In Memoriam.

LINES WRITTEN ON THE DEATH OF MINNIE WESTER, WHO DIED AT MORELL ON MARCH 13TH, 1893, AGED 19 YEARS.

Sad news again is whispered round
Which we are shocked to hear;
The messenger of death has come
To her we'd most dear.

And tears are falling thick and fast,
Which cannot cease to fall,
As those with whom she used to dwell
Can never her recall.

When gazing on her form of death
How natural did it seem,
A smile was impressed on the face
As of a pleasant dream.

The smile of hope lit up with youth,
The eye with joy so bright;
We never shall again behold,
They're absent from our sight.

Her morning life is at an end,
Her youthful race is run;
In sorrow we shall mourn for thee,
Oh, God, thy will be done.

Death's dark river she has crossed
With brave and fearless tread,
As often to her friends she said
"I wish that I were dead."

We gather round the festive board
With said and solemn air,
When we behold the vacant y—
For Minnie is not there.

A glorious victory thou'st won,
Of which the angels sing;
Oh, grave where is thy victory?
Oh, death where is thy sting?
Morell, April 24th, 1893.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Education Report.

Sir—Shortly after the present Superintendent of Education had been appointed he announced through the Patriot with great gusto that wonderful improvements had been effected by him in the matter of inspection, and in his first report the character of the improvements was explained in detail. It was no other than an Inspection Book, in which the Inspector was required to enter a mass of unimportant minutiae with regard to every school, a copy of which he was obliged to transmit to the Education Office monthly for the Superintendent's information. Let me use his own words to explain its purpose: "From these sheets I shall not only be enabled to submit statistical summaries of the enrollment, average attendance, &c., but the character of the work done in each subject, as well as the general standing of the public as a whole is surely of more interest to the public than the details of the condition of our schools, and the character of the instruction imparted in them, than to be presented yearly with tabular statistics that are seldom, if ever read." On reading the above I was led to expect a complete revolution in the report for 1892, that the dry and rarely read statistical tables would be replaced, or at least supplemented, by a report on each school showing the character of the work done in each subject, as well as its general standing. But what do we find? The same old "tabular statistics," and a weak concession that the whole scheme is practically a failure—the Inspectors being unable to give a fair estimate of a school in consequence of the brevity of their visit. The slightest acquaintance with the work was all that was necessary to convince anyone in advance of the utter uselessness of the plan. To what end, then, was all this cost? Simply that the Superintendent might gain a little cheap popularity for the time being. Change of opinion, however, is characteristic of the Superintendent. In 1891 he said that "nothing can more clearly indicate the growing interest taken in education by our people than the fact that every school department in the Province was in operation." In 1892 he so dogmatically declares that "nothing so truly marks the interest taken in educational work by a people as regularity of attendance." Which statement are we to accept as correct? To illustrate further his liability to change (in this case) with more propriety be termed inconsistency, or unparadoxical weakness, I need only refer to his attitude towards those school districts with an area of over four square miles. The teachers in these districts for special reasons had been accustomed to receive the full statutory allowance on making an average of fifty per cent. of the number of resident children of school age; whereas in the case of districts with an area of less than four square miles an average of at least twenty was required. On the Superintendent's attention being called to this, he recommended that the Board of Education place the former on the same basis as the latter, which he reports to us, with a flourish of trumpets in his report for 1891, was accordingly done. In accordance with this resolution publicly proclaimed we would expect to find deductions made from the salaries of all teachers who failed to make an average of twenty. But what do we find? That not one cent was deducted for deficiency of average if the teachers made the fifty per cent. required in the past. The Public Accounts will show that North Lake, Lakeville, Cherry Hill, Culloden and Abery Plains school districts drew their full statutory allowance in 1892, notwithstanding that the average in no case was higher than ten. The Superintendent made a showy apology, then quietly followed the beaten track. Political expediency and that desire "to please," which the Patriot advanced as his chief qualification for the position, won the day, and what his reason commended went down ignominiously before them. Do what he will, the Superintendent cannot free himself from the imputation of being one man on paper and another in action, and that his report and public utterances (few as they are) are utterly unreliable and self-leading in consequence. Education in Prince

Edward Island may have had its reverse, but none so serious as that which befell when it experienced the blighting touch of Phylloxera liberiana.

Entertainment at Peake's Station.

The Debating Club of Peake's Station brought this season's work to a close, on Monday evening, 23rd inst., with a grand entertainment held in the building of Messrs McKinnon & McLean, of Charlottetown, whom the committee in charge have again to thank for their kindness in placing this building at their disposal. Notwithstanding the bad state of the roads a very large number of persons were in attendance, attracted no doubt, by the excellent character of former entertainments at this place. A well-arranged programme was carried out in a manner, highly satisfactory to all concerned and entertaining to the audience, as evinced by the frequent applause which greeted the several performers. Where all performed their parts in so excellent a manner, it would be invidious to make distinctions. The opening address was delivered in a very pleasing manner by Mr. Anthony McLaughlin, who in a few well chosen remarks, thanked the audience for their presence and declared the entertainment opened. Miss Annie McDonald presided at the organ. Mr. J. F. Doyle delivered the closing address in a very appropriate and flowery speech. After singing "Auld Lang Syne," the audience quietly dispersed, well pleased with the entertainment.—Com.

News From Westmoreland.

Mr. Donald P. McLeod, a former resident of Bradshaw, has purchased that beautiful tract of land from Mr. Robert Moore, formerly owned by Mr. Crisp Moore.

Mr. Albert Oskes has purchased fifty acres of land adjoining his own farm from his brother, who has gone to the far West. He is now engaged in moving the buildings to the corner of Inkerman and Balaclava Roads, where he can command a better view of the surrounding settlement.

The farmers have joined and bought the right of using Crabbe's patent fence from Mr. Neil McDonald Hampton for this school district. A few have been using it before, but they consider it a cheap and substantial fence.

We have a tri-weekly mail from Crapaud, carried by Mr. Heath McVittie. The Post Office is kept by Mr. W. H. Collett. But we hear he is about selling his farm and moving to Victoria. While we wish him success in his move, we cannot refrain from expressing our regret at his departure from our midst.

The farmers are well supplied with fodder, but Mr. Robert McVittie seems to have a hay mow without any bottom by the loads that are daily taken from it.

Leard Bros., millers are doing a rushing business by look of the lumber that surrounds their place and by the sacks of grain that are continually going to and from their mill.

Anthony Collett, J. P., intends starting a cheese factory this summer. We wish him success.

VICE VERSA.
Westmoreland, April 25, 1893.

Bay View Notes.

Nothing doing on the land yet. Every appearance of a late spring. No ice in sight in the Gulf for a month past.

The lobster factory is getting under way for business. We hear that the manager has some difficulty in procuring all the hands he requires, on account of the scarcity of experienced fishermen.

One of our enterprising citizens, Mr. John Dickieson, in company with Charles Wyand, carpenter, of Cavendish Road, has secured the contract for building the new Presbyterian Church at Stanley Bridge. The building committee are to be congratulated on securing such reliable workmen. We understand that the contract price is between eighteen and nineteen hundred dollars.

Stanley Bridge Dairying Co., in which Bay View is largely interested, held a meeting on last Thursday and decided to go ahead with the cheese factory as soon as a few more shares of stock were taken. Mr. J. C. Clarke's property at Bay View what looks very much improved since he got his houses fished out of the river and put in position on their beautiful site. After a few touches from the carpenter and painter, all marks of the fearful ordeal they were subjected to will be obliterated.

D. W. McLeod has rented his farm to Walter Simpson for a term of three years and intends going to the Pacific coast.

The smelts have arrived and the small boy may be seen about sunrise (by those who get up early enough) rounding his way to the brook, net in hand, contrary to the law made and provided in such cases. But the Inspector is not handy, and if he was he likes smelts himself.
