Intermediate "A" Playoffs

For the first time in recent years the MAHA has arranged a "double-double" round robin series between three Island clubs to decide an Island intermediate "A" hockey champion. This type of series should be of interest to the many "starved" Island hockey fans who have missed the round-tuck action of the provincial senior league. Prince and St. John's had a fair share of hockey to watch most of the season but Charlottetown has had only a scattering of exhibition games on the intermediate and senior level plus weekend college hockey.

The Flying Hawks will be considered the new series favorites because of recent victories over the Dominion Express, a team showing against Sandy's Royals. The Summerside airforce team, which hasn't played in its full ability on several occasions this season, is now in the middle of a warm-up exhibition series and should be in good form when they begin play against the Hawks, Feb. 22.

Combines May Be Weak

The Warren Texaco Combines are an unknown quantity. Coached by Benny Grady, the Combines lost an exhibition game to the Express in a close race but few weeks ago but for most of the season haven't been skating or passing too well. They may be a fair brand of hockey to watch most of the season but Charlottetown has had only a scattering of exhibition games on the intermediate and senior level plus weekend college hockey.

Prince Edward Island

Prince Edward Island will be represented in the Dominion Curling Championships to be held at Charlottetown's Art Burke rink. Last night at Belvedere Golf and Winter Club, before a packed gallery, the quarter-finals of the British Columbia trophy for curlers were held. Alan Smith, Bobby Dillon and Stu Lavens proved decisively proceeded to make sure it didn't come about. They curled like true champions and kept their opposition off balance throughout.

However, the Camerons were a surprise. They had a 2-0 advantage over the Camerons but never did get back on even terms. The new toddlers of the British Columbia trophy played in amazing fashion all through the struggle and seemed confident of a triumph right from the start.

Saints Topple Dalhousie Team

Ed Hillon's St. Dunstan's Varsity basketball team defeated Dalhousie University 61-53 in a regular league game of the Maritime Intercollegiate basketball league at three o'clock in the S.D.U. gym last night.

The Saints led 27-20 at halftime. Dalhousie came out strong in the third quarter and pulled within three points of the Saints at the end of the first half. However, the Saints regained control of the play in the final quarter and the comeback at the end of the game.

Prize Curling Curling Crown

By Beating Curling Aero... The Burke curlers took to the ice with a determination that wasn't to be denied. They had no liking for a Saturday afternoon battle and they immediately proceeded to make sure it didn't come about. They curled like true champions and kept their opposition off balance throughout.

Curling Champs for Schooboy

By Walter Krevenchuk Regina (CP)—The Canadian curling championship, an event that first flickered to life in Regina 17 years ago, returns here next week for its 164th edition. Eleven rinks, representing all the provinces plus Northern Ontario, will participate in a 10-game round-robin competition Monday through Friday for a trophy first fought for in 1947 by hockey champion, from the three Prairie provinces. From its modest beginnings here the championship expanded until in 1956 an entry list of 16 rinks from 10 provinces was to begin Monday, with the first two draws that day. Two draws will be held Tuesday and Wednesday, with three on Thursday and two on Friday.
