Turnips.

With the improvement of our agriculture, the turnip crop of the Island is yearly increasing in importance and bulk. Nothing helps a herd of cattle through the hard winters like a good cellar full of Swedish turnips. The abundance of vegetable juices which they contain, rich in sugar and oil, improves the digestion and relaxes and invigorates the system of animals confined for long months on dry fodder. It is not so much the amount of nourishment which turnips contain as their palatable and laxative nature that makes these roots so valuable for winter feed. The world now demands of agriculture more meat and less grain than it did formerly. If we would increase our herds with profit, we must increase our turnip crop. There is more feed on an acre of turnips than there is on an acre of corn fodder, and less risk and trouble in storing them. For many reasons hay must continue to form the bulk of our winter feed. And, while it does, a ration of turnips is required with it to make it more palatable, digestible and nutritious. The farmer who values sleek coats, healthy condition, early maturity and fat quarters in his cattle will now see about preparing them a good supply of turnips for next winter's feed. Mangles are an equally valuable crop, but they must be sown the first part of May, and this is very inconvenient on most of our farms. You cannot grow turnips on poor land. Heavy manuring will not do. The soil must have been limed, or mudded, some years previously, and in good condition to begin with. Then prepare by plowing, harrowing and rolling until it is as fine as a garden, and all the weeds taken out. Deep plowing is required. Open up into good deep drills 29 inches apart. This will let the horse and cart go through them without trampling them down. Fill in evenly seventy loads of short manure to the acre. It is better to dump the manure in small, regular heaps while hauling out; then spread in the drills and cover while moist. If you have nitrogenous fertilizers to apply, spread them on the manure now and cover up both together. Phosphates or ashes may be spread on top of the drill at or after sowing. In closing up the drills see that the manure is properly covered. Roll heavily, and sow while the fresh-turned soil is still moist. Use two pounds of seed per acre, so as to have plenty of plants for the flies, and a crop, too. Begin to thin whenever the plants are past the seed-leaf. Nothing destroys a crop more than neglect to hoe them early. Use the horse-hoe frequently between the drills, and hand-hoe whenever there are any weeds. Kill weeds while they are young, and you will have a clean crop and clean ground afterwards.

Notes and Comments.

—Dr. Bourinot has been quoted as favoring the opinion that the members of a new administration, whether members of the previous administration or not, will have to be re-elected. Referring to the English precedents the practice in the mother country does not seem to justify the Doctor's opinion. Todd, in his "Parliamentary government in England," (2nd ed) vol. II, page 283, says:—

"If he (the prime minister) himself should vacate his office by death or resignation or dismissal, the ministry is ipso facto dissolved. Individual ministers may retain their offices, if permitted by the sovereign, and may form part of a fresh combination with another head; but this would be a new ministry, and as colleagues of the incoming premier they must make a fresh agreement with him."

Todd cites in support of this position the succession of Lord Melbourne by Earl Grey in 1834, and of Earl Derby by Mr. Disraeli in 1868. He might also have included the succession of Lord Palmerston by Lord John Russell in 1865. In none of these three cases, so far as the records show, were the old ministers who continued in the new administration, required to seek re-election. But a clause in the Canadian act is clear upon the point.

"Whenever any person holding the office of (here follows an enumeration of the several departments having a political head), entitling him to be a minister of the Crown, and being at the same time a member of the House of Commons, resigns his office, and within one month after his resignation accepts any of the said offices, he shall not thereby vacate his seat, unless the administration of which he was a member has resigned, and a new administration has been formed, and has occupied the said offices."

A careful examination of the monthly statement of imports and exports prepared by the Customs Department during the past ten months, and a comparison with the corresponding period last year, shows where the falling off in the imports and the increase in exports has been brought about. Of course the importations of certain classes of goods have increased to a considerable extent, but there have been some large decreases. The importation of woollens has fallen off to the extent of $1,100,000; manufactures of iron and steel, $750,000; provisions, $700,000; silks, $400,000; and spirits, $100,000. In regard to the exports there are some noticeable increases. Products of the mine make a better showing than last year to the extent of $900,000; fisheries increased $740,000; animals and their products, $700,000; agricultural produce, $1,250,000; manufactures, $450,000. There are two large items of decrease, forest products, $2,000,000, due to the stagnation in the lumber and timber trades, and coin and bullion, $1,600,000.

Contributed by the W. C. T. U. of Charlottetown.

About a year ago the Milwaukee Y. M. C. A. refused to let the W. C. T. U. occupy rooms in their buildings. Last month the Brewer's Association donated $300 to the Y. M. C. A.

Since the investigation lately made in regard to the use of ether as a drink by the people of Ireland, either has been scheduled as a poison in Ireland and the Committee of the British Parliament which has been investigating, reports that "since this has been done, the sale in grocers' shops has practically ceased, and that of druggists is largely curtailed."

Our bodies are the temple of the Holy Spirit, and anything which deranges or befalls that temple is a direct assault upon the human soul and upon Him who dwells therein. Alcoholic beverages do that very same thing. To take such beverages is, therefore, a sacrilege against man, "a blasphemy against the Holy Ghost." Every true prophet then in the temperance reform must keep up an incessant fire—sin, sin, sin! To make, to sell, to drink, to let buildings for such purposes, to have anything whatever to do with it, is to have lot and part in a wickedness pure and simple. "Come out, my people; touch not, taste not, handled not the unclean thing." You will not be troubled with any more "calm views" after the battery has opened fire. Everything will soon be "piping hot" all over the field.—National Temperance Society Tract.

In recent years public attention in connection with the temperance reform, has been largely turned in the direction of temperance legislation and temperance politics. While this has been going on, and we to not by any means deem it unnecessary or unimportant, the young people have been growing up almost wholly without temperance teaching of any kind, without the pledge, and as a consequence are now perpetuating in their turn the social drinking habits of their elders. In England much effective temperance educational work has been and is being done, in especially influential social circles, through the medium of the parlor and the drawing-room. Might not the drawing rooms, especially of well-to-do Christian people, on this side of the Atlantic, be made to render a kindred useful service for the promotion of abstinence in society here? And in this needy sphere well-chosen temperance literature may be made most helpful. The printed pages may often penetrate and arrest thoughtful sympathetic attention, where the living voice would be deemed obtrusive and unwelcome. Whiskey and beer will hold their sway in the slums, while wine continues its reign in the parlor and palatial dining-hall. Abstinence alone will regenerate both.—National Temperance Advocate.

Music.

BY MISS ANGIE MURPHY, HALIFAX, N. S.

"Music, oh! how faint, how weak!
Language fades before thy spell,
Why should feeling ever speak,
When thou canst breathe, her soul so well."

There is a language which holds in thrall the hearts of all men, which has power to awaken all the slumbering noble sentiments of the soul, and that language is music, the language of the soul. The word "music" in ancient times had a much more extensive signification than it now possesses. With the ancients music embraced all the fine arts, or, in other words, the accomplishments emanating from Mount Parnassus. Of all the arts, music is the most natural to man. It is by means of this art that man expresses the emotions of his soul. Our souls are filled with harmony, although we are often unconscious of this fact. Shakespeare says:—

"Such harmony is in immortal soul;
But whilst this muddy vesture of clay
Doth grossly close it in, we cannot hear it."

All nature is replete with music. The gentle stream, as it glides along through its beautiful banks, gently murmurs a low, sweet lullaby, which makes us loth to leave those waters which "flow to music, like a song with pleasant words." In the unceasing moan of the ocean there is a music which restlessly fascinates us. It evidences yet it soothes us, and as we listen to its unceasing dirge of sadness we think of "eternity's unbroken monotone." The voices of the winds abound in melody. The wandering stream of wind, breathed from the west, makes music wild and soft that fills the listening air. In respect to its influence on the human passions, music ranks pre-eminent over all other arts. This fact may be easily comprehended when we consider that music takes its rise from, and is addressed to, the soul of man:—

"Oh, music! thy celestial claim
Is still resistless, still the same;
And faithful as the mighty sea
To the pale star that o'er its realm presides,
The spell-bound tides
Of human passion rise and fall for thee."

Music arouses within us emotions which are as inexplicable as they are diverse. It is the source of the most unalloyed of earthly pleasures. It loosens the chains which care has bound about the troubled heart, and a sweet peace steals o'er it as it is swayed by music's magic influence. Yet music leaves within us an indefinable feeling of longing and regret, which teaches us that there is something which earthly pleasures cannot satisfy, and that something we know to be the soul. As two persons may derive equal pleasure in listening to music, although one may more thoroughly understand and appreciate it, so it is said mortals will hereafter appreciate in a more or less perfect degree the happiness of Heaven. Should we not, therefore, make it our constant aim to refine our souls by the practice of virtue in this life, so that in the life to come, where, if we merit to enter its sacred portals, we shall be free from all care.

And the night shall be filled with music,
And the cares that infest the day
Shall fold their tents like the Arabs,
And as silently steal away.

Will Asiatic Cholera Follow?

Mr. Joe Howard's theory that, one horror of a similar nature follows another to the number of three, has a chance for confirmation this coming summer if certain predictions prove true. First it was La Grippe; "A whim" the French define it. Second came deaths by scores from its after effects, or from the many atmospheric changes of the past few months. Severe cases of pneumonia, bronchitis, intense catarrh and general loss of strength were the results, until death was almost welcomed as a relief to the sufferers. So that this epidemic and its sequence has proven to be the most terribly realistic "whim" that ever infested this country. And now for number three; the theory is said to be advanced that the cholera is very likely to find fertile soil in the generally debilitated constitutions of our people resulting from the effects of such a winter and spring as has just past. Whether the theory of three will be confirmed in this case or not, remains to be seen. At any rate it behooves every person still affected by any of the complaints due to these climatic changes and epidemics, such as catarrh or bronchial troubles, to look well to themselves and see that every trace of the trouble is removed this present month; before the heat of summer still more debilitates their system. For years we have found that simple old remedy Johnson's Anodyne Liniment, used as directed, to be the most certain remedy for all forms of lingering summer colic, catarrh or bronchial affections, as well as a preventive and cure for all kinds of summer complaints. It is absolutely certain that a remedy that has survived for eighty years as Johnson's Anodyne Liniment has done, must have more than average merit. We suppose there is not a family in this country but what has this good old fashioned remedy in the house. If there is, we advise them to get it at once or write the manufacturers I. S. Johnson & Co., Boston, Mass., for a pamphlet describing its various uses for the last eighty years. Now is the time, delays are dangerous, and an ounce of prevention is worth many pounds of cure.
