Wood Specialty Firm Carves New Markets

CHILLIWACK, B.C. (CP)—The Canadian offspring of an American wood specialty firm is carving out new markets across the land and hopes soon to be making an impact overseas.

The Canadian branch of Witco Incorporated of Mount Vernon, Washington, was set up after it proved too expensive to import items from the Mount Vernon plant into Canada because of duty and price differences.

And the subsidiary organization, which started only three months ago, already has its eyes on British and European markets.

Company officials are talking of setting up a representative in London early next year to break into the continental market with Witco's interior decorating accessories.

Like its parent, which itself was formed only four years ago, the B.C. firm manufactures specialty items for the home using cedar and alder—items ranging from relief carvings to candlesticks.

CEDAR EASY TO GET

Jerry Schmidt, foreman at the seven-man production plant in the nearby Fraser Valley community of Sardis, said this part of British Columbia was chosen because of the availability of green second - growth swamp cedar used by the firm in producing its 125 catalogue items.

Mr. Schmidt said virgin cedar has been almost logged out in B.C. and western Washington.

"What is left now is so dry it could not be used for carving," he said. "So we use green timber where the grain really stands out after it is burned, buffed and polished."

The firm features four lines—Oriental, contemporary, Polynesian and lawn and patio furniture.

Among the items are wood figures, bowls, barstools, plaques, benches and wood frames.

SEVERAL PROCESSES

The outline of the project is first stencilled on the raw wood which is then cut with a band saw. A chain saw gouges out the detail and the item goes through various stages of drying, searing, buffing, waxing and polishing.

Most of the products go to eastern Canada but within a month the firm hopes to start producing souvenir items for the B.C. tourist trade — ash trays, nut bowls, models of birds and the like.

"We are producing primitive art here rather than a really fine-finished product and this will reflect into the souvenir line," Mr. Schmidt said.

He said the woodcarving method appeals to younger people because it gets away from traditional interior decorating. And, the relief carvings make good conversation pieces.

PEKING (Reuters) — Communist China has ordered another £1,000,000 worth of steel sheeting and tinplate from the British firm of Richard Thomas and Baldwin, it was announced here Thursday. The order for delivery this year is expected to bring the firm's total 1963 sales to the Chinese to about £43,000,000.

Congressman Accused Gov't Of Ignoring Lumber Industry

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP)—Republican Congressman Jack Westland of Washington state Thursday accused the Kennedy administration of turning a deaf ear to the plight of the U.S. lumber industry.

He appealed again for immediate action to slash imports of Canadian softwoods.

Speaking in the House of Representatives, Westland charged that President Kennedy broke election-campaign promises to aid the industry and that various government agencies have shown reluctance to back action to block Canadian softwoods now absorbing about 15 per cent of the U.S. market.

Westland has gathered support from 105 other Congressmen—including about 48 Democrats—to petition the president to endorse import quotas against Canadian lumber if Canada does not take action on its own to reduce shipments to the U.S.

The Washington Republican also has introduced legislation to cut the Canadian share of the U.S. softwoods market to six per cent from the present 15 and to allow American shippers to use low-cost foreign vessels in an attempt to meet Canadian lumber prices in American ports. These shippers now are forced by law to use high-priced American bottoms.

LITTLE SUCCESS

None of Westland's proposals have made much headway in Congress. He said the administration has shown some sympathy but has provided no encouraging action.

The petitioners also have called for an immediate conference between the Canada - U.S. governments, including industry representatives, to seek some solution to the lumber problem. Westland said this must be a "real conference" including mill owners, loggers and investors, not just dealers, users and government representatives.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 NT	Pass	3 NT

Opening lead—four of spades.

The play of many hands would vary considerably if the participants could see all 52 cards. But bridge being the kind of game it is, each player tries to do the best he can with the cards he sees and the inferences he is able to draw about the unseen hands.

For example, take this hand where West leads a spade. West's lead is normal, considering that all he has to go on is the bidding and the 13 cards he is looking at. A spade lead would probably work out best in the long run, but in the actual hand, it is about the worst opening West can make.

South wins the seven with the jack and plays the jack of diamonds, covered by the queen and king. He then lead a low club which East wins with the jack. East returns a spade.

South wins with the ace and plays another club, losing the king to the ace. East returns a heart. Declarer plays low, losing to the king, and West returns the queen of spades.

East by now has a pretty good idea of how the cards are distributed at the table, so on the queen of spades he discards the queen of clubs!

He reasons that South cannot have the ten of clubs or he would not have played the clubs as he did. East therefore jettisons the queen to provide West with a club entry in case South is planning to establish dummy's last club as a trick.

This play sinks the contract. Declarer has only eight tricks and must go down regardless of what he does. He would have made the hand by leading a club if East had discarded a heart instead of the queen of clubs.

On a 52-card basis, with each player giving his all, South has no chance of making three no-trump. But in practice, once he gets the favorable spade lead, he can make the hand by either refusing the heart finesse when it is offered or by not going up with the king of clubs.
