S'ide Dinner Ends Visit For 25 U.K. Air Cadets

SUMMERSIDE — The Town of Summerside last night hosted 25 young men and their chaperones from the United Kingdom at a dinner at Andy's Downtown Restaurant. The young men belong to an air training corps cadet party and are on a three-week tour of Canada. Councillor H. B. Schurman acted as host for the town.

The visit is being made as part of the international air cadet exchange scheme. The cadets arrived at RCAF station Trenton from London on July 31 and since that time have been touring Eastern Canada. They landed at the Charlottetown airport yesterday around noon. They were treated to local tours, a swimming party and reception. Following the dinner last night they were being taken to see Woodleigh replicas to see miniature images of buildings from their home land.

The cadet were to spend the night at the local RCAF station from where they were to leave for Trenton this morning. On Thursday they made the 11-hour flight back to London, Eng. AGE 17 TO 19

FARMERS ARE

been talking to Manager Lloyd MacLeod of the Canada Packers' plant here and was advised that cattle prices would probably be better in a month's time.

Also frowned upon severely is the practice of all too many farmers meeting cattle buyers with the approach "I know cattle prices are away down, I have a half dozen, can you take them off my hands for me?" It's bad psychology, it was suggested.

Austin Kennedy, Mt. Herbert told the meeting he has been feeding 50 steers on "beef producer" for the last 15 days. The animals had started to go back as the pasture got worse, he explained.

"The feed will cost me about $1,000 but it will also move my steers from 12 or 13 cents per pound to 17 or 18 cents per pound." It will mean additional money for him, Mr. Kennedy explained.

But even in cases where the cattle won't make money, he is advised to feed the animals and not sell them as poor steers for poor prices. It's a matter of reducing your losses it was explained.

Feeding grain is the only solution for cattle that are to be sold this fall, Mr. Colton said. For the man who doesn't do so, and feeds the cattle through the winter, it will mean much heavier feed costs, he cautioned. With half a hay crop and perhaps one-half a grain crop, such winter feeding is not an attractive proposition, it was argued.

Mr. MacRae suggested farmers might cut several rounds around their grain fields, and save for cattle feed something that is often wasted in good years.

Dairymen were urged to use dairy ration to keep their milk cows producing, particularly if they are in the earlier part of their lactation. Once a cow goes down in her milk production it's impossible to get her back on top level production, it was explained.

There was some difference of opinion on whether ammonium nitrate, or a complete fertilizer should be used to boost pastures for later use this year, but there was general agreement that fertilizer use would be advisable.

It was thought unlikely that the federal government would agree this is a disaster area for feed — most people feel it is not — and thus any attempt to get federal aid on extra cattle feed needed may not be successful.

But the problem of aid will be discussed with them, Mr. MacRae said.

Jack Rodd, Milton presided as president of the P.E.I. federation of agriculture.

Field Day On Tobacco Planned In September

A tobacco field day is planned the second week in September and it is aimed, for the most part, at prospective growers, with the aim of increasing the tobacco acreage in the province. It has been learned from Dr. Kilpatrick, fieldman for the P.E.I. department of agriculture.

Tobacco prospects are the best since the industry was started in this province, so far as this stage of growth is concerned, it is suggested by experienced observers who are close to the crop. One grower, Leonard Vaerwyck, who has a tobacco farm at Grandview with his son-in-law Mark Vanneste expects to produce 1,500 pounds of leaf to the acre which would be the best production in this province thus far.

Growers have been topping the crop for about a week now, and most of them are topping fairly high, in case moisture for the rest of the growing season should not be conducive to good growth.

GOOD AS ONTARIO

Mr. Kilpatrick and Keith LeLachur, research officer at the Experimental Farm, spent a week or more in the Ontario tobacco belt recently and they report that some of the crops here are as good or better than some of the Ontario crops. They excepted the early-planted Ontario tobacco, which naturally is further advanced.

Fields of tobacco are uniform, of good color and the growth is very even, Mr. Kilpatrick said. Apparently the lack of moisture has not affected the crop adversely as yet, though a good rain would be most welcome.

Fertilizer recommendations were made by the Canada Department of Agriculture following research by Mr. LeLachur — have worked out really well, Mr. Kilpatrick said. The majority of the fields are responding well to this artificial stimulation, though there are a few exceptions.

There are some indications that there is a definite link between the presence of phosphorus and potassium content in the soil and the leaf-rot which affects some fields of the Island crop two years ago, it was stated.

First Blood Clinics Short Of Objective

The response at both Hunter River and North Rustico yesterday was termed disappointing by Red Cross officials as the first of the four day series of blood donor clinics ended by being 87 short of its 270 objective.

At Hunter River just 64 of the expected 120 donors registered in the afternoon, and only 119 in the hopes for 150 reported at North Rustico to make the day's total only a 67 per cent result.

Sponsoring the clinic at Central Queen's Regional High School in Hunter River for the first time the local women's institute had everything well arranged for a smooth-running clinic which was staffed by its members who also provided the refreshments for the donors.

Several visitors who are spending their vacation at resorts in the National Park area boosted the attendance at North Rustico clinic which was still 31 short of its quota. Notable among these visitors was a young couple who had been married in Montreal on Saturday last and are honeymooning at Cavendish. Another couple from Boston, who are Red Cross volunteers in their own locality, expressed keen interest in the functioning of a Red Cross blood donor clinic in Canada and noted the differences in procedure with those carried out by the American Red Cross.

The North Rustico clinic which was held at Stella Maris hall was under the sponsorship of the local branch of the Royal Canadian Legion but staffed by volunteers representing the Avonlea women's institute, the CWL of North and South Rustico and the ladies' auxiliary of the Legion who also shared in providing the refreshments for the donors. Boy Scouts of the area were also among the helpers at the clinic.

Today's clinics will take place at Kingsora regional high school this afternoon between 2 and 4, and at the Legion Home in Eldon this evening between 8 and 10 with a total objective for the day again set at 270-120 for the afternoon, and 150 for the evening.

Island Population Listed Officially At 108,000 June 1

OTTAWA (Special) — It has taken 35 years for Prince Edward Island's population to rise from 88,000 to 108,000, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reveals in an annual report of estimated Canadian population as of June 1.

The island's population was 88,000 in 1931 and at June 1 this year it is estimated to have reached 108,000, an increase of 20,000 over the period or an annual increase of 572 people.

At June 1 last year the island's population was estimated at 107,000, and this figure had remained static since June 1963. The population has fluctuated up and down several times over the 25 years and between 1941 and 1942 it dropped by 5,000 and dropped 1,000 between 1955 and 1956. Since 1958 the population has either remained steady or gained slightly. Biggest increase in any one year has been 2,000.

By comparison with the other Atlantic provinces the P.E.I. population of 108,000 trails Newfoundland with an estimated 498,000, Nova Scotia with 761,000 and New Brunswick with 623,000.

Canada's population reached 19,571,000 at June 1 an increase of 336,000 over the year. Ontario recorded the largest provincial increase of 145,000.

Tenders are to be called for the position of town policeman. Mayor Roy Leard presided and all councillors were present for the meeting.

Peking Puts Kremlin Leaders Below Khrushchev Era Group

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
NEW YORK (AP)—China still wonders who is top man in the Soviet Union, but judging from its tirades, Peking thinks less of the present Kremlin leaders than it did of Nikita Khrushchev.

Propaganda assaults on Moscow's leaders are frustrated by lack of any one personality dominating the world stage. Stalin was a symbol, and Khrushchev became one, too. Verbal thunderbolts reverberated in world capitals.

To the Chinese, apparently, the present Soviet leaders are nonentities, heirs of Khrushchev who, in the words of the Peking newspaper Ta Kung Pao, "have acquired his rotten legacy."

To emerge clearly has weakened the Kremlin's potential for dominating the world stage. Stalin was a symbol, and Khrushchev became one, too. Verbal thunderbolts reverberated in world capitals.

The new leaders have been a pale substitute. The Chinese predicted correctly, as events demonstrated—that Khrushchev would be overturned. They now are predicting that the present Soviet leadership "will bring ruin and shame upon themselves."

CAN'T PINPOINT LEADER

But the attacks fail to say which of the Soviet leaders will come to grief. The Chinese, like much of the rest of the world, lack a clear idea of who dictates Soviet policy today. The collective leadership is nominally headed by Leonid I. Brezhnev as party chief and Alexei N. Kosygin as premier, but apparently many other powerful figures are involved, representing a wide variety of opinion.
