The Governor General and Princess at Niagara Falls.

The exploration of Niagara Falls, which the Marquis and the Princess Louise have just concluded, ought to satisfy all who take an interest in these distinguished personages that neither of them is lacking in personal courage and physical endurance. The New York Herald's correspondent writes of the incidents of the 23rd inst.:-

On reaching the Canadian side, the sleighs again came into requisition, and the party proceeded at a rapid gait up and through the village of Clifton to the back road running straight for the falls. The snow on the back road being much drifted, it was full of pitch-holes, and the sleighs jumped and bounded over them at a furious gait, much to the amusement of the Princess, who highly enjoyed the thumping and rolling of the sleigh. The object of the fast drive was Mr. Isaacs, who, while at the rapids, was, as usual, on the constant lookout for the comfort of the party and anxious to show them interesting points to the best advantage. Observing a change in the wind, his view was to make a bold rush for the Table Rock, so that the party might get the view from beneath the great Horseshoe Falls without being interfered with by the spray, and he most successfully made it. Arriving at the Table Rock House, the party donned stout iron creepers, furnished by Mr. Davis, and descended the spiral stairway to the fearful chasm below, making the descent in five minutes. Reaching the bottom, they pushed boldly forward, and here, turning her face to the awe-inspiring sight, Her Royal Highness gave vent to an expression of delight, saying, "Don't speak; let me drink in the whole scene."

The scene here was really very beautiful, there being millions of the most picturesque icicles, large and small, in all imaginable shapes, and mountains of ice piled up in every direction. The party proceeded some distance, when Mr. Isaacs remarked that to proceed further was dangerous, but the view being grander at this point, Her Royal Highness, nothing daunted, said "Push on, I will follow; why not view such a grand scene thoroughly?" So on they went, wending their way through tremendous iceicles, climbing with great effort and difficulty the rough boulders of ice till the extreme point was reached. Here Her Royal Highness turned and beckoned to His Excellency and suite to follow, expressing by signs that the sight was grand. They followed and were well repaid, for it is from here that Niagara in winter has to be seen to be fully appreciated. Pen cannot begin to describe the scene. His Excellency expressed himself by saying that it was far beyond his expectation, and Her Royal Highness the Princess exclaimed, "I never have nor never shall see such a grand sight again. What I should have missed had I not seen it." The wind was blowing from the north-west, taking the spray away from the party and consequently giving them an unobstructed view. The whole party were loud in their praises and gave vent to exclamations of delight, remarking that they were well repaid for their perilous journey.

The correspondent of the Buffalo, N. Y.,

"Courier," writes: "Her Royal Highness, the Princess Louise, stood alone upon the very summit of the mound. She is of medium height, has an exceedingly petite figure and is very attractive. Her hair is rich brown and her eyes are liquid blue. She bears a strong resemblance to her Royal Mother, Queen Victoria, and can be recognized by persons who look upon her even for the first time. Her dignified bearing and majestic mien betoken her royal birth, and wherever she appeared volumes of honest praise were showered upon her. Of course, these complimentary remarks were unheard by the Princess, but the pleasant welcome which she was awarded everywhere did not pass unnoticed by her. Her simple manner conquered everybody, and her first visit to the United States was certainly an auspicious one. Her dress was as simple as her personal bearing. She wore a short walking suit made of black silk, and wore no ornaments except magnificent pearls in her ears. She is in half mourning, her dress trimmed with crape. She also wore a costly sealskin sacque, lined with plucked otter, a magnificent garment. Over this she wore a soft Red-River robe or ulster, which was banded upon either arm with a broad band of crape. Upon her back was a hood or chapeau, which, however, was not worn upon the head on this occasion. Upon her head she wore a jaunty sealskin cap and a white nubia was carelessly thrown around her neck. Her hands were incased in fur-lined buckskin gloves, while her wrists were protected with a heavy pair of soft woollen mitts. She wore heavy English walking boots protected by English Arctic overshoes. Her size is number three and her foot is very pretty. Her step is elastic and firm, and she knows how to use her feet to the the best possible advantage. Her Royal Highness is thirty-two years of age.

Sending Silver in Letters.

Many persons are in the habit of sending silver in letters to the United States. The following extract from the Postal Law will show the folly of such a course:-

"No letter containing gold or silver money, jewels or precious articles, or anything liable to customs duties, can be sent, registered or unregistered, to any place beyond the limits of the Dominion of Canada."

Miscellaneous.

The devil fish, according to Prof. Frederic, has purely blue blood.

Hanlan's advent in England is anxiously watched for by the oarsmen of that country.

The wealth of England is computed at $39,200,000,000, $15,700,000,000 of it is real property.

An enormous lathe is being constructed in the Royal gun factories, Woolwich arsenal, for turning a 160-ton gun, an order for which is expected. A 1000-ton crane is also being constructed.

The father of a St. Louis bride presented his son-in-law with 80,000 head of cattle. "Papa, dear," exclaimed his daughter, when she heard of it, "that was so kind of you; Charley's awfully fond of ox-tail soup."

At the annual meeting of the Ottawa Agricultural Insurance Company, it was decided to continue business. An application will be made for an amendment to their charter, changing the name to Metropolitan Insurance Company, reducing the capital stock from $1,000,000 to $500,000, and shares from a $100 to $50 each.

In the House of Commons the pronunciation of Rhodophe makes it a word of three syllables, thus—Rodoppy—with the emphasis on the first syllable; Afghanistan is pronounced Afh-ghan-is-tarn; Cabul is pronounced Kaw-bul; the name of the unfortunate fugitive sovereign—Sher Ali—is pronounced Sheer Allee.

THE New York World, speaking of bank circulation, states that the entire bank issue of Great Britain on the 28th of January, 1879, to be:-

Bank of England	£33,039,545
English private banks	2,081,507
English joint-stock banks	1,845,893
Scottish banks	6,404,359
Irish banks	7,521,110

Total.....£50,882,414

This is, in round numbers, equivalent to $254,000,000, while United States National Bank paper issues amount to $320,000,000, to say nothing of $346,000,000 of greenbacks.

The Death-rate of

Our country is getting to be fearfully alarming, the average of life being lessened every year, without any reasonable cause, death resulting generally from the most insignificant origin. At this season of the year, especially, a cold is such a common thing that in the hurry of every day life we are apt to overlook the dangers attending it and often find, too late, that a Fever or Lung trouble has already set in. Thousands lose their lives in this way every winter, while had Boschee's German Syrup been taken, a cure would have resulted, and a large bill from a doctor been avoided. For all diseases of the Throat and Lungs, Boschee's German Syrup has proven itself to be the greatest discovery of its kind in medicine. Every Druggist in this country will tell you of its wonderful effect. Over 950,000 bottles sold last year without a single failure known.
