7 Canadian Nuns Believed Safe

OTTAWA (CP)—Seven Canadian missionary nuns from the Roman Catholic order of Les Filles de la Sagesse (Daughters of Wisdom) are believed among 1,000 white hostages held in Stanleyville by Congolese rebels, it was learned here.

The Canadian mother house of the order here said the seven nuns have not been heard from since August. Fragmentary reports from the Congo indicated that they are in good health, however.

The teaching order identified the missing nuns as follows:

1. Sister Montford de la Croix (family name: Ida Michaud), 44, St. Quentin, N.B., last reported at the Opala Mission, 80 miles southwest of the rebel capital of Stanleyville.

2. Sister Anne de Ste. Marie (Alberta Verhelst), 46, Eastview, Ont., missionary at Elisabetha, north of Stanleyville.

3. Sister Susanne de Notre Dame (Susanne Beaudry), 29, Chelmsford, near Sudbury, Ont., missionary at Elisabetha.

4. Sister Yvonne du bon Pasteur (Jeanette Vezina), 45, Montreal, last reported at Yabaondo.

5. Sister Thecle de Marie (Marie-Claire Carrier), 56, Edmundston, N.B., at Isangi.

6. Sister Marie Gaston (Donia Bedard), 56, Notre Dame de la Paix, Papineau County, Que., also at Isangi.

7. Sister Stanislas (Claire Veillette), 29, Gatineau, Que., at Elisabetha.

NEWS IS MONTH OLD

The order's provincial for Canada said the last news she received was a message about one month ago from the International Red Cross, saying all the captive missionaries were reported unharmed.

"The parents are rather alarmed," she said.

Quebec MP Sees Canada Early Republic

OTTAWA (CP)—Auguste Choquette, a Quebec Liberal member of Parliament, predicted here Canada will be a republic within 15 or 20 years.

"The monarchy has fallen into disuse in all countries and if Canada can no longer invite the Queen without provoking an uproar, it will have to come to this solution," Mr. Choquette, MP for Lotbiniere, told a French - language service club.

Mr. Choquette said all Canadians should consider Canada as their country and the federal government as the government of all Canadians.

At the same time, he said, French Canada makes up an authentic nation because it has all the attributes of nationhood such as language, religion, territory, history, literature, common interests and consciousness.

"We should fight separatism with a determination as intense as that with which we should spread the French language and culture throughout Canada," Mr. Choquette said.

He said there are three types of separatists: Frustrated French - speaking Canadians who curl up within themselves, those who do not believe in separatism but who give free reign to their revolutionary tendencies and those who think separatism is the best solution.

"As for myself, I am a partisan of a psychological reconquest of Canada by French-speaking Canadians by convincing ourselves this is our country," he said. "I believe we can make Canada evolve and that we have a preponderant role to play in it."

Mr. Choquette said co-operative federalism will allow French - speaking Canadians to convince English - speaking Canadians that two nations can exist within one state.

Compulsory Premiums Increasing

LONDON (CP) — Compulsory premiums paid by Britons to the national insurance scheme will increase next year to help pay for benefits announced in the Labor government's first budget.

At present an employed man over 18 pays 11S 8d ($1.75) weekly and his employer 9S 8d ($1.35). This goes into pensions and all the benefits of Britain's national health service.

The treasury bridges the gap between revenue from premiums and the cost of the welfare state, now running at nearly £3,000,000,000 a year — about £80 ($240) a head for all Britons.

The increased pension rate announced Wednesday will provide £6 10S (about $19.50) a week for a retired married couple, up from £5 10S (about $16.50) The weekly unemployment benefit will go up to £4 ($12) from £3 7S 6d (about $10).

The bigger benefits will cost an extra £335,000,000. The exchequer expects to raise £215,000,000 from the higher insurance rates—and will have to bridge the gap with treasury outlays of £130,000,000.

Total weekly contributions by employee and employer now will be £1 6S 6d (about $4).

The scale is slightly lower for women. An employed woman who now contributes 9S 8d ($1.45) a week will pay an extra 1S 9d (26 cents).

The higher charges will probably come into effect about the same time as the bigger benefits—from March 29, 1965.

West Failing To Forge Links With New States

MONTREAL (CP) — Charles Malik, former president of the United Nations General Assembly, said here the Western world has failed to forge fraternal links with the emerging nations.

"In this area of competition it has abdicated to communism," the Lebanese diplomat and teacher told the public relations world congress.

"Because of its recent colonialist history, the West is too frightened, too guilt - ridden, to venture on creative associations adequate to the needs of the moment," he said.

Mr. Malik, who once served as Lebanon's foreign minister, said the West's big failing "has been in neglecting or in not being able to provide the emerging nations with the kind off fellowship they need."

"Communism, on the other hand, comes much nearer to providing them with it."

Now a professor of philosophy at the American University of Beirut, he defined fellowship as "internal organic concern for the development of your fellows, internal organic involvement in their fate."

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Pass	3 ♥	Pass	4 ♥

Opening lead—king of spades.

The backward finesse is a play which declarer rarely uses. The proper setting for its use occurs so seldom, and the play is so unnatural besides, that it is almost a collector's item.

First, let's see what's meant by a backward finesse. Ordinarily, if declarer has the diamond holding seen in the North-South hands, he cashes the king and then plays a diamond to the jack. If East has the queen, the finesse wins and South makes three diamond tricks. If there are no clues to indicate otherwise, South has a 50 per cent chance of winning the finesse.

If you now look at the East West diamond holding you see that South loses a diamond trick by playing the suit this way. However, it can also be seen that it is possible to avoid a diamond loser by playing the suit in a somewhat abnormal way.

To accomplish this, declarer starts the suit by leading the jack, planning to finesse if West follows low. If West ducks, South has his three diamond tricks. So let's say that West covers with the queen. Declarer wins with the king, returns a diamond, finesses the nine, and thus escapes a diamond loser.

The reason the backward finesse is hardly ever used is that it requires two cards to be well placed, whereas the simple finesse requires only one card to be well paced. The odds are 3 to 1 against a backward finesse succeeding.

The backward finesse is the correct play in the accompanying hand. Declarer ruffs the third round of spades and leads a heart. When East shows up with the ace, he can hardly be expected to also have the queen of diamonds, since he passed his partner's spade bid.

Accordingly, after drawing trumps and cashing three rounds of clubs, South leads the jack of diamonds, knowing that West has the queen and hoping that East has the ten. As the cards lie, the combination finesse succeeds and South makes the contract as a result.
