Wit and Wisdom of Goldwin Smith

(From The Epistander for December.) Our critic has a keen and practiced eye for motive.

Pauperism has been proved to be to a great extent hereditary.

O'Connell was wise enough always to keep his agitation within the pale of the law.

There are a few female ministers of religion, but the fashion seems not to gain ground.

A people refusing to pay rent is a difficulty with which perhaps no Government has ever before had to grapple.

Politics is a trade into which, even if it is destined to last, no woman who retained a vestige of her sex would wish to go.

Experimentation on the relations between the sexes is more costly and perilous than experimentation on the Edison light.

A woman may study thoroughly law or medicine, but she cannot possibly mind a baby and attend to a congregation, client or patients at the same time.

The fact is that though voting arrangements may throw obstacles in the way of corruption, or facilitate its detection, nothing can uproot it when the tendency exists.

No person, nowadays, would advocate the imposition of taxes on the people, merely for the purpose of keeping out foreign goods; nor could any party, with such a policy, hope to hold power.

Americans can never help flinging themselves at the feet of celebrity, especially when it comes to them accredited by European opinion which, and English opinion above all, they regard with excessive deference.

Mere stimulation of the brain during youth may be no benefit, but the reverse, nor is human happiness likely to be increased by kindling an intellectual ambition, which cannot be satisfied, in the hearts of all mankind.

We cannot help regarding a gentle and accomplished Englishwoman who, as wife and mother, is performing the highest of human duties, as an article too precious to be flung into the smelting pit without a considerable probability of improvement.

Some persons are marked out for the life to which a learned and scientific training is essential, without being on that account, a bit happier than their neighbors; for it is an utterly groundless and perverse fancy which draws distinctions of higher and lower between honest callings, all equally necessary to the common work and the common weal of humanity.

Those who bet on Hanlan have won, but those who bet against him have lost: the winners of to-day will spend lightly, and tomorrow they will be the losers. A frank expression of opinion on this subject will not be resented by any one who has seen how utterly gambling drugs down and shatters a young man. Napoleon who, though wicked himself, wanted to be served by trustworthy men, and was a very shrewd judge of character, always avoided those whom he believed to be addicted to gambling, saying that no confidence could ever be placed in them. Managers and employers will find that Napoleon was in the right.

It may safely be assumed that the Pacific Railway Agreement will occupy Parliament from the ninth of December to Christmas, so that to touch other questions at present would be premature. Not that we look forward to a tough or protracted struggle on the subject of the Agreement. The Opposition may take a good point on the refusal of the Government to make known the conditions to the country, but otherwise its position is weak. It has thoroughly committed itself to a policy with regard to the general question identical with that of the Government; and if it attempted to prevent the transfer of the construction to a company, it would have the whole country against it. In power, it accepted the undertaking and carried it on as a government work; while its organ persistently goaded the country to the enterprise, and impugned the motives of those who were trying to bring the other side of the question before the people. Nor is any one, except the regular leaders of the Opposition, likely to make a stand; not one has done so at any stage of the affair. In whatever respects the Canadian Parliament may resemble that of England, it lacks the sturdy eccentricity of the Cross Benches. In the English Parliament, if public interests so great had been at stake, there would unquestionably have been found a man who, in defiance alike of majorities and of conventional opinion, would have fought his battle unflinchingly, and forced his view of the question on the consideration of the country.

Remedy for Hard Times.

Stop spending so much on fine clothes, rich food and style. Buy good, healthy food, cheaper and better clothing; get more real and substantial things of life every way, and especially stop the foolish habit of running after expensive and quack doctors or using so much of the vile humbug medicine that does you only harm, and makes the proprietors rich, but put your trust in the greatest of all simple pure remedies, Hop. Bitters that cures always at a trifling cost, and you will see better times and good health. Try it once. Read it in another column.

the statements or opinions of our correspondents.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

SIR,—It is currently reported that the Train Despatcher here has to remain in his office to a great extent night and day on duty. It is reported that this official was recently on duty fifty three hours with but intermission for meals, and that he is often on duty up to 2 or 3 o'clock, a. m.
Is this true? As the safety of trains is dependent, to a great extent, on the efficiency and vigilance of the train despatcher it is desirable these reports should be officially contradicted if not correct. You will kindly insert this in the next issue of your paper, and oblige Yours, TRAVELLER,

Gladstone in the Hands of His Physician.

London advices say that Gladstone's withdrawal from the Commons is demanded by his physician, who asserts that the Premier's health cannot stand such an arduous Parliamentary session as the forthcoming one promises to be. In London, it is currently reported that after the budget is made known Gladstone will accept a peerage and retire to the Upper House.

"The recent strike has been the unholy action of men who spoke glibly and understood nothing."

This was said by Mr. Macdonald, a member of the British Commons, to a body of miners who had "struck work." The same remark might be made about the men, in this Island, who are "agitating" to prevent the collection of debts honestly due the public.

THE "Northern Light," the costly purchase of Sir Albert J. Smith, attempted to make Summerside harbor last week but got stuck in the ice. She had been sent from Charlottetown to release several ice-bound vessels at Summerside. If this vessel is not able to break up the ice formed by a few days' frost, how can she expect to keep navigation open during the winter.—Mon-ton Times.

The Rev. Dr. Bushnell himself relates it: "As we were coming out of church one Sunday," he said, "my wife remarked, you had better burn that sermon; it isn't worth repeating anywhere." "I shall do no such thing," I answered, a little vexed; "the sermon is up to my average." She persisted, and I said little more. But a year or two afterward, on a bright, cheery Sunday in May—one of those days that make a discourse go of itself—I took that same sermon again. And, as we came down the aisle after service, she whispered (without the slightest notion that she had heard it before), "I would mark that to preach on exchanges. It is better than common!"

At a meeting of the Montreal branch of the Irish Land League, held the other night, it was resolved to cable the parent society in Ireland that if necessary the ablest counsel in the Dominion would be sent over to assist in the defence of Parnell.
About 700 members joined the League, and a Mr. Quinn was authorized to form new Leagues in various parts of the Dominion. Over $1000 was subscribed at the meeting.

In the Commons, the Address in reply to the speech from the throne will be moved by Mr. Beatty of West Toronto, and seconded by Mr. Vanasse of Yamaska.
In the Senate the Address will be moved and seconded by Senators Gibbs and McLellan, respectively.

THE new Chilean Minister to Washington says Chili will not recede from her demand of $20,000 indemnity from Peru, and that it would have to be paid in the end.

THE Princess Louise has just published a "galop," composed by herself. H. R.
H. describes herself on the front page as "Louise Campbell."

ABOUT five hundred dollars worth of gold medals were distributed on the 6th among one of the New Jersey life-saving crews.

God is seen sooner, easier, clearer in his operations than in his essence. He is best beheld by reflection in his creatures.

The American People.

No people in the world suffer so much with Dyspepsia as Americans. Although years of experience in medicine had failed to accomplish a certain and sure remedy for this disease and its effects, such as Sour Stomach, Heart-burn, Water-brash, Sick Headache, Costiveness, palpitation of the Heart, Liver Complaint, coming up of the food, low spirits, general debility, etc., yet since the introduction of Green's August Flower we believe there is no case of Dyspepsia that cannot be immediately relieved.
50,000 dozen sold last year without one case of failure reported. Go to your Druggist and get a sample bottle for 10 cents and try it. Two doses will relieve you.
Regular size 75 cents.
