THE DAILY EXAMINER.

JULY 13, 1889.

The Lieutenant Governorship.

THE news of the appointment of Hon. J. S. Carvell as Lieutenant Governor of this Province, came to hand last evening just as THE EXAMINER was going to press. Since then it has been the subject of general and most favorable comment. Men of every shade of opinion say that it is just what they expected, and just right. Such unanimity and cordiality must be pleasing in the highest degree to Senator Carvell and the graceful lady who will share with him the honors and the duties appertaining to the gubernatorial office. Certainly it is highly creditable to them that, in this community in which they have lived so long, and in which they are best known, an appointment which makes them the most prominent figures within the social circle of the Province, and gives them the most honorable place in the gift of the Government, is acceptable by all sorts and conditions of men and women. We have no doubt that Senator Carvell will strive successfully to fulfil the duties and maintain the dignity of his position as the official representative of the Queen.

The Press and Prize Fighters.

THE Guardian deprecates the publication by the press of reports of the recent prize fight between Sullivan and Kilrain. It does this on the ground that "many of our young lads who read such rubbish become filled with the idea that a prize fighter is of all men most honorable, most respectable, and most worthy to be emulated." But the publication of the reports has not had this effect upon the mind of the editor of the Guardian. It has, instead, had the effect of constraining him to condemn the pugilists as "ruffian prize fighters," and to declare that "it is quite time the American people took steps to stop such disgraceful exhibitions." This is precisely the effect it has had upon nine-tenths of the people of the American continent. The light of publicity which has been afforded by the press has enabled the people to see, and appreciate, and be disgusted with, the beastly ruffianism of the ring, and to cry out that the performances of prize fighters must be stopped. What has been the immediate result? The pugilists have been arrested, and will, probably, suffer condign punishment. More than that, the champion pugilist has declared that he will never go into the ring again. His excuse is that "Kilrain gave him enough of it." Is it likely that this reason is the true one? As the taste of blood infuriates the tiger, so the blows and bruises of the ring only make more savage the ruffianly heart of the prize fighter and render him more eager for another affray! No; Sullivan's reluctance to enter the ring again is the result of the invisible influences of an enlightened public opinion—extending all over America—which has frowned upon him, and declared to him that such exhibitions as those in which he has taken part must be stopped.

There is no better or more effective means of destroying moral and social evils than the active and enterprising press, which throws the light of intelligence upon them and places them directly under the public eye. The reports are, undoubtedly, "disgusting" to all well-conditioned people; and that is the chief reason why the evils which are exhibited are no longer tolerated. If Sullivan and Kilrain should fight again, they will probably go to Mexico, or to some place in which the press will suppress the report of their encounter.

Supreme Court.

SATURDAY, July 13.

Daniel Edmunds, appellant, vs. Daniel W. Henderson, respondent—Jury disagreed.

George Smith vs. Edward Ryan—Jury disagreed.

Toole vs. Toole—Appeal dismissed with costs.

Solomon J. B. Leard, appellant, vs. John H. Macdonald, respondent.—Appeal allowed and judgment below reversed with costs.

Queen vs. John Roberts—Prisoner said he was sorry for what he had done. He was sentenced to three months imprisonment in Queen's County jail.

Queen vs. Robert Polley—The prisoner declared his innocence. He was sentenced to six months with hard labor in Queen's County Jail.

Queen vs. William Coulsting—Larceny and assault—Prisoner pleaded innocence. He was sentenced to four years in the Penitentiary at Dorchester for the larceny, the sentence to begin after he had served one year in Queen's County Jail for the assault.

The Court adjourned until Monday, 9th September next.

The following letter, placed in the hands of High Sheriff Curtis this forenoon, speaks for itself:—

JURY ROOM, 13th July, 1889.

To the Sheriff:—

SIR,—Allow us to record our gratitude for the noble manner in which we were used when placed under your charge in the case of Henderson vs. Edmonds. Your kindness and comfort will be long remembered by the undersigned.

GEORGE SELLER,

News of the Fishermen.

A Gloucester despatch says: The schooner Norseman, from the Grand Banks, reports on June 28, Fred Sweden, of Norway, and Alfred Stream, of Sweden, two of the crew, got astray while attending trawls, and as a strong breeze was blowing at the time, it is feared their dory was capsized and they were drowned.

Schooner Ben Hur, of this port, was reported at Bay Bulls, Newfoundland, with 110,000 pounds codfish. John Fagan and Thomas Thompson, of Sable River, N. S., were reported gone astray and had not been heard from, and it was feared they were lost.

Several arrivals from seining to-day report having cruised from Block island to Mt. Desert and Saco without finding mackerel. The fleet will now sail for North Bay.

The Grand Banks codfishing fleet are reported doing well since the arrival of caplin bait, which is procured in great abundance at Newfoundland very cheap.

Lincoln's Religion.

The forthcoming (August) number of the Century will contain a chapter on "Lincoln and the Churches," in the Lincoln History, by Messrs. Hay and Nicolay, from which the following is an extract:

"He was a man of profound and intense religious feeling. We have no purpose of attempting to formulate his creed; we question if he himself ever did so. There have been swift witnesses who, judging from expressions uttered in his callow youth, have called him an athiest, and others who, with the most laudable intentions, have remembered improbable conversations, which they bring forward to prove at once his orthodoxy and their own intimacy with him. But leaving aside these apocryphal evidences, we have only to look at his authentic public and private utterances to see how deep and strong in all the latter part of his life was the current of his religious thought and emotion. He continually invited and appreciated at their highest value, the prayers of good people. The pressure of the tremendous problems by which he was surrounded; the awful moral significance of the conflict in which he was the chief combatant; the overwhelming sense of personal responsibility, which never left him for an hour—all contributed to produce, in a temperament naturally serious and predisposed to a spiritual view of life and conduct, a sense of reverent acceptance of the guidance of a Superior Power. From that morning when, standing amid the falling snowflakes on the railway car at Springfield, he asked the prayers of his neighbors in those touching phrases whose echo rose that night in invocations from thousands of family altars, to that memorable hour when on the steps of the Capitol he humbled himself before his Creator in the sublime words of the second inaugural, there is not an expression known to have come from his lips or his pen but proves that he held himself answarable in every act of his career to a more august tribunal than any on earth.

Desperate Fight For Life.

A Greenville, Me., special to the Bangor Commercial says that W. S. Files, with his wife and little daughter, and Wallace Hamilton, of Guillford, were out in a small boat on Moosehead Lake, about a mile above Greenville, last Sunday afternoon. Hamilton attempted to go from one end of the boat to the other, and upset, throwing them all into the lake. Files grasped his wife and child, and got the boat righted, but Hamilton, in his frantic efforts to save himself, again upset it. Files tried to calm him, and says all could have been saved, but Hamilton was insane with fright, and, as fast as the boat would right so they could climb into it, Hamilton would upset it. Files, by almost superhuman efforts, saved his wife and child, having to dive five times for the child. Finally Hamilton sank to rise no more. The rest clung to the boat till help came. They were seen by a party of boys in swimming, who went to their assistance., rescuing them in an exhausted condition. Mrs. Files was unconscious when taken out. Hamilton was 35 years old, and leaves a widow. His body had not been recovered at latest accounts.

Strong Testimony.

MRS JOHN ROSS,—For the past eleven years I have been a great sufferer with a cankerous sore on my ankle, for which I tried several remedies that did me little or no good, until I applied your Magic Healer Salve, which I began using about three months ago, and am now perfectly healed. I can cheerfully recommend it to anyone similarly afflicted.

MRS. DANIEL COMPTON.

Georgetown, July 11, 1889.

The above testimonial was voluntarily given by the lady whose name is appended to it. The Salve here referred to is manufactured in Charlottetown, and for sale throughout town and country, being within the reach of all.

For any skin injury, test the MAGIC HEALER. Ask for it, and take no other, until its merits are fairly proven.
