University Previews Face Big Problems

By HAROLD MORRISON
WASHINGTON (CP) — Some times Canada-born Dr. Harold Taylor likes to blow the dust in some jazzy place with Duke Ellington and his big "just what you need" is a more serious mood. He'll work it in, just through Beethoven's Ninth.

But the 46-year-old former university president who has little time for fun and games is involved in the darkest cloud on the American horizon: the prospect of a long, hot summer and new bitterness, bloodshed and death as an estimated 1,000 student workers in Mississippi and urge the Negro to vote.

The situation is serious and the problems are immense," said the son of a Toronto building superintendent who became president of Sarah Lawrence College at the age of 30—the youngest university president in U.S. history.

The blue-eyed Dr. Taylor, recognized as a philosopher and education authority, now serves as human relations consultant to Adlai Stevenson, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

Taylor became an American citizen in 1947. The justice department simply isn't doing its job, he added in an interview as he sat on the stage of a downtown theatre. The theatre had been turned into an unofficial court to hear evidence of Negroes who had been arrested, beaten or killed by police brutality or sniper's bullets in Mississippi.

SEK PROTECTOR
Dr. Taylor headed a panel of nine American intellectuals selected by national coordinating committee of Negro organizations seeking to persuade President Johnson to send federal marshals into Mississippi to help protect the student workers this summer. A letter to Tom Heller of New York who wrote the novel Catch 22, became so emotionally upset on hearing witnesses told of tortures that he suggested the U.S. forget about South Viet Nam and declare war on Mississippi.

The stories the Negroes told were similar to those told before—beatings at the hands of white police; loss of jobs, homes and wages when Negroes tried to form unions; jailings without legitimate charges; degradation and hopelessness for those born on Mississippi.

Other panelists, who included a New York judge, a sociologist, a historian and several writers, appeared shocked by Heller's proposal for all-out war on Mississippi, but Dr. Taylor and others agreed that the young student workers would have no bed of roses in that state.

All across the federal government could no longer sit back and await events. Several legal actions suggested by the justice department has the power to act. All that is lacking, they suggested, is the political will.

SAIGON (Reuters) — Many devout Buddhists here spoke of "a miracle" when a giant statue of the Buddha in a dominating position in central Saigon burst into flames Wednesday, apparently without cause.

They linked it with the first fiery suicide of a Buddhist monk in last year's Vietnamese the anniversary of this event is being observed today. The explanation was more prosaic. Workers dismantling the statue, put up for celebrations of Buddha's birthday two weeks ago, had used blow torches to free it from the steel tower, not realizing that the statue was made from inflammable material.

New Monument Marks Crash

STE. THERESE DE BLAINVILLE, Que. (CP) — A monument bearing 118 names and the words Flight 83; Nov. 28, 1963, now stands in a cemetery that has been turned into a picturesque spot.

On it are inscribed the names of the 118 passengers and crew members who were aboard Air Canada's then Trans-Canada Air Lines) Flight 83 when it crashed in the ground in the community 15 miles north of Montreal.

The airline installed the monument a few feet from the common grave of the 118 victims.
