Popular Command

ABOARD THE CRUISER GLASGOW, (Reuters)—The Queen ordered her Mediterranean fleet today to "splice the mainbrace"—the traditional British naval order for a special issue of rum to all hands.

The popular command was given as Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh sailed across the sunny Mediterranean on their way from Malta to Gibraltar, last stop on a round-the-world Commonwealth tour.

Five-year-old Prince Charles and Princess Anne, 3, played on the deck today as a passing British submarine, the Sea Devil, saluted the royal yacht Britannia.
