

Session, and to relieve you from further attendance in Parliament.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons,

"His Majesty commands me to thank you for the supplies you have voted for the public service; you may depend upon their faithful application to the purpose for which they were granted.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

"I have his Majesty's commands to express his approbation of the wisdom that has guided your proceedings during the present session, especially in the liberal indulgences you have afforded to your Roman Catholic brethren, by establishing the legality of intermarriage, by admitting them to the profession of the law and the benefits of education, and by removing all restrictions upon their industry in trade and manufacture.

"Your knowledge of the true interest of your country is plainly marked in the measures you have adopted for carrying into effect a reciprocal preference in the corn trade with Great Britain, a system beneficial to both countries, and peculiarly advantageous to the agriculture of Ireland, that source of your wealth and prosperity. The further steps you have taken to check the immoderate use of spirituous liquors, and your wise regulations for the charitable institutions, prove your attention to the interests of the lower orders of the people.

"I shall firmly rely on your cordial cooperation for the support of public order, and the enforcing obedience to the laws, by which alone the fruits of national industry can be secured; and when you reflect upon the flourishing resources, the increasing wealth, and unexampled prosperity of the country, you will not fail to impress upon the minds of the people that the maintenance of our free and happy constitution will ensure the continuance of these invaluable blessings."

CHARLOTTE TOWN, JULY 14.

The late fine rains, which, indeed, had been long wanted, have astonishingly altered the face of the fields; the flourishing and luxuriant appearance of which, at present, promises an abundant harvest.

It is now finally determined, that the Abolition of the Slave Trade, in the British dominions, shall take place after the year 1796.

Yesterday a man was brought to town from Vernon River Settlement, and safely lodged in the public jail, charged with having committed a rape on the body of a young girl of that place.

During the Trinity Term of His Majesty's Supreme Court in June last, the following persons were arraigned at the bar, viz.

John Barefoot and Richard Morefield, indicted for breaking into a store at New-London, and stealing thereout some rum, plead guilty, and were sentenced to receive 180 lashes on their bare backs; sixty of which were inflicted on them, the rest being remitted;

Mary Browne, alias Marshall, charged with having aided and abetted the above, was acquitted.

Davy, a black man, convicted of stealing a saw, was sentenced to receive 39 lashes—but was afterwards pardoned.

Was lately married at Tryon, Mr. Phillips Morris Callbee to Miss Anne Warren, daughter of William Warren, Esq. of that place.
