7B Lobster District Divided In 2 Parts

CAPITAL BUREAU OF THE GUARDIAN

OTTAWA — The federal government has split lobster district 7B into two sections, it is revealed in the current edition of the Canada Gazette.

The lobster fishery regulations are completely republished in the Gazette, the former regulations which were passed by an order in council in April 1957 are revoked and the new regulations substituted.

A spokesman for the fisheries department says the only significant change in the new regulations is that the large district known as 7B has been split into two sections, known as 7B and 7C.

Purpose of the move was to give a better degree of local control on the opening of the lobster season. While the same dates for the open season apply in both areas, the split will enable only one of the areas to be effected if any decisions is made to delay opening date due to icing conditions.

The northern New Brunswick section has been removed from 7B and made into its own section of 7C. In this way, fishermen who may operate in an ice free area will not be penalized if the season is delayed because of icing in the companion area.

The regulations cover three pages of the Gazette and another four pages contain the schedule of closed seasons and minimum lengths of lobsters that may be taken.

For both 7B and 7C the closed season is from July 1 to April 30 and the minimum length permitted is sow and one-half inches.

Eskmos To Try Experiment In Blue Herring Processing

FORT SMITH, N.W.T. (CP)— A group of 10 Eskimo families will net and process barrels of blue herring this summer in an experimental commercial fishing venture.

The men will use gill net and beach seine to harvest herring from icy Arctic waters off Baillie Island in the Beaufort Sea 1,250 miles north of Edmonton and 450 miles north of here.

Women and children will be kept busy on the island cleaning and salting the tasty fish and putting it up in barrels. Each family is to receive $350 a month for fish prepared according to specification.

Plans call for marketing some of the processed catch in settlements of the Mackenzie River delta.

The families, transplanted from Tuktoyatuk, 140 miles west, could form the nucleus of the latest in a series of self-sufficient Eskimo co-operatives set in motion by Eric Hoffman, northern affairs department industrial division's top chef and food specialist.

GET INSTRUCTION

Mr. Hoffman will instruct the families in the art of marinating, smoking, drying and canning the herring. Division offices are to give instructions and guidance only until the Eskimos are ready to take full charge.

The Baillie Island project was the result of a survey made in the Paulatuk-Tuktoyatuk area last year by Runther Abrahamson, a former game officer at Aklavik in the Mackenzie delta.

It was believed the first such study in the western Arctic although the department had done studies in the eastern Arctic looking for ways to fuse surplus Eskimo manpower and exploitation of renewable natural resources.

Although some of the fish will be marketed in the north, government officers are investigating other outlets in Canada and the United States for possible sales.

STRIPPER'S ACT CUT BY MAMA

SEATTLE (AP) — Crepes Suzette, an aspiring young stripper at Seattle's only Burlesque house, found her fame extinguished by her irate mother who jumped on the stage and threatened to spank her.

Mama, in turn, got the hook.

It all happened when Gloria Bledsoe, 18, billing herself as Crepes Suzette, was trying to make good by starting at the top and working down—shedding her clothing.

Mrs. Norma Watson, was in the audience.

When she "couldn't stand it any longer" she leaped on the stage, grabbed her daughter and threatened to spank her.

Attendants hustled them both off while the mostly male audience whooped and hooted. The nipping of a budding career occurred last week.

Tuesday prosecutor Charles O. Carroll charged theatre operator Larry Blue with contributing to the delinuency of a minor A warrant also was issued for Gloria as a material witness.

Probe Of Scandal To Be Bipartisan

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan and Opposition Labor Leader Harold Wilson have agreed to arrange a sweeping new bipartisan investigation into the security aspects of the Profumo scandal.

The two antagonists are expected to meet today (Wednesday) to settle differences that have arisen between them on the form of the investigation.

U.S. Gets Ruling On Bible, Prayer In Classrooms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court has barred Bible-reading and recital of The Lord's Prayer in public schools as part of required classroom exercises.

This is unconstitutional it said in an 8 to 1 ruling on cases from Maryland and Pennsylvania. The decision would apply also in many other states where such customs are followed.

The court did not spell out whether such observances would be possible on a permissive, rather than a required, basis but did bar the establishment of such exercises by majority rule.

Many church leaders accepted the court's decision as a call for renewed emphasis on religious instruction in the home and church.

This view, however, was by no means unanimous. Some powerful church voices spoke out in strong dissent.

Where some saw the court's action as a firm restatement of constitutional safeguards, others viewed it as an erosion of the precepts upon which the United States was founded.

Forest Expert Urges Campaign To Back Spray

OTTAWA (CP) — A British Columbia forestry specialist suggested here that the North American Forestry Commission adopt a program to combat growing public resentment against the use of chemical insect poisons.

H. B. Forse, chief of B.C.'s Forest protection work, said scare articles about the dangers of insecticides are having an adverse effect on the forest industry's public relations.

A move had been started by the B.C. Loggers Association to counter this adverse publicity.

Mr. Forse is attending the forestry commission's meeting as a provincial observer.

He said the B.C. group is "a lone voice crying in the wilderness" and the campaign could be better staged by the commission, made up of Canadian, American and Mexican forestry specialists. There was no immediate reaction to the idea.

"We in B.C. could in a year or two have a disastrous (insect) epidemic on our hands and we don't want to have to fight public opinion in order to get a thorough spraying and dusting program going," he said.

Of the 80,000 Jews living in Turkey in 1948, some 30,000 had found a new home in Israel by the end of 1950.

Opening lead—king of clubs.

One mark of a good card player is his knack for guessing two-way finesses correctly. There is nothing mysterious about this particular skill— it is simply a matter of assembling clues, interpreting them, and reaching the right conclusion.

Take this deal. West leads the A-K-Q of clubs, declarer ruffing the third club as East discards a diamond. South has the hand made, provided he does not lose a trump trick. He does not know, however, how the missing four spades are divided— whether he should cash the A-K, hoping the queen will fall, or whether he should take a finesse in one direction or the other, depending on which opponent has the spade length.

He solves the problem indirectly. He realizes, since West has already shown up with six clubs and East with two, that East is the player more likely to be long in trumps. However, since this is far from a certainty, he postpones the critical trump decision until he acquires additional knowledge about the opponents' hands.

Accordingly, he cashes the king and ace of diamonds and ruffs the jack. He notes that West follows to all three diamonds, thus accounting for nine of West's original cards.

Next he plays a heart to the ace and another one back to the king. When West follows to both hearts, eleven of his cards become accounted for.

The contract is now a sure thing. West cannot possibly have started with more than two spades among his original thirteen cards.

Declarer therefore cashes the ace of spades and leads another spade and finesses the jack. If East has the queen (the actual case), the finnesse wins and South makes ten tricks, eventually losing a heart.

If West has the queen, the finesse loses all right, but West —now proved to have started with two spades, two hearts, three diamonds and six clubs— is forced to return a club, permitting dummy to ruff as South sheds his heart loser.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
