Stole Three Millions.

CASE OF BULLARD, THE BURGLAR PRINCE.

The enterprising Morning Journal, of New York, publishes a portrait of this criminal and remarks :—

Bullard is the husband of Mrs. Kate Louise Terry the putative widow of Dom Pedro Juan Terry, who has just left her five millions of dollars, of which he did possessed, from a fortune of $35,000,000 inherited from his father, Tomaso Terry, South American sugar planter and slave trader.

Bullard has vowed that when he becomes a free man again he will claim the now wealthy Kate Bullard, or Terry, his two children's mother. His life is full of stirring incidents. He is a native of Connecticut and is forty-nine years old. He was a butcher by trade, but gave up the occupation and devoted his ability to the robbing of banks and safes, for which he inherited a taste from his grandfather, who was a burglar in a small way.

The grandson became one of the boldest operators that has ever handled a jimmy or drilled a safe. When he was thirty-two years old he was engaged with Max Shinburn, an alleged German baron, Ike Marsh and others in breaking into the Ocean Bank. They hired a basement at the corner of Broadway and Fulton street under the bank, and opposite St. Paul's Church, and started a junk shop as a cover to their plans. They bored their way up into the bank, and one Monday morning in 1868, when the officials opened the doors for business, they discovered $800,000 missing. The robbers were nearly a month at the work, and the bank was ruined by the loss. The money was lost in gambling by the thieves. Shinburn got rid of his in Europe.

In 1869 Bullard planned the robbery of the safe of the Merchant's Express Company. He was aided by Marsh. He was then known as Charles E. Tompson. They concealed themselves in the baggage car of the train of the Hudson River Railroad in which the safe was stored and rifled it of $100,000. The messenger was discovered bound and gagged in the car and was accused of being an accomplice of the robbers. The latter fled to Canada. Bullard was extradited from there and lodged in the jail at White Plains. He was there only a short time when he made his escape by boring under the walls. Charley Forrester, a fellow-operator, conveyed to him the tools with which he worked his way out.

Bullard became known among his associates by the name of "Piano Charley" because of musical skill. He was also able to talk German and French among his other accomplishment.

The accomplished criminal journeyed to England and in Liverpool made the acquaintance of Kate Flynn, a barmaid at the Washington Hotel in that city. The two were married and went to Paris, where Piano Charley opened the American Bar, in the Rue Scribe, which he made a popular resort and gambling place for American visitors to the French capital. The police raided him in 1872, and he was sentenced to a year in the galleys. His wife moved to Brooklyn and he joined her later on.

In 1876 he was implicate in the robbery of Boyleston, Mass., Bank, for which he was sentenced to twenty years' imprisonment. He escaped from the Concord jail in 1878, and went to Canada, where he was subsequently arrested for the burglary of the Kingston Bank. He served a short sentence for that undertaking and the next heard of him was in Belgium. There he reformed the acquaintance of Shinburn who planned the robbery of a small bank at Viveres, in the country. He was to receive $60,000 as his share of the $100,000 of the bank's money. The two were caught before they could execute their designs and are now in Belgian prisons. The present Mrs. Terry and former Mrs. Bullard, the big burglar's wife, is now in Paris, but is expected here soon. She is immensely rich, but whether she will ever consent to reunite with her convict husband those who know her best are unable to tell.

Bullard's various robberies are estimated to have amounted to $3,000,000. His share was mostly lost at cards.

MANHOOD

HOW LOST HOW RESTORED!

JUST published, a new edition of DR. CULVERWELL'S CELEBRATED ESSAY on the radical cure of SPERMATORRHŒA or Seminal Weakness, Involuntary Seminal Losses, IMPOTENCY, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc.; also CONSUMPTION, EPILEPSY and FITS, induced by self-indulgence, or sexual extravagance, &c.

The celebrated author, in his admirable essay, clearly demonstrates from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain, and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.
