

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT CUDMORE

Wedding Vows Pledged At Double Ring Ceremony.

Cornwall United Church was the scene of a colorful wedding on March 20th, 1965, when Mary Hyde, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hyde of Cornwall, became the bride of Robert Cudmore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Cudmore of Charlottetown. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Isaac Walls. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white net lace over satin, with rounded neckline and long lily point sleeves. Her address was a flower circlet with shoulder length veil of tulle illusion, and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses. Her jewelry was a single strand of cultured pearls, gift of the groom.

The bridesmaid, Norma Murray, sister of the bride, and her only attendant, was gowned in a ballerina-length dress of blue tulle, with matching head-dress. She carried a crescent bouquet of white feathered carnations.

Clarke Cudmore, brother of the groom was best man. For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Hyde wore a brown sheath

MARY HAWORTH

Widow Anxious To Meet Potential Second Husband

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: How does a widow get back into social circulation? Here are the vital statistics: Age, mid-50s. Height, five feet, four inches. Weight, 120 pounds. Eyes, hazel. Hair, blonde. Skin, fair. Legs, nice. Feet, small. Teeth, very good. Smile, happy. Big. Personality, effervescent. Con tours, 36-25-35.

Education, junior college. Apartment, plush Car. '64 model. Job, with government. Security, yes. Hobbies, art, golf travel. Looks good on paper don't you think? Still, one needs a helping hand to promote introductions. Church groups or country clubs - usually have their definite social cliques and, lacking luck or aggression one is excluded.

Too, there are so many single women, apparently, and so very few eligible single men. How can one meet a potential husband? If one says, as I have: "How about introducing me to an eligible man as a dinner companion or to share a drink with me in my apartment?" it seems to fall on deaf ears. Nobody carries through. So long as they have plenty to do, they don't seem to care about me.

What do you suggest? D.E. Dear D.E.: You delineate yourself as a sort of china doll, pleasing to the eye, but sawdust inside. As I get the pitch of your desire to return to social circulation, you have a mind's-eye concept of yourself reappearing on the inside track, so to speak, as a sort of retreat debutante.

You take stock of yourself in glamour, girl terms, as if unconsciously you feel obliged and, indeed prepared to compete, in this guise, with the perennial upcoming tides of fresh new female candidates for courtship and marriage - in their teens or twenties.

If such is your self-conceived approach to a second chance, you are handicapping yours. I am, I think, a little more interested in the glamour girl ensemble of feminine charms - will want it packaged in bonafide youth, not in a masterpiece of past-fiftiethy good looks.

As I see the problem, widowhood has deposited you at a crossroad in life, from which you would like to take off into a second springtime of married happiness to escape the loneliness of walking alone.

And in visualizing solace of that sort, you tend strongly, and unconsciously, to lean towards the past - towards a recovery of your youth as it was or as you may have wanted it to be. The fact is, however, that you must forge ahead, taking the onward and upward path through the foothills and mountains of maturity to work your way out of the widowhood - mists of feeling emotionally disinherited and socially rudderless - in middle age.

As of now, you are still preoccupied with longings, day dreams and hopes of finding the partner who can be all things to you (in a makeshift mode, if it comes to that) so as to annul your present sense of fifth-wheel status.

But the only real remedy is to grow up, psychologically, to the equivalent of your calendar age. The peace of maturity begins to dawn in the life of the lone adult when he or she instinctively takes stock of any given situation in terms of being useful to others, as an expression of inner vitality.

Your bid - for - happiness falls short on this count. It has a juvenile ring. Calendar-wise, you are an older person, so be realistic about it. Find other hobbies than art, golf and travel. Give regular time to volunteer work for community projects, as a habit - forming exercise in character - stretching. M.H.

By TRACY ADRIAN. CHECKED gingham is used for this sea-going outfit that is just great for fishing or sailing.

The hooded jacket is styled with a drawstring hemline, roomy flap pockets and a rust-proof zipper closure. With the coat are cabin-boy pants with a stretch-web belt and a solid brass buckle that never tarnishes. The sou'wester hat fits all heads and covers any style hair-do.

The gingham is non-wilting and is treated to take salty waves and rain storms in stride.

All Girl Real Estate Company Is Only One In Canada. TORONTO (CP) - A real estate firm here staffed exclusively by women operates in a haze of pink. The office walls are pink, the memo pads are pink, and so are the business cards and sales of agreement.

The firm's manager and director, Lil Rush, says she tells her sales staff if they think pink they'll wear pink (which she does). The firm's sales figures, she says, are solidly in the black.

One of her commissions, in 1962, was on the most expensive one-family dwelling ever sold through the Toronto Real Estate Board. The house, in Toronto's exclusive Bridle Path area, sold for $200,000. Mrs. Rush says she showed it to six couples and received five offers to buy. A plaque in the office testifies to her achievement.

Devotional Held At Kensington

Mrs. Horace Paynter and Mrs. James Paynter were hostesses to the members of the Myrtle Road Presbyterian Missionary Society held in the church study, Kensington recently for their March meeting.

The meeting opened with the theme, "The First Miracle and Persecution," and prayer, followed by the hymn "God of Mercy, God of Grace." The creed was repeated in unison, and scripture from Acts 4 and Psalm 2 was read responsively.

The Exposition on the lesson was read by Mrs. James Paynter, and the hymn "Stand Up, Stand For Jesus," was repeated. Each member offered prayer followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison. The minutes of the February meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Lorne Crozier, and seven members answered roll call with a verse of scripture. One visitor was present.

Correspondence consisted of the annual report of the Presbyterial, and the offering was received and dedicated. Mrs. Ira Huestis presented the third chapter from the study book, with each member taking part. The April meeting will be held in the church study.

Meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction, after which refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Tignish Ladies' Auxiliary To Hold April Food Sale

The March meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Royal Canadian Legion Branch No. 6 Tignish was held in the ladies' lounge recently with the president, Mrs. E.C. Perry, presiding.

Zone rallies for the different branches will be held in the ladies' lounge on Friday evening, April 30th at 7 p.m. when Mrs. Earl MacDowall, West Prince zone commander, will conduct the meeting, along with the secretary, Mrs. E.C. Perry.

A food sale will be held in the co-operative self-service grocery store on Easter Saturday April 17, and all members were asked to donate. Five dollars was voted to the West Prince Music Festival which is slated for Tignish early in May. The members decided to buy furnishings for the newly built ladies lounge.

The minutes of the previous meeting, executive meeting and three or four children she hopes for.

Mr. and Mrs. Cleary, who had two children when they came to Canada from England in 1946, don't plan to have any more.

"We didn't plan these," they add. "It just happened." Mr. Cleary came from a Midland, Ont. family of seven children and Mrs. Cleary from a Burlington, Ont., family of five. But Mrs. Cleary's grandfather had a big family - 10 boys and one girl.

The well-kept Cleary home has no set routine. "We all do whatever is needed to be done," Angela says. "Mother cooks. We clean and do dishes. Dad paints, decorates and does the floors."

Mrs. Cleary puts through five tubs of washing daily and spends $150 every two weeks on groceries, including a gallon of milk a day.

Angela, working at a bank, and Janice, in a department store, each contribute $15 every two weeks. Marilyn, taking a commercial course in school, works part time and buys her own clothes.

Dad, who gets first call on the home's one bathroom because he has to be at work at 8 a.m., says: "I've got the upper hand. At least they let me think I have."

Savory True Fish Tale - Highly Touted Trout

A SWIMMING - POOL for brook trout - a big tank of running fresh-water - that's what Albert Stockli Chef - Director of N.Y.'s Four Seasons Restaurant, has installed in the great kitchen.

"Fresh caught trout are at their best 'as is,'" he remarked, scooping out a lively trout with his hand. "The flavor is so exquisite, no seasoning is needed in cooking - except a little salt and pepper. But if you use frozen mountain trout, after it's thawed, fill with salmon mousse or a trout-meat stuffing, and broil."

Measurements level: recipes for 6 BOILED STUFFED FRESH WATER TROUT 3/4 c. minced raw brook trout meat (or use shrimp) 1/2 tsp. powdered dill 1/2 tsp. minced parsley 1 egg yolk 1 tsp. heavy cream 1/2 tsp. salt 6 cleaned fresh brook trout, heads and tails on, or use thawed frozen trout Lemon-butter (see Chef)

Parsley for garnish To make stuffing, combine and mix together first 7 ingredients. Lightly pack into the cleaned trout; press edges almost together. Cut 3 diagonal slashes on both sides of each trout to keep skin from curling while cooking. Brush trout all over with lemon-butter. Place on oiled aluminum broiling platter. Broil 8 min. on both sides, or until flesh begins to flake from bones when tested.

SPRING FOOD NOTES FROM OUR CHEF Lemon-Butter: Into 1/2 c. whipped butter, smooth - mix 1 tsp. crushed, grated lemon rind and 1-3 c. thin-sliced scallions. Before broiling, rub chops all over with 1 tsp. lemon juice, then with a mixture of 1 tsp. salt, 1/2 tsp. pepper and 1 tsp. powdered rosemary. Perfumed Apple Pie: Keep a rose geranium growing in your kitchen window garden. Press a leaf into the filling for apple pie before baking.

Father Of 11 Girls Says Gentleness Works Best. TORONTO (CP) - "Certainly I know how to handle women," says Jim Cleary, 44. "Some day I'm going to write a book."

A $300-a-month assistant car foreman with the Canadian Pacific Railway, Mr. Cleary is the father of 11 daughters. The oldest is 20. His wife Brenda, 38, gave birth to the youngest in mid-March.

Mr. Cleary, who last year paid just $4 in income tax, has this advice on how to handle women: "They're like a car. Each one's built differently and has to be treated differently. Gentleness works best. I can rant and rave at them and they just sit there and look at me. But if I talk to them quietly they burst into tears."

The Clearys, who live in a paid-up five-bedroom house ("We won't have a car until we can have a new one and pay cash," says Mrs. Cleary), weren't all that disappointed when the latest arrival turned out to be a girl - Andrea. Pam, 11, and Glenda, 8, would have preferred a boy, but Janice, 20, Angela 19, Sandra 18, Marilyn, 16 and Susan, 7, wanted a girl. "If we can't have an older brother we don't want one at all." Cindy, 5, Vivian, 3, and Shelda, 2, were content just to be allowed to hold and mother the new baby.

WED IN SEPTEMBER. However, Janice, to be married Sept 4 on her parents' wedding anniversary, would like to have a boy among the girls.
