Switch Repair Causes Disruption In Power

A defect yesterday afternoon at the generating plant in Charlottetown of the Maritime Electric Company, resulted in an emergency cutoff of two of the main circuits feeding east and west of the city.

The defect developed in one of the main oil switches at the plant, causing it to bolt and to start arcing.

To enable repairment to work on the switch it was necessary to cut off Nos. 1 and 3 circuits. The former feeds from Milton Road and the latter from the Stewart to Souris and Cherry Valley to east of Montserrat.

A temporary repair was made by cutting jumpers in the circuit across the pole connections, and the system was maintained through this method while the oil switch was being repaired.

Plant superintendent, Jack Boomhower, last evening reported that the switch had been overhauled, but was not being reconnected right away. He said that the system was maintained until after midnight last night, when the cutoffs could be made again without disturbing consumers.

Mr. Boomhower said the reconnection would not take too long and that all services would be back to normal well before dawn.

Sweeping Changes Urged In Juvenile Delinquents Act

OTTAWA (CP) — Sweeping changes in the Juvenile Delinquents Act have been recommended by the Canadian Corrections Association.

The association says that under present legislation no legal distinction is made between a youngster involved in armed robbery and one involved in an infraction of a bylaw such as riding a bicycle without a licence.

The association says new legislation should do away with a situation that makes any youngster a delinquent upon conviction for juvenile crime. The recommendation is included in a brief presented to the justice department last week and made public Thursday.

Another major recommendation asks that new legislation define a child as a person between the ages of 12 and 16 and a youth as being a person between 16 and 18 years old. It suggests that the terms "juvenile" and "delinquent" be dropped from legislation in favour of "child offender, youth offender and children's court."

The association says a child's court should be given the exclusive jurisdiction over children and the youth court should come under the concurrent jurisdiction of both the children's court and the adult courts. The youth should first appear in a children's court and be transferred to an adult court only after the consideration of the seriousness of the offence and the condition of the youth involved.

It recommended that federal legislation contain provisions to enable the provinces to pass complementary legislation so that a child or youth charged with an offence could be dealt with under provincial law as requested, rather than as an offender. The provinces would retain their responsibility over neglected children.

British Army Paratroops Train In Canadian North

By FRED CHAFFE
 CHURCHILL, Man. (CP) — "The thing I can't get used to," said Col. Les Heery, "is being separated from our weapons. In any other place we'd be practically tied to them."

Heery, a lean Heavert veteran of the Irish and British armies, was relaxing on an inflated mattress with his back against a rucksack in a snug winter tent. Outside the moon shone brightly on the wintry barren lands of the Canadian sub-Arctic.

Heery is one of 168 British paratroopers of D Company, the 3rd battalion, Parachute Regiment, getting their first taste of winter environmental training near this Hudson Bay fortress and shipping port 600 miles north of Winnipeg.

The four FN rifles and a sub-machinegun of Heery's tent were stacked neatly against the wall. Heery has a seven-foot-high snowbank just outside the tent entrance.

"What we're brought through this heat," Heery explained, "we'd get condensation and five seconds of frost on the tent. It's again we'd have frozen breecches among other things. And even the action worked, you can't shoot 30-calibre ammunition through a .22-calibre barrel."

Returning Officers Busy Preparing For Balloting

By NEIL A. MATHESON
 Provincial and Farm Editor
 The non-political phase of an election campaign is as necessary in the battle of ballots across the country as the battles that are staged by the competing parties.

This phase is already underway and will continue until the verdict is rendered April 8 by an estimated 10 million eligible voters in the various polling places that are staged by the competing parties.
