To Prepare Brief On Potato Industry

A comprehensive submission will be prepared and presented on behalf of the potato industry of the Maritime Provinces when the Board of Transport Commissioners holds a hearing in this city July 14. It is expected to deal with the impact on the industry of recent freight rate increases, car charges and the probable effect on freight rates if the proposed freight rate equalization plan should be adopted. These matters were decided last week at a meeting in Saint John, N. B. called by the Maritime Transportation Commission. At the sessions were representatives of the potato shippers, Federal and Provincial Departments of Agriculture, Marketing Boards, railways and the Commission.

Also under discussion were better shipping methods as well as the freight rate structures. The meeting was held as a preliminary to the preparation of the submission when the Board of Transport Commissioners begins its series of hearings in the Maritimes late this month.

CHETICAMP, N. S. (CP)—Parish priest here for 44 years, Rev. Patrick Abraham LeBlanc retired at the end of May. The 85-year-old priest, a native of Inverness county after his farewell mass was presented with a purse by the parishioners.

Card Of Thanks
I wish to thank the nurse, Dr. Simpson and the staff at the Prince County Hospital for the sympathetic care and treatment I received while a patient there; also the friends who sent me cards and treats, my neighbors and friends who so kindly assisted my family during my absence. Sincerely, MRS. ROY WALKER.

Observe Golden Wedding Anniversary

Shown above are Mr. and Mrs. Frederick D. Ward, 41 Upper Hillsboro street, receiving congratulations on the occasion of their Golden Wedding Anniversary, which they celebrated last week. Greeting Mrs. Ward is Mr. Wilbert Reeves, Preetown, and behind him is Mr. Ira Auld, both longtime friends. Mr. and Mrs. Ward, the former Miss Hettie Mae MacGregor, were married in Somerville, Mass., in 1903, with Rev. George H. Clarke officiating and Miss Edith Jones and Mr. William Ward as the attendants. The children of Mr. and Mrs. Ward were joint hosts and hostesses at a reception attended by numerous relatives and friends. On behalf of all the grandchildren Miss Carol Ann Ward presented the couple with a purse of money, while Mr. Stanley Ward did the same for all the members of the family. In addition the honored guests received many other beautiful gifts including several bouquets and an electric kettle from the teachers of West Kent School where Mr. Ward served as caretaker for 23 years. A delightful luncheon was served with the table being decorated with yellow and white mums while the candelabra held yellow candles.

The Blessed Sacrament was solemnly processed by the Bishop Boyle assisted by Rev. Justin Macdonald and Rev. Francis Bolger, and left the Basilica at 11 a.m. In attendance were the members of the clergy who had been in the Sanctuary during Mass and Sir William MacMillan who was joined by Rev. Alexander MacLellan and Rev. J. Macdigan of the Church of the Most Holy Redeemer at Blessed Sacrament.

Fighting Still

(Continued from page 1) electrifying announcement that a truce has been called in the costly, nearly three-year-old conflict which often threatened to trigger a third world war. There now seems no doubt that, despite the boiling resentment in South Korea to the terms, the two sides have reached agreement for a general armistice, although formal signing may be a week or more away.

Many New

Senate Members

There have been reports, too, that senatorial appointments may be coming up for Commons Speaker Ross Macdonald, Brantford, Joseph Bradette Cochrane, former deputy speaker; Joseph Blanchette Compton - Frontenac, parliamentary assistant for defence; Leonard Tremblay Dorchester, Quebec Liberal whip, and Sarto Fournier Maisonneuve-Rosemont.

Progressive Conservative Changes

Among the Progressive Conservatives, Arthur Ross of Souris, Man., has quit federal politics because of a redistribution involving his seat, and is trying for the Manitoba legislature. Earl Catherwood of Haldimand, Ont., also affected by redistribution, is not running. Mr. Ross is entitled to pension. One Social Credit seat, that of William Beyerstein in Camrose, Alta., has come out of existence through redistribution. Party informants here are uncertain if he will try elsewhere. He is not pensionable. Other Social Crediters are running. Several members of the C.C.F. group have qualified for pensions, but C.C.F. officials say they all will be in the running again.

Big Kinsmen Carnival Closes

The big Kinsmen Carnival closed its three day run at the Forum Saturday night with another large crowd present. Many were attracted by the drawing for the grand prizes. The first prize went to Mr. Edwin Gallant, Box 76, 385 Second Street, Summerside. He will have his choice of a Deep Freeze, a television set, 700 gallons of gasoline or the cash equivalent up to $300. The second prize of a man's Gruen wrist watch was won by Rev. W. McCordie, Montague, and the third prize of a boy's or girl's bicycle was captured by Mr. George R. Hooper, 214 Weymouth street. Other prizes were won as follows: the doll, wardrobe and crib went to Mary Gordon, 14 Brighton Road; the full pantry first prize of $60 worth of groceries was taken by Mrs. Lloyd MacPherson, North Wiltshire. It was an odd quirk of fate for last year at the Carnival her husband won the similar prize. The second pantry prize of $40 in groceries went to Albert Riley, 206 Grafton street, and the third of $25 worth of groceries to Mrs. Hugh MacKinnon, 121 Pownall street. A husband and wife combination won two of the three door prizes on the closing night. Mrs. Linus Trainor, Tyrone, won the first prize of an all wool blanket donated by Prowse Bros., and her husband won the third prize of an auto blanket donated by Moore & McLeod Ltd. The second prize of a Westinghouse electric iron, donated by Robinson Supplies Ltd., went to Mr. Fred Dolron, Mt. St. Mary's.

Pouring were Mrs. George Gamble, Cambridge, Mass., and Mrs. Wilson Stewart, and serving the guests were Mrs. Elmer Ward, Mrs. Stanley Ward, Mrs. Cecil Ward, Mrs. Eugene Ward, Mrs. Lewis Ward, all daughters-in-law of the couple, and Mrs. James Collier, their only daughter. Attending the door were Miss Sandra Ward in the afternoon and in the evening she was assisted by Miss Dianne Ward. In charge of the guest book was Miss Joan Ward. During the evening the guests were entertained by Mr. Davis Ward with three Scotch songs before all joined in singing "We Meet Again" and "Auld Lang Syne".

Fist-Swinging Brawl In Iran's Parliament

TEHRAN, (AP)—Another fist-swinging brawl erupted Sunday in Iran's Parliament and Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's bill to curb the power of the Shah got stalled again. In the melee of blows, kicks and general punching, at least one of the premier's deputies suffered a bad beating about the head. The uproar was touched off by opposition charges that the deputy Speaker, Ahmed Razavi, was not presiding according to the rules. Hussein Maki once a Mossadegh supporter, jumped to his feet and shouted at Razavi: "You are discriminating and I demand you get out of here." Another member of the opposition, Mehdi Mir-Ashrafi, stormed out of his seat and charged down the aisle toward the Speaker's chair. Mahmoud Nariman, independent but pro-Mossadegh, rushed to Razavi's defence and the battle was on. In a twinkling at least six deputies were swinging away. Spectators in the gallery got in the act, shouting "long live Mossadegh" and "down with Mossadegh's enemies."

Laboratory Plans Get Two Ottawa Boys In Trouble

OTTAWA, (CP)—Two 15-year-old boys who wanted to become "scientists" face multiple theft charges as a result of a police raid on their secret, gadget-filled laboratory. The equipment, valued at thousands of dollars, is alleged to have been stolen from the Ottawa general hospital, the National Film Board and the National Research Council. Both boys said they intend to be scientists when they grow up, one a chemist, the other a physicist. The laboratory, in a shed behind one boy's home, was filled with weird home-made machines and a vast clutter of expensive electronic control instruments, valuable lenses, ammeters, voltmeters, test tubes, chemical flasks and electrical parts. Police, who had been working on

Organized Labor In U. S. Facing New Problems

DETROIT, (AP)—Organized labor in the United States today is a wary and uncertain giant. Taken as a whole, the unions were never stronger. They have men and money in the millions. Their record, especially since 1933, shows an impressive list of legislative and economic gains. But the unions also are on new and less familiar ground. As George Meany, new president of the American Federation of Labor, phrased it: "The workers face a most trying situation."

Business View

But business makes two points in discounting depression talk: 1. As a result of the excess profits tax, vast sums have been put into research. Out of that has come a multiplicity of new machines, new materials, new products, ready for the civilian market. But they won't appear until the work on government contracts is finished. 2. This generation of business leaders know, by experience, what happens in a depression. Many saw personally the great dislocations that followed the First World War and they feel that if similar problems appear now, they have the know-how to meet them.

Depression Fears

Nothing on the horizon so obscures organized labor as the possible spectre of another depression. Labor executives assert that, in 1929, depression came because consumer buying power could not keep pace with production. Walter Reuther, president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, last April urged a conference to draft plans for maintaining full employment and production are high. Earnings are up. "Soft spots" have appeared in only a few areas of industry. Yet there has been recession and depression talk, and superimposed over the whole picture is the question: What happens if deep cuts are made in defence spending?

Arrives Home From Service In Korea

Sgtm. Frederick Alfred Prizzell, C.I.B. (above) arrived home from Korea Saturday night after completing his tour of duty which took him to the Far East slightly over a year ago. He left Pusan, Korea on May 14 and boarded the U.S. Naval Ship General Hugh J. Gaffey at Yokohama Japan for Seattle. Just prior to moving out from Brigade Headquarters in Korea he was apparently surprised to meet several Islanders in the troop morning up to take over their positions. He had a chat with Norman Eagar, Alfred Dolron, Kenneth Wigmore, Phil Perry and David Bourke, all of Charlottetown, and old friends of his. Sgtm. Prizzell was attached to the American Marines, along with a lieutenant and two other signalmen for some months after arriving in Korea. He states that the food, hospital treatment, recreation facilities etc. are good, with provision made for the best of care and consideration for the men. He is spending his leave of 60 days with his wife and young son Mike, who was a month old when he went overseas, at their home 42 Elm Avenue.

Ships Arriving For Mammoth Naval Review

PORTSMOUTH, Eng., (Reuters)—Warships from all over the world were steaming to this historic port Sunday to salute the Queen at her Coronation naval review, June 15. The United States cruiser Baltimore was on its way to Weymouth Bay, near here. She is due to tie-up Monday. The Baltimore and the Canadian government's newest icebreaker, the d'Arville, will be among the first of the 270 vessels to arrive at the famed Spithead anchorage. The ships, pride of their individual navies, will be reviewed in four hours by the Queen. Hundreds of guns will fire the royal salute. More than 50,000 sailors of countries from Sweden to Turkey will

Week's Blood Donor Clinics Begin Today

The three Red Cross Blood Donor vehicles from Halifax with its complete staff of twelve, which have become a familiar sight in the Province, arrived in the city early last evening after an absence of near seven months. The team will commence their clinics at Red Cross Headquarters in Charlottetown this afternoon at two o'clock. Premier A. W. Matheson and Mayor J. D. Stewart will officially open the clinic by being among the first donors. Every effort has been made to have a record attendance at the three Charlottetown clinics this afternoon, this evening and tomorrow afternoon when at least 400 donors are required. On Tuesday evening the team will be in action at St. Peter's Bay where the clinic is being sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Life Insurance Sales Conference

Matters of general interest to all life insurance salesmen will form the subject of a talk by Mr. Leslie W. Dunstall, Toronto, General Manager of the Life Underwriters Association of Canada at noon today. He will be addressing a luncheon gathering during the annual Life Insurance Sales Conference which opens today with the auspices of the Life Underwriters Association of P. E. I. Registration this morning will precede the opening session which will have Mr. Stewart Ives, Conference chairman, in charge. Addressing the group will be Mr. J. L. Lee, Detroit, Mich., and Mr. John L. Bennett, president of the Life Underwriters Association of Canada. During the afternoon session over which Mr. Roy MacGillivray will preside, Mr. Lee will be heard in a second address while the second speaker will be Mr. Tom Jory, London, Ont. Representatives of at least 12 insurance companies are expected to attend the conference, which was arranged by the committee of Messrs. R. E. Younker, V. S. Ling and R. J. Rupert.

Line the rails of the beflagged ships

—The Queen, standing forward on the 1,500-ton dispatch ship Sunrise, arrives to take the salute. With her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, the Queen will sail on and down the lines of ships and see a salute by 300 planes. Two hundred and six of the ships reviewed represent one-third of the British Commonwealth navies' warships. There will be ships also from Russia, France, Sweden, Italy, Spain, Greece, Brazil, Portugal, Holland, Turkey and Norway. One Sailing Ship The only sailing ship due, the Italian training vessel Amerigo Vespucci, will arrive about Monday. Other warships due on Wednesday include the Belgian frigate Victor Billet, the Danish frigate Holger Danske, France's cruiser Montcalm, the Dutch cruiser Tromp, Norway's frigate Narvik, Portugal's first class sloop Berzeloume Dias, Spain's cruiser Miguel de Cervantes, Sweden's cruiser Gota Lejon, the Turkish destroyer Demighian and Soviet Russia's cruiser Sverdlov. The Queen will later dine aboard the Vanguard, flagship of Admiral Sir George Cressy, commander-in-chief of the Home fleet.
