To keep bird cages, perches and drinking cups clean, wash with one quart of water into which 1 teaspoonful of liquid detergent has been stirred.

Keep watch for a new household window cleaner which will be offered in tablet form, together with an eight-ounce plastic squeeze bottle with a removable bottom compartment containing three foil-wrapped window-cleaning tablets. MARY HAWORTH

Reader's View Differs On Tall Girl's Problem

Dear Mary Haworth: I too, am five feet eleven inches tall, like your troubled correspondent K.C., who feels her height is a dating handicap.

She is 19 and I am 30: and being older, I appreciate the wisdom of your saying that part of her problem (of diffidence) will be solved as she learns, with maturity, to accept herself and make intelligent use of what she is.

However, your subsequent suggestions for diminishing the appearance of height would seem to delay the acceptance of it.

I have always held that this kind of dissembling on the part of tall girls is self - defeating.

My own practise has been to dress in proportion to the over all picture to wear high heels and to carry accessories slightly over medium - size.

My advice to K.C. is to develop a style that suits her personality but doesn't invite undue attention. Posture tricks, low shoes, horizontal trompe l'oeil, such devices only serve to set her apart and put off the day when someone will say: "Why, I never realized you were so tall!"

As for dates, at 19 this is a problem: a competition that K.C. cannot hope to win. Perhaps she can face this and concentrate her efforts on becoming the kind of person she wants to be. Sincerely, F.X.

Dear F.X.: I reflect you are rejecting my overall counsel to K.C., specifically, I think, because you disagree with my preference for non - high heels on tall girls. But on that point, I stand firm.

I am not speaking of flat heels, you understand. In my book, flat heels are a gymnastic - type convenience — for hiking, golfing, tennis, beach sandals, and the like.

Rather I have in mind the median heel, say approximately two inches in height (possibly a fraction more or less), which is the latterday classic in the fashion field, the favorite of women of elegant taste for general wear.

This median (or medium) heel appears in various designs — the sportive stacked look, the slightly curved shape and the more delicately boned shape. And, almost invariably, as a finishing touch to a smartly plain pump (in a wide choice of leathers or fabrics suited to different costumes for day or evening).

Offhand I can't think of a less flattering underpinning for a quite tall girl than the three-inch heel, often called a spike heel: which is the typical "high" heel. On her it creates the teetering effect of a person on stilts.

The tall girl should walk goddess - like, as with winged feet, floating and free, which can't be done on spike heels. Even her middle-size sister, and especially her shorty - sister, would do well to bypass spike heels altogether. Actually they are a fashion vulgarity, on a par with assertively over-size busts.

For the rest, I did not prescribe any "posture tricks." Instead, as an aid to poise, I advised K.C. to go to a models' training class or to a class in folk dancing or ballet dancing and learn how to stand, sit and move with mannered grace. Surely any of us, given opportunity might profit greatly from that kind of exercise.

Finally, I disagree entirely with your notion that K.C. at 19 can't hope to win in the competition of the dating field. Why not, if she intelligently prepares herself to be irresistibly winsome to marriageable males?

As you are still unwed at 30 (so your signature discloses) your pessimist view reflects your own experience, no doubt. But bear in mind that you and K.C. are different persons. And she is alertly in quest of early guidance in pursuit of mate love, instead of assuming, rigidly, that she already knows all the answers.

Maybe there are tips for you in the advice given her. M.H.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids... and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved... actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Satisfaction guaranteed or your money refunded.
