

MIRIAM TOLBERT.

She Could not Yield to the Wrong.

'So you've allowed yourself to be bewitched by that little siren, Miriam Tolbert, I'm told, Dukehart?'

'I'm afraid I can't contradict the report,' said the major.

His companion laughed and shrugged his shoulders. They were having a charming little dinner at the club, with some half a dozen other convivial souls.

'See here now, old fellow,' he continued, as he unlocked a second bottle of old port and filled the major's glass to the brim. 'you're fond of your glass I think, as the rest of us—you old port, your sparkling champagne, your brandy, old rye and all the rest of them. Isn't it so?'

'Couldn't do without them. My dear fellow, what are you driving at?' said Dukehart, tossing off his glass. 'I'll tell you, major. You acknowledged that you are bewitched? Very well, now do you know what your pretty siren is?'

'Of course I do. She is the prettiest woman in Bownton.'

'Granted; but she is something else. Dukehart, my poor fellow, she's a reformer; an out and out temperance advocate. Did you ever notice that coquettish little blue ribbon she wears just above her heart?'

'Well, that is the badge of her order. She's a temperance reformer, old fellow; and if you marry her she will reform you just as sure as your name is Tom Dukehart.'

The major laughed and all his companions joined him. He was the leading spirit of the club; a wild, dashing, handsome young fellow, rich, gay and just the least bit too fond of his glass.

'Have your laugh out, boys,' he said pleasantly; 'but it all amounts to nothing. I'm bewitched, I'll confess, but not to the extent you imagine. If pretty Miss Tolbert has a fancy for a blue ribbon crusade, well and good, but she won't catch me in that trap. I'm too old a bird to pick at chaff, you know.'

'Ah, but we don't know,' cried Eastham, 'do we, boys? I'll lay a wager of almost any amount that in less than a month you'll sport a blue ribbon in your button hole, and roll up your eyes in holy horror at the sight of a demijohn.'

'Done,' cried the major, pushing forward his empty glass; 'put up your stake, comrades. And I lay a wager that I make my pretty charmer haul down her colors before she is a week elder. What do you say?'

'Done!' cried a half dozen voices in chorus, and then the stakes were put up and the glasses clinked merrily, and the laughter became uproarious.

'My dear Miriam, I really hope you have no intention of encouraging Major Dukehart?' said Miriam's mother, as that young lady was dressing for Mrs. Grover's party. 'He is a handsome, agreeable person, I'll admit, but so very wild, and fond of his glass too, I've been told. His attentions are becoming quite marked of late. My dear child pray take my advice and discourage him at once!'

Miriam went to her mother's chair and kissed. 'Don't worry, mamma, love,' she said in her low soft voice. 'I shall do nothing wrong. Perhaps I may be able to win Dukehart over my way of thinking. I am afraid not, Miriam; the safer way will be to let him alone.'

A wistful look crossed the girl's beautiful face. 'I cannot agree with you, mamma,' she replied. 'When we have an influence it is surely our duty to use it for the good of others. But do not distress yourself; you may put your trust in me.'

'Yes, my pet,' said the mother, kissing her daughter's cheek, 'but these handsome men are so enticing, and woman's heart is so weak. And a woman's influence is so strong. You must not forget that, mother,' said Miriam.

'Miss Tolbert, won't you drink a philopena with me?'

Fever and Ague.

Are you troubled with Ague, Chills and Fever, Bilious Fever, Remittent or Intermittent fever, Night Sweats or any disease that comes from Malaria or disordered Liver and Hot Sun? If so, procure a bottle of Green's Ague Conqueror, which is an acetic extract of strong tonic roots, combined with Sulphate of Magnesia, etc., and positively contains no Quinine, Arsenic or other poisons. It purifies the blood, cleanses the liver, spleen and other secretive organs so effectually that the chills will not return. We have never found any case of Fever and Ague it will not cure. Price 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle. One large bottle has cured as many as five in one family. Sold by all druggists and dealers everywhere.

'No terra alba or glucose in ours, please.' The Candies at The Confectionery are made every day on the premises, of the purest sugars and flavorings. Avoid the cheap, pretty, imported trash that is sold in town. [416 3i eod]

Remedy for Hard Times.

Stop spending so much on fine clothes, rich food and style. Buy good, healthy food, cheaper and better clothing; get more real and substantial things of life every way, and especially stop the foolish habit of running after expensive and quack doctors or using so much of the vile humbug medicine that does you only harm, and makes the proprietors rich, but put your trust in the greatest of all simple pure remedies, Hop Bitters that cures always at a trifling cost, and you will see better times and good health. Try it once. Read of it in another column.

REMARKABLE CURE OF AN INFLAMED TEARDUCT OR PASSAGE TO THE EYE, WITHOUT AN OPERATION.—Mrs. Gibson, who has a large and extensive confectionery and candy store at No. 25 East 42nd street, near the Grand Central Depot, was about to have a silver tube inserted in the tear passage of her left eye. The enlargement and inflammation was very great. Before submitting to the operation I tried Dr. Giles' Liniment and rubbed it carefully over the inflamed duct. The inflammation disappeared, the passage became clear, and I was, through its power, able to do without a surgical operation. Also took the Liniment internally, a teaspoonful three times a day, in a wine-glass of water. Giles' Pills cure headache. Sold by W. R. Watson.
