Escape From Satellite Scheduled For Study

OTTAWA (CP)—The United States Air Force has placed a contract in Canada for a study on how to escape from a manned satellite, a Canadian government document has revealed. No details were given.

The 1961 annual report of the defence production also disclosed:

1. A feasibility study into the launching of test rockets from aircraft to altitudes of 20 miles at velocities up to 10 times the speed of sound. The speed of sound is about 760 miles an hour at sea level. The program may be connected with countermissile research.

2. A Canada - United States development program for moored sonobuoys. These devices detect submarines but so far have been employed by dropping them from the planes, helicopters and warships.

3. "Bomb toss" computers for the CF-104 low-level jet strike plane are being manufactured in Canada. This means the main armament of the CF-104 will be a bomb, not a missile.

PRODUCE NEW PROP

4. Production facilities will be established in Canada for manufacture of noise-reducing five-bladed propellers for naval ships.

5. Drawings and design documents necessary to invite tenders for construction of a Pacific naval laboratories research vessel have been completed. The vessel will be fitted with special tanks to reduce rolling.

6. Devices to prevent electronic jamming of the Pinetree radar system are in production.

The defence production department said it placed $328,-800,000 worth of defence contracts in 1961, 34.3 per cent below the $804,286,000 value in 1960.

The Bidding:

Opening lead — jack of diamonds.

Declarer has to do a certain amount of guessing in some hands, because he does not know how the adverse cards are divided. The clues may be sparse, the defense may be clever, or there may be no positive way for him to reach a firm decision in choosing his line of play.

Such hands are comparatively rare, though, and declarer can nearly always find a way to avoid the guess or else solve it successfully.

Look at this hand where South failed in his contract. He ducked the diamond lead, ruffed the continuation, drew three rounds of trumps, and led a club to the queen.

East made a good play when he ducked. He knew that if he took the ace at once, his partner's jack (if he had it) would be subject to a later finesse.

Declarer then played a spade from dummy and finessed the jack. West won it and returned a diamond. Declarer ruffed, cashed the ace of spades, and led another club, West playing low.

Now South was up against a difficult guess. He could put up the king from dummy on the basis that West had started with the A-7-4, or he could play the ten on the basis that West had sarted with the J-7-4. Either play could be right or wrong, depending on how the cards were divided.

Declarer guessed wrong. He played the king and later lost another club to go down one.

It is true that South ran into tough defense as well as bad luck with his finesses. However, his troubles were of his own making. He should have made the contract without subjecting himself to a guess of any kind. He overlooked a play sure to make the hand.

After ruffing the diamond and drawing trumps, he should have led the A-J of spades, deliberately giving up the chance of winning a spade finesse. A later club lead would assure him of an entry to dummy and a discard of a club on the queen of spades. His only losers would be a spade, a diamond and a club.

A X Y D L B A A X R
L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
