"China Seas" At Prince Edward

Between dangerous thrills and dangerous romance there is something doing every minute in "China Seas," the new all-star drama which opened yesterday at the Prince Edward Theatre.

The stars are Clark Gable, Jean Harlow and Wallace Beery.

It is a picture in which interest never slackens and action never lags. It takes its place among the finest entertainment vehicles of the new screen season.

Part of the story is played in the howling fury of a tropical hurricane on the last frontier, the wild southeastern coast of Asia. It is one of the most spectacular sequences ever filmed.

"China Seas" deals with the odd love story of the hard-bitten young skipper of a coastwise liner, played by Gable, and "China Doll," a lovely wanderer in the Asiatic ports, played by Miss Harlow. Involved with them in a mysterious trader, Wallace Beery, who is suspected of being the master mind of a piracy plot.

Action takes place entirely on the wheezy old liner Kin Lung as it plows down the China sea between Hongkong and Singapore. Under the polite veneer of the passengers runs a tremendous dramatic under-current of fierce loves, bitter hates and sinister intrigues, to which the typhoon and the sudden catastrophic pirate raid are fitting background.

Merits special mention for outstanding acting honors are Lewis Stone, Rosalind Russell, Dudley Digges, C. Aubrey Smith, Robert Benchley, William Henry, Edward Brophy, Lillian Bond, Soo Yong and others of the distinguished cast.

"The Informer" Best 1935 Picture At The Capitol

Bringing one of the most dramatic characters of fiction to the screen with amazing realism, "The Informer," scored an impressive hit with an opening audience at the Capitol Theatre.

An artistic triumph, the picture, with Victor McLaglen and lives up to all advance notices. Strong dramatic fare, it stands far above the ordinary run of film features.

McLaglen's superb performance as Gypo Nolan, "The Informer," is ably seconded by the work of Margot Graham, blonde English star, Preston Foster, Heather Angel, Wallace Ford, Una O'Connor, J. M. Kerrigan, May Boley, Donald Meek and others.

With Dublin, Ireland, in the troubled times just after the World War, as its locale and period, the story concerns the dramatic aftermath of the impulsive betrayal of his fellow revolutionaries by Gypo Nolan, a gigantic human derelict.

Tortured by fear, half-crazed by remorse, Gypo weaves a net of doom about him as he leaves a trail of blood money during one of the mad adventures in the fog-shrouded streets of Dublin. All of the action of the story transpires in that one night, giving the drama remarkable unity.

Gypo becomes relentlessly pursued by retribution with only his sweetheart yielding him sympathy.

Much of comedy relief, contributed largely by McLaglen himself, and Kerrigan, highlights the tense drama. There is also a romance between Preston Foster and Heather Angel.

Thinks Hauptmann Alone Was Guilty

KANSAS CITY, May 11—(AP)—The Star says in a Washington dispatch that J. Edgar Hoover "broke his silence on the Lindbergh case" Saturday, emphasizing the United States government's confidence that the crime was entirely the work of the executed Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

"Do you think, Mr. Hoover, that Hauptmann crawled through the nursery window and kidnapped the Lindbergh baby?" The Star said its correspondent asked the director of the Bureau of Investigation.

"The department of justice believes he did," Hoover was quoted in reply.

Queried concerning reports that "the ransom notes continue to bob up," Hoover said:

"Not a dollar of ransom money has been reported since Hauptmann's arrest."

The Star said a lengthy report which Hoover gave permission to print showed assets and expenditures of Hauptmann for which he could not account totalling within $49.56 of the entire $50,000 ransom figure.

Suitable Eyewear Improves Appearance

You will occasionally hear a person complain that she objects to wearing a correction of her eyes because of the effect on her "looks." That argument no longer applies. The modern eye service considers appearance, which can now be corrected almost anywhere.

Post Graduate Recital Elicits Great Praise

MISS GRETA ROGERS

of Coleman who gave a brilliant post-graduate piano recital on Monday night at Sackville, N.B.

Miss Rogers presented in Beethoven Hall a program of much interest to an audience that was not slow to express its approval.

The opening group included a Bach Prelude and Fugue, a Clementi Sonata and Beethoven's Sonata Op. 78. These were particularly distinguished by a facile technique and an excellent tone. In the Chopin group the pianist achieved the most notable success of the evening, playing with a fine degree of poetic insight, particularly in the Prelude Op. 28 No. 20 and the Nocturne Op. 15 No. 1. Here again her exceptional quality of tone was an important feature. Schumann's delightful "Kinderscenen" were invested with a remarkable degree of imagination which displayed their contrasting moods and subtlety of nuance. Outstanding was the "Child Falling Asleep." The program was concluded with a brilliant performance of Thebe's somewhat faded "Perpetual Motion."

Miss Rogers possesses a charming stage presence thereby adding to the pleasure derived from any performance she gives. Miss Rogers deserves the unstinted praise of all Sackville music lovers for this fine recital.

Miss Frances Elliot, contralto of Halifax, sang a group of Lieder by Strauss, Brahms and Schubert, of which Strauss' "Morgue!" was the outstanding number interpretatively. Miss Katherine King was the accompanist, playing in her usual efficient and helpful manner.

Police Have Law On Teacup Seers

TORONTO, May 11—(C.P.)—The teacup readers of the city are breaking the law at the average of perhaps 100 times each, says Kenneth MacGillivray in The Globe.

In most cases the police are not interested for they agree that the belief in some people's ability to see the future in a soggy sediment of tea leaves is widespread among the female of the species, and that to capitalize on that belief does not constitute a serious menace to the peace.

Of course it is well known some men also have their cups peered into.

Most of the professional teacup readers in this city charge from 10 cents to a quarter, depending on their place of business and their clientele. Their number is legion in Toronto at present. One after another the restaurants, tea-rooms and even drugstore lunch-counters have been hanging out signs: "Tea-leaf Reading," or something of the sort, to attract customers whose curiosity as to their own future and whose credulity are as well developed as their appetite.

The police are after bigger game when they invoke a certain section of the law. Every so often they make it hot for one of those "clairvoyant shops" which annually spring up on the main streets, to the annoyance of the neighborhood. Just a dirty window, and an amateurish drawing of a human, and a fat, old woman in one-piece clothing, who sits in the doorway and beckons at passers-by. But such places take plenty of money away from "suckers" every year.

BREADALBANE WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The Breadalbane Rural W.I. held their regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Angus Gillis on April 1st. The meeting opened by singing "The Good Time to Get Acquainted." Roll call was answered by ten members with "A Book I Have Read from the Carnegie Library."

New committees appointed were: School, Mrs. Thacker and Mrs. Todd. Sick, Mrs. J. J. McLeod and Eliza Abbott. Program, Luella Todd and Margaret McDonald. Next meeting to be held at Luella Todd's on May 13th.

Program consisted of a step dance by Mary McLeod and Thelma McLure, contralto and instrumental music. Lunch was served by hostesses assisted by Mrs. J. J. McLeod.

The building was raised some feet by means of jacks and just as Mr. Collins was about to insert braces the building slid off the jacks, pinning him beneath it. Quick action on the part of the workmen and men who gathered at the scene of the accident in raising the building made it possible to extricate the injured man without delay. He was carried at once to his home which was nearby. The full extent of his injuries are not known but it is hoped that his condition will soon show improvement. H.
