—NO BIG ONES REPORTED— The opening day of the trout fishing season saw ardent anglers from Summerside and surrounding areas heading for their favorite fishing haunts—some before daylight, and other not-so-early risers joined the early-birds in a continuous procession throughout the day. According to reports from widely scattered fishing spots most of the catches were considered fair to excellent.—S.

—LUMBER FIRE ON WHARF— A fire in a pile of lumber on the Marine Wharf at Summerside early yesterday morning was extinguished by firemen who responded to the call. Police Constable Keith Champion, who discovered the blaze, was unable to halt the fire with an extinguisher, and found it necessary to call out the fire department. It is believed that the fire started when brisk winds fanned a flame among the timbers from which a torch had been used earlier in the day to remove metal bolts.—S fan had been liberated and returns from these experiments prove that a seven-inch lobster will grow about an inch and weigh nearly 50 percent more one year later. He also quoted figures showing that the five year average catch had risen from six million pounds to eight million pounds after the first size limit had been made law in Prince Edward Island.

He said that the fishermen of Quebec, N. B. and N. S. are in favor of the larger carapace measurement and that meetings in Prince Edward Island show that many of the fishermen do not wish to raise the size limit until the present regulations are enforced. He also explained that his work is strictly in research and not in enforcement of regulations and stated that the lobster fishing industry is worth roughly 20 million dollars to the Maritime Provinces and that the Department of Fisheries is now spending about two million dollars on law enforcement and is not willing to spend much more. So it is up to the fishermen themselves to help in the law enforcement.

Rev. William Simpson, of the Extension Department of St. Dunstan's University, said that the emphasis at the present meeting seemed to be that the present regulations are not being enforced but that 90 percent of the fishermen were willing to co-operate with the regulations if the other 10 percent were compelled to follow the law.

Mr. Wilson Shea, manager of Tignish Fisheries, asked that whatever size limit is agreed upon that the fishermen pledge their support to this limit and not to sell the undersized lobsters to some packer for ten cents per lb. He also explained that due to the smaller size of the lobsters caught in this area and because of the heavy storm loss to fishing gear last spring an increase in the carapace measurement would cause considerable hardship to many fishermen.

A hearty vote of thanks to Dr. Wilder for his very instructive address was passed by the meeting before adjournment.

Dragger Sails From Alberton

—The 50-foot dragger "Philaris" under command of Mr. Philip Kinch, left her home port at Alberton yesterday in an attempt to sail around North Cape to Miminegash from where scallop dragging will be started as soon as weather conditions permit. Although winds were unfavorable the crew of the motor vessel expected to complete the trip unless drift ice was encountered.

For several weeks the Philaris and the Alberton No. 1 captained by Mr. Harvey Hutt, also of Alberton, have been undergoing a complete refitting, painting and overhauling of gear etc in preparation for an early trip to the fishing grounds. Leaving port yesterday the crew aboard the Philaris were; Philip, James, Web, Sam and Mike Kinch, all of Alberton South.

The Alberton No. 1 is expected to commence dragging operations within the next few days.

A favorite recipe with our pioneer parents was the simmering bowl of onion broth. To make the soup, add a couple of bullion cubes to ¼ cup of butter and stir well. Brown 2 cups of sliced onions in the butter, add a quart of hot water, 2 bullion cubes, one teaspoonful of sauce, and ½ teaspoon of salt. Bring to a boil.

We like to boast that we are living in an age when civilization has reached a point higher than any heretofore attained, but the laws governing warfare 3,000 years ago were more humane than in either of the last two world wars. The rule then was that those who laid down their arms were to be treated humanely. Not slaughtered. The wives of slain soldiers were provided for, and the women, children, and aged men were given sanctuary.

ries, will study "The Human Implications of Development Planning." During the course of the five weeks, the process of thought will deal with Asian and North American outlooks on life (religion, ethics, science); economic and political factors; present development plans in S. E. Asia and the religious, social and psychological factors involved in development planning.

Two lectures will be given each day by a prominent Asian and non-Asian professor. Canada will send eight of her leading university men from different fields. Discussions in the afternoon will give delegates a chance to absorb the material and express their own ideas. Evenings may be used to discuss world university service and for spontaneous programmes under student direction; there should be a certain feeling of leisure with enough free time for the students of different countries to get thoroughly acquainted with one another. This programme demands a student willing to discipline himself to study and discussion in a strange land and with strange people.

Following the Seminar, the 32 Canadian students and eight professors will divide into six groups to tour various sections of India visiting universities and industrial developments. They will comprise a series of research projects in which participants will seek out evidence to aid them in answering the questions raised and evaluating the conclusions reached by the seminar itself. Reports will be prepared by each study group and by the group as a whole Scotia in which it was stated that livestock and livestock products seem to be the keystone in a well organized farm business. He also emphasized the importance of cattle in reviving the fertility of the soil and said that cash crops sold removed fertility while the use of livestock returns to the land what is taken away.

Mr. Deacon quoted figures to show that this Province has fewer cows per farm, fewer milking cows per farm and a lower production of milk per cow day than the general average for all of Canada. He said that the farmer could keep more cows, despite a labor shortage, by better planning. Among the things he mentioned were lengthening the pasture season so barn feeding periods can be shortened; having a machine to clean the barn or a pen-barn plan with a self feeding arrangement; purchase of a milking machine.

Urges Soil Care

Mr. George Whiteside, soil analyst at the Experimental Farm, told the group of the component parts of soil and called it a living body "the basic element in farming." He said it had to be properly treated to maintain livestock and enough livestock must be kept to put into the soil the life-giving humus.

The specialist stated that Prince Edward Island has lost approximately 50 percent of its original top soil through erosion and neglect. He urged the farmers to save and protect the one and one-half million tons of manure produced each year because in its relation to commercial fertilizers it is worth nearly $4 million and much of it is being wasted through carelessness.

He said that the soil here was naturally of a strongly acid nature and though lime was used it had to be handled carefully in relation to certain crops.

At the conclusion of the three talks Mr. Wright briefly spoke on farm matters in general and answered several questions from the floor. There will be another meeting tonight at which Mr. H. W. Clay, Senior Livestock Fieldman for the Federal Department of Agriculture, will speak on the breeding and care of swine.

Mount Pleasant Hockey Team Has Successful Year

—With the Mount Pleasant intermediate "C" Hockey League now over, congratulations are due the Wellington Battlers who finished on top. Especially due for commendations is the "kid line" of Arsenault, Arsenault and Goodwin who played good hockey considering it was their first year. The five teams in the league Richmond, Mount Pleasant, St. Nicholas, Lot 16, and Wellington, were all well-matched.

Richmond, the runner-up team, is also deserving of high praise. In their final game with Wellington two unfortunate accidents lessened their chances of victory. Goalie Phil Arsenault was cut on the eye, but gamely continued to play. In the second period star centreman, Harry Fitzgerald, received a broken arm from a cross check. The Richmond team was the only one in the league whose roster contained only home talent. Wellington, the league winners, had outsiders from Summerside and Miscouche.

As hockey is now over for the season, it is to be hoped that the boys are still on friendly terms, and that their communities are behind them 100 percent.
