Remembering

For you beside this monument The crimson poppies lay, For you old comrades march again On this Remembrance Day.

For you who left the ones you loved With faith and courage high, For you who marched to battle Beneath an alien sky.

For you who fought so gallantly That war and strife might cease, For you who thought that victory Would bring a lasting peace.

For you who died the bugles call And countless mothers weep, For you who in a far-off land, Now rest in dreamless sleep.

For you the crimson poppies bloom In memory of the past, For you our love that cannot die But shall forever last.

—Constance I. Heckbert

George Edward Colpitts of Moncton, N. B.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Watterworth in the presence of a large number of guests. The church was beautifully decorated with baskets of gladioli, Sweet Alyssum and potted plants, and tiny nosegays of pink and white flowers, tied with ribbons, marked the pews for the guests.

Mrs. Harold Sharpe presided at the organ, and Miss Evelyn Weeks sang "Till We Meet Again" during the signing of the register.

"COME BACK, LITTLE SHEBA" AT CAPITOL THEATRE, SUMMERSIDE

The Broadway play that ran off with every honor awarded by critics of the legitimate theatre and won overwhelming popular acclaim as well, was "Come Back Little Sheba." Now producer Hal Wallis has made a motion picture out of this highly successful Theatre Guild production and, as released by Paramount Pictures, it will open today at the Capitol Theatre.

Imagination was used in casting "Come Back Little Sheba," with Burt Lancaster in the role that is entirely different from anything he has ever done in the past. Advance audiences report that this soul-searing portrayal of a middle-aged alcoholic tied to a dastardly wife and tormented by the past, a far cry from his usual swashbuckling muscle flexing roles, is a superb piece of acting.

Opposite him and making her long awaited screen debut is one of the first ladies of the American theatre, Shirley Booth.
