European countries and opening of the Great Lakes shipping season. The farmers themselves at though faced with some austerity, maintain a bright outlook that has sustained them ever since grain surpluses began to appear in 1930. STAUNCH GROUP "We might have to run our cars five years instead of three or four" said one southern Alberta dry-land farmer interviewed in a Prairie-wide survey. "We might have to take shorter holidays and generally gear ourselves to receiving money for our produce the year round instead of in one or two big lump sums. "But as long as the present conditions last or improve we aren't going to have too much difficulty meeting our bills and having a fairly good living. "Today indications are that conditions will improve as wheat begins to move to market, and that farmers again will prosper. The survey, conducted by newspaper across the West for The Canadian Press, indicated farmers no longer enjoy the rich prosperity of the post-war years when markets were plentiful, crops good and cash ready; that they had tightened up spending and turned to diversified crops and products to meet immediate cash needs. There generally was no financial distress among Prairie farmers. These conclusions were almost unanimous among farmers, bankers, merchants and agricultural and municipal officials questioned. LOAN RATE NORMAL Bankers pointed to the "normal rate" of borrowing by farmers and the fact few found it necessary to take cash on federal-government-backed loans on farm-stored grain. In Medicine Hat, bankers said some farmers who used loans repaid them by early spring. Municipal authorities said arrears on average were about normal. Municipal spending in nearly all areas surveyed was on a par with recent years or higher. Farm implement dealers said sales of new machinery declined considerably but parts sales were good as farmers repaired machinery purchased in better years. BUY ESSENTIALS Carl J. Strayer of Drinkwater, Murray, internationally famous medical missionary, will be granted a rare honor when Pine Hill Divinity College confers upon her the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity at its convocation on April 16th. Dr. Murray is considered one of the outstanding women of the world. She is well known in Bedeque where she has on different occasions spoken in the United Church. Her father, Rev. Robert Murray, was one-time minister of the O'Leary Church. He passed away at his home Lower Sackville, N.S., recently at the advanced age of 96. Mr. Vernon Craig is convalescing at his home here after being a patient in the Prince County Hospital for seven weeks, where he underwent a major operation. All are pleased to have him in their midst again. HISTORIC HOUSE The Freidus' Meeting House at York, Pa., has been continuously in use since 1765.

Two Scientists Give Report On Dream Research

By FRANK CAREY
ATLANTIC CITY (AP) — In dreaming, your behavior in bed is much the same as though you were at a Broadway show, two University of Chicago scientists said Wednesday. That is, just before your dream "show" begins, you move and turn restlessly in bed—just as people twist and turn in their seats in a theatre before the curtain goes up. Once the dream starts, your body movements stop, except for minor ones, such as finger twitching. But, at the end of the dream, "large" body movements immediately begin again—analogue to people in a theatre preparing to leave—said physiologists William Dement and Nathaniel Kleitman. They told about it at the annual meeting of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology in reporting various new findings about dreams based upon studies made with instruments which record eyeball movements, brain waves, and body movements. These scientists previously had established that eye movements during sleep are connected with periods of dreaming—and these movements are detectable by electrodes attached to the eyelids. Describing studies of the dreams of 20 people, the scientists said dreams were recalled by the subjects in 130 out of 160 cases following eye movements. Here are some other findings of the study: Contrary to older ideas that dreams take place almost instantaneously, some dreams last as long as an hour. can get it from his bank anyway without government support." Medicine Hat region estimated about 10 per cent of the farm population there borrowed under the federal plan, but other regions of Alberta said less than one per cent used these loans. Many who saved during the rich years found no difficulty in maintaining their standard of living though they may have cut spending on luxuries to preserve their bank accounts. Some sold cattle and grains other than wheat; others sold poultry and dairy products to provide for immediate cash needs and preserve savings. ALTERNATIVE REMEDIES Some turned to more diversified lines, growing marketable products that brought income the year round. Some fed cattle through and wiser, using surplus grain, and sold them in spring to bring cash for seeding requirements. Only a few found it necessary to leave the farm in search of cash and most were new farmers or small holders who still owed money on land or machinery. They went to construction projects, lumber mills and other industry but for most the move was temporary. With seeding time at hand, they returned to the farm with enough cash to cover capital expenditures and essentials to carry them through until they can sell their produce. Optimism seemed the theme of the survey. Present conditions are not the best, but they were not the worst, the farmers said. Now, from a low point, some high hopes for the future.

The Old-Fashioned Way
To try and sell "need-nots", or try and find a maid, or rent a room, the old-fashioned way was to get on the phone and tell neighbors about it. But that was a slow process, and only a few people were ever made aware. To get quick, successful results, EVERYBODY who might be interested needs to know. So, when you want to sell used articles, or hire competent help or offer skilled services, do as thousands of others do so effectively each year.
