A DROP OF WATER.
Its History is Full of the Wonders of Romance.
Water that is now in the ocean and in the river has been many times in the sky. The history of a single drop taken out of a glass of water is really a remarkable one. No traveler has ever accomplished such distances in his life. That particle may have floated the streets of London and have formed a part of the murky fog and have glistened on the young grass blade of April in Irish fields. It has been lifted up to heaven and sailed in great wool-packs about the globe, forming part of a cloud-mountain which with thunder, has been hurled in a heavy fall many miles above the earth at the close of long seasons of still weather. It has descended many times over in showers to refresh the earth, and has separated bubbles in many fountains in every country in Europe.
And it has returned to its native element, but it has accomplished its purpose. It has been a messenger of life and health to many a creature that with one drop of its life-giving water.

Of your internal organization, would reveal if your back pains, congested kidneys, if your tongue is coated, disordered stomach, if your head is heavy, sluggish liver. Take another snap shot after you've used Mack's Rheumatic Pills, and note the change—the kidneys will be filtering the poisons from the system, the stomach actively digesting and the liver pouring out bile. You'll say you never felt better in your life. The Mack's has been cleared of poisons by Mack's Pills, that's why.
"Cough Chaser" will cure that hacking cough. 10c.

Wedding Rings
"WELL, SAM, since the engagement ring wears so well these long eight years you bought from G. G. JURY, I accept your proposal if you promise to buy the Wedding Ring from him also. My friend Neil was married a few days ago, and you should see the beautiful ring he has, and oh, so cheap. She says Mr. G. G. JURY has a fine assortment from 14k to 18k, and he buys them from the largest establishment in Canada, and they will last a lifetime; and you know one wedding ring must do these hard times."
"Agreed, I will go and buy the ring from G. G. JURY, Watchmaker and Jeweler, Charlottetown."

ONE WOMAN'S SECRET.
HOW SHE WAS ENABLED TO LIVE WITHOUT GETTING INTO DEBT.
A Solution of the Question of Economy Over with Profit—Practical Hints for the Wise and Practical Housewife.
The other day I asked a successful housekeeper, says Johnstone Murray, in Womankind, how she managed to keep her table so plentifully and wholesomely supplied, to keep the boys in school and neatly clothed, to keep herself happy and well and her husband content; to keep her house tastefully furnished and still have enough left from her husband's not large salary, to buy an occasional book and keep on the sitting room table several of the best magazines, to pay her rent and her club dues—in short, to live the proper life of a middle class family, and not get in debt.
And she told me her secret—a very simple one, but one that the average woman may ponder with profit. She said:
"I study advertisements, and I know where and when and how to purchase the household supplies. My husband used to laugh at me for reading advertisements so carefully, but he has long since learned that I save many dollars every month. I know of no better way to practice economy, and do you know, that it is a wonder how soon you learn to detect the real from the false, intuitively, almost? I do not think I have ever been 'taken in' by an advertisement; there is always something about the false ones that repels me. You hear a great deal nowadays about the 'practical pages of magazines and newspapers, but for me the practical pages are those containing the business announcements of reputable business houses. The housekeeper who takes advantage of the practical hints in these pages shows a great deal more common sense than does the one who tries to furnish a seven-room cottage with a lot of soap boxes covered with denim work in fancy stitches, and to feed her growing family with never ending reminiscences of the meal that went before. To the economical housekeeper the advertisements are the most important part of any publication."

How to Boil Potatoes.
In a bulletin issued by Prof. Snyder of the Minnesota State Agricultural College, he makes a point of interest to the housewife. Forthwith there comes a potatoe are peeled and started boiling in cold water there is a loss of 50 per cent. of the total albumen, and where they are not peeled and are started in hot water, this loss is reduced to 2 per cent. A bushel of potatoes, weighing sixty pounds, contains about two pounds of total nitrogenous compounds. When improperly cooked one-half of a pound is lost, containing six-tenths of a pound of the most valuable proteins. It requires all of the protein from nearly two pounds of round potatoes to replace the loss of protein from improperly boiling a bushel of potatoes.
Lack of Care in the Clothes.
It is not wear, but lack of care, that makes a bedraggled mass of one's best gown in a couple of months, and often it suffers most when not being worn. The way shopkeepers care for ready-made garments is an excellent object lesson. Coat hangers are cheap, but half a barrel hoop, linen-wound, with a loop in the middle, is even cheaper, and answers the purpose as well. These are for the heavy skirts, waists and jackets. Thin garments should not be hung at all, as they crowd against. These should be folded in light paper stuffed in sleeves and bows.
Bleed Liver and Breathe.
Have the liver bleed thin, pour boiling water over it. Let it stand a few minutes, then drain. Lay a layer of liver in a bake pan, then flour it with pepper and salt, then a layer of thin-cut bacon, and so on till all the liver is in. Put a layer of bacon on top, pour a cup of boiling water over, and bake.

MERRY MOMENTS
Baron—Does that young man who is paying attention to your daughter save at a reasonable hour every night? Light—Yes, I have no reason to kick.—Yonkers Statesman.
Henry Bloomer—What do they do in bucket shops, papa? Mr. Bloomer—You should say "Whom do they do in bucket shops?" They do the bucket shoppers.—Life.
D'Auber—Who is that homely woman rhapsodizing before the picture of the handsome society matron? D'Angelo—She's the original of the painting.—New York Herald.
Edmund—Remember, if anybody calls I am in to subway. Servant (sotto voce)—Well, this is the first time I ever saw you when you weren't into somebody.—Philadelphia Record.
Young wife (at the fancy ball)—You're improving wonderfully of a fancier. Don't you remember how you used to tear my dresses? Young husband—Yes, I was. I wasn't buying 'em then.—Boston Globe.
Papa (enraged)—Why, Constantia, seen as soft, green, unsophisticated, spoony an idiot as young Puddington—Mamma (emphatically)—I have.—Cleveland Plaindealer.
"I'm sorry now, mamma," sobbed Bobby, "that I stole those apples."
"Oh, yes," said his mother, "your conscience hurts you, does it?" "No," returned Bobby, "it's my stomach that hurts."—New York Herald.
"I can see no reason," said the S.P.P. A. boarder, "why I shouldn't be thought advisable to dock a horse's tail." "Probably," suggested the Cheerful Idiot, "they are docked for being behind."—Indianapolis Journal.
When he asked for her hand she replied, "No, George; my heart is quite at your service; but I think I had better keep my hand myself. It might be useful to me in case you couldn't support me, you know."—Boston Transcript.
Miss Antiqua—People are always talking of self-made men. I wonder why they never speak of a self-made woman? Miss Austere—Because a self-made woman generally doesn't like to have it known.—Harper's Bazar.
Grandpa—Don't get scared, Willie; the tiger is about to be fed; that's what makes him jump and roar so. Willie (easily)—Oh, I ain't afraid of him, grandpa. Papa's the same way when his meals ain't ready.—Standard.
Daughter—This piano is really my very own, isn't it, pa? Pa—Yes, my dear. "And when I marry I can take it with me, can't I?" "Certainly, my child; but don't be sure, it might spoil your chances."—New York Weekly.
Father—You may as well give up thinking about that young man, Dashing. He does not love you. Daughter—How do you know, papa? Father—I met him at the club just now, and he refused to lend me a liver.—Boston Globe.
"I wonder," said the man who was about to start to Atlanta, "if I'd better take a heavy overcoat and a pair of Willie (easily)—Oh, I ain't afraid of him, grandpa. Papa's the same way when his meals ain't ready.—Standard.
Daughter—This piano is really my very own, isn't it, pa? Pa—Yes, my dear. "And when I marry I can take it with me, can't I?" "Certainly, my child; but don't be sure, it might spoil your chances."—New York Weekly.

"I wonder," said the man who had been out for the evening, "why some bright women marry such insignificant husbands?" "William," she said admiringly, "you are really too modest; you really do yourself an injustice."—Washington Star.
"If I give your friend a place," said the banker, "the will have to give a bond. I suppose you will go on?" "Bond?" exclaimed the other man. "Why, he can be trusted with uncounted millions." "Yes, but all the money we have is counted."—Indianapolis Journal.
"Have you anything to say before sentence is pronounced against you?" asked the Judge. "The only thing I'm kickin' about," answered the convicted burglar, "is 'bin identified by a man that kept his head under the bed-clothes the whole time. That's wrong."—Judge.
Hicks—I see they've arrested young Goveus for pilfering nuts and apples off the street peddler's stand. It'll be hard with him, won't it? Wicks—I don't know; it looks like a clear case of heredity. His father was a policeman, you know. The fact will be urged in extenuation.—Boston Transcript.
"Dunkin's guess is about the smartest man of his year in this community," said the citizen who observes, "Knows a great deal, does he?" "Knows a great deal? I should say so. Why, sir, that man knows almost as much as his nine-year-old daughter who is in the high school."—Washington Star.
Romantic Miss—Have there not been moments in your experience when you seemed full of unsatisfied wants? Mr. Hardhead—Yes, that's so. Romantic Miss—At such times I always fly to music for relief. Why do you say so? Mr. Hardhead—I advertise.—Richmond Sunday Herald.

Gloom
Of ill health, despondency and despair, gives way to the sunshine of hope, happiness and health, upon taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, because it gives renewed life and vitality to the blood, and through that, that imparts nerve strength, vigor and energy to the whole body. Read this letter: "Hood's Sarsaparilla helped me wonderfully, changed sickness to health, gloom to sunshine. No pen can describe what I suffered. I was deathly sick, had sick headaches every few days and those terrible tired, despondent feelings, with heart troubles so that I could not get up and down stairs without clapping my hand over my heart and resting. In fact, it would almost take my breath away. I suffered so I did not care to live, yet I had much to live for. There is no pleasure in life if deprived of health, for life becomes a burden. Hood's Sarsaparilla does far more than advertised. After taking one bottle, it is sufficient to recommend itself." Mrs. J. E. Smith, Beloit, Iowa.
