ELLEN'S DIARY

Young Graduates Now Must Face The World

Now "The Closings" come, marking, it will maybe, the entire life-time of those who receive now the rewards of the faithful student. Another milestone has been reached on the highway to some chosen career, at some lofty pinnacle of education's Alpin heights. New vistas lie before. Looking off into the future in the words of ancient wisdom, one must now "put away all childish things." Prepared by knowledges and skills absorbed and acquired in some loved school or university, forth one must go to gain fame, and most of all a livelihood in a busy and impersonal world - one which will present many a challenge to the strength of body and mind and even storm the gates of the spirit itself for it is a world which demands specialists - to do the task not as well as others but better, it asks. "Honey, anyone can do that," one who later became a great athlete in a noted family of them said to his young gum-chewing sister. "If we're going to be successes, we have to do something no one else can." "To be honest, I fell a little lost at the moment," a young graduate about to first-foot into his chosen life work said the other day. "After living a student's life for so long, it's going to be difficult for a while to adapt to something else. I see" he grinned "a fearful world ahead!" "It's like getting married" one of his kin chuckled, "we learn as we go." Meanwhile, bearing in to some presently unknown, unrevealed, goal of life of his own, Mack learns faithfully his daily required pair of spellings, and Granddaughter sets herself to attend her various assignments of school, while their Closing rests ahead in the June-time. Now May gives - and promise

GOOD TRAVELER

Dacron and cotton combine for a fabric that is a good choice for sleepwear, since it is cool, pleasant and easily laundered. This nightgown is a new and clever design as it can be worn falling loose from the smocked neckline or girder with a pretty, printed crepe scale as shown. An especially good choice for the travel wardrobe on all these counts. Almost every item of lingerie from petticoats to pajamas is obtainable in cool fabrics that wash easily and need no ironing.

Cumin, The Most Ancient Of All Spices, Is Useful

By ID. BAILEY ALLEN
"Cumin is a-comin' in la de da," sang our singing Chef, turning the pepper grinder in rhythm. "But you're grinding peppercorns," I laughed. "Ah, non, Madame. It looks like pepper when ground, but in reality it is cumin seed. "As surprise for you and to increase our knowledge of seasonings, I am experimenting with the use of cumin, the most ancient of all spices: I have used all the powdered cumin I bought in various ways, so now I am coarsely-grinding the seeds to sprinkle as I would black pepper over flaky boiled potatoes or broiled steak."
HOW USED?
"How do you use the powdered cumin, Chef?" I asked. "I cooked spinach, carrots, parsnips and beets, Madame," he replied. "They await your tasting pleasure."
I taste-tested and approved. The Chef had added 1/4 tsp. powdered cumin to each pound of cooked vegetable, just enough to spark the natural flavor of the vegetable. "How about a little in French dressing, Chef?"
No sooner done than taste-tested and approved. "Cumin is a-comin' in," prophesied the Chef.

The beautiful hymn by A. D. Mr. Somers had been attending a committee of the General Assembly Board of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. During his visit to Toronto Mr. Somers had the privilege of dining on the opening day at the new Lord Simcoe Hotel at King Street and University Avenue. This is the second largest hotel in the British Empire. The opening was on May 15th and Mr. Somers was sitting very near the two little eight year old children who cut the ribbons helping officially to open

Extensive Trip Includes This Beautiful P. E. I.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Beer of Los Angeles, California, are prominent visitors to this province. Mr. Beer is in the investment securities business. His firm is the Lester Ryons Company of Los Angeles and they are members of the New York stock exchange. Mr. Beer has not been on Prince Edward Island since 1910. His parents were Mr. and Mrs. Lemuel L. Beer and theirs was the large residence at 301 Kent Street now occupied by Dr. Frank and Mrs. Mackinnon and Mr. and Mrs. Haslam. Mr. Beer's mother's home was the Loudon residence, now the Officers' Club. Mr. and Mrs. Beer are on a six weeks trip. They made their trip from Los Angeles to Flint, Michigan by plane. There they purchased a car and toured to Toronto, Ottawa, Quebec, the Gaspe Peninsula and New Brunswick. Mr. Beer was most enthusiastic about Prince Edward Island. He particularly mentioned how impressed he was with the great prosperity of the people, the magnificent Trans Canada Highway and the beauty of the countryside. Last year Mr. and Mrs. Beer visited Great Britain and the continent. They said the beauty of this province was very similar to that of the oldland Mr. and Mrs. Beer while in Charlottetown attended St. Peter's Cathedral. They are cousins of Miss Bessie Beer. They leave now for Halifax and Bermuda. The final lap of this trip is New York from which city Mr. and Mrs. Beer will leave upon return to their home in Los Angeles.
