The Callaghan Murder.

CONCLUSION OF EVIDENCE.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, June 3, 1885.

Investigation resumed before the Stipendiary Magistrate into complaint against James Henry McInnis and George Alexander McInnis for murder of Patrick Callaghan.

TIMOTHY BURKE (sworn).—I live at Rustico. I know Joseph Doiron, now living in Charlottetown. I was at his store on 21st May, Thursday. It was in the afternoon of the day. Mr. Doiron was there, and I saw a man, Jim McInnis, and another young fellow I understood was Jim's brother's son. The accused (looking at them) are the parties. I saw nobody else there at the time. I know Joseph Blanchard. I cannot remember that Blanchard was in the store. When I went in the accused were there conversing and joking with Doiron. James McInnis made some remarks. I cannot now remember, but it occasioned me to tell him that he should not talk so or he might get into trouble. The words went out of my mind as I thought them nothing important. They struck me as foolish talk. I heard on Sunday, about 11 o'clock, that accused were arrested, and I was told it was upon language made use of in Doiron's, and I thought to myself they did not say anything which could have led to their arrest. I have tried to recollect what was said and I cannot. I have been and know James Henry. He lives between six and seven miles from me. I know nothing of his whereabouts these days. All I saw of him was on that day. I was told that George was John McInnis' son. I have been on the Island about eighteen years, and have known McInnis for that time. I never thought Jim would commit murder, nor George either. I know George's father, nor think that George could be a bad boy. I know Joe Doiron eighteen years. He is running a little grocery store. I can't say about his wealth. He has no land. I thought that Jimmy was under the influence of liquor. George was very quiet. It would be about one or two o'clock. I don't recollect them talking about war or volunteers going away, or about insurance. I never heard anything said about going to kill old Callaghan. If I had heard that I would have minded it. I heard them mention of the dullness of times. Don't recollect about some of the fathers of volunteers offering to pay money for substitutes to go to war. (Mr. Palmer reads evidence of words given by Doiron previous day.) Burke remembers of no such words. Don't remember the name of Callaghan being mentioned. I do not deal with Doiron. Heard he had pretty good custom. Do not know what these men bought. They were lounging and talking. I asked Jim had he a horse for sale, and he said after spring work he would sell one, or perhaps two.

JOSEPH BLANCHARD (sworn).—I live at Rustico. I was in town on Thursday, 21st May. I was in Joseph Doiron's store that day about 2 p. m. The accused were there, and Burke and Doiron. The McInnis were doing no business. James bought a fig of tobacco and a pipe. James was talking to Joe. He commenced talking about dull times. He mentioned no way for raising money. There was something said about insurance, but I cannot remember how it started. Jim said something about insurance. McInnis said there might be money made by it. He did not say any particular way. I understood the meaning was to insure the buildings and then to burn them. McInnis said this to those who were there. There were no buildings mentioned particularly. He was saying this to no one in particular. (Witness here complained of being faint, and was allowed to go out of court.)

The Attorney General here announced that he had no further evidence for the Crown, except the conclusion of Blanchard's testimony.

Mr. Palmer then applied for the discharge of the prisoners, which was refused.

MARY MCINNIS (sworn).—I live in Rustico. I am a sister of James Henry. I reside with him at the old homestead. Henry did not tell us he was going to be married, but I remember him going to town and she came up and told me he was going to take them to town. He left home on Wednesday evening. He went in a truck wagon—his own. He had a yellow horse. He came back Friday night. We had no time to spare. It was between 10 and 11 o'clock. I asked the boys who were up to the charivari. I asked them what time it was when they left, and they said it was ten o'clock. The boys came up Friday night to charivari Jim. I stayed up about an hour and a half after they went away. My mother lives with Jim and me. She is an old woman. She is a sick woman. I don't think she could come here. Has been ill this five or six years. She gets up sometimes. Jimmy and George came together. George went to bed with Jimmy. I spoke to them when they came home. Can't say when they got up. I woke them. Jim got up, but I don't remember whether George got up then or not. I was getting breakfast. They could not have been away from the house between time. They went to bed and got up, because the bedstead used to creak, and I heard it creaking through the night several times. I did not sleep sound. George went home after breakfast. I heard the wagon coming home, and saw them taking a bucket to the well to water the horse. Jimmy was working part of Saturday. He was not away from the place. I saw him all day. He took his dinner home and his tea too. They had the real charivari Saturday evening. I left Jimmy and George and mother and went to my brother's, and returned home Saturday night about 11 o'clock. Jimmy was home that night. He slept home. He was home on Sunday. He carried home a calf and drove the cow home. He took his meals at home. On Monday week he was home, and home every day till he was arrested. When he left home on Wednesday evening he was in the clothes he is now, except, perhaps, his socks. I don't recollect George's clothes. James Duffy, Henry Neal, John McQuarrie, John Neal and Alexander McInnis were at the charivari. They all know Henry was home. Henry left home Wednesday night. I have no idea where he was. The charivari boys were there three nights—Wednesday, Friday and Saturday. I got up Saturday morning a little after sunrise—not a great deal. I took a little while to dress. I lit a fire and then called them. Jim got up immediately and went out to see his horses. From the time I got up till Jim got up was not an hour. I am positive of all these statements. James Hury was either home or working at Allan's place on Monday. If he was working there he would take his meals there. He was home Monday night. I saw him in the house at dark Monday night. He got up later Tuesday morning. I don't know how long it would take to travel from Appin Road, home. Jim told us when he got home that the horse got fatigued, and had to buy oats on the road; and had hard work to get him along.

Rev. J. M. McLEOD (sworn).—I have seen accused before. I married James on Thursday, 21st May, to Sarah Ann Cudmore. I married them twenty minutes to five o'clock. George was present and her sister. One of the accused called at nine or ten in the morning. That was James. I named the hour of four, but had to attend a funeral at Lot 48, and they were at my house from 3.30 till they were married. Had no previous acquaintances with parties. Saw them again, the four of them, opposite William Welsh's residence. They were in a truck wagon. Did not notice horse particularly. He was not black. They were going on the Spring Park Road towards Boyley Tannery. They recognized me; McInnis was sober. I would not have married him if he had been intoxicated; both were sober. I saw nothing improper in their conduct.

WILLIAM MOY (sworn).—I live at North Wiltshire Station; am a farmer; live about 1 1/2 chains from Station. I remember two men coming to my place for a feed of oats on Friday evening, 22nd May, between 9 and 10 o'clock. They had a truck wagon and had a yellow horse as far as I know. The one that got the oats from me was tall, to the best of my knowledge. George is the same one. He asked me for a feed of oats for his horse. I gave it to him and he paid me. The other man did not come to the door. He was on the road. He was a shorter man—a low-set man. I cannot identify James. They asked me the way to Brookfield. Did not ask them their destination. I showed them on the Johnston Road. They seemed strangers. They asked me no further than Brookfield. I saw George last night and talked with him. He came to our place and I was not at home. He came up the road to where I was in a shop with others. George picked me out of the crowd as the one who sold him the oats. He described the whole circumstances, and where he put the bucket, and it tallied with everything that took place. Their horse was pretty well tired out that night. They were coming from the direction of the Appin Road, and they would go by way of Brookfield to go to the Rustico Road. Appin Road would be eight or ten miles from where I live. I don't know exactly. I live eleven miles from Charlottetown by the road. I have never been at Rustico, but I know the way to go. You can go from Wiltshire by way of Brookfield. I knew the time of night they were at my house, by the timepiece in the house.

JOSEPH BLANCHARD (recalled).—McInnis told Doiron he ought to insure his building for a good amount, and he (McInnis) would set fire to it, and Mr. Burke told him he should not make use of such language, for he did not know what it might come to. There was no other conversation except about a horse trade. When I went out I left McInnis, Doiron and Burke in the shop. I was in the shop between 15 and 20 minutes, and heard no mention of any Callaghan, or about killing him. If it had been mentioned I would have heard it. What was said about insurance was in a joking way, and the man did not mean it.

JAMES DUFFY (sworn).—I live on Rustico Road, about one and a quarter mile from McInnis. Remember hearing them say he was married last Thursday week. I was at his place on Friday night to charivari, and they told me he was not home. I was there Saturday night also. I saw him Saturday night. He came out to the door and shook hands. We were expecting him the night before. Left Friday night about 10 o'clock. Did not see him Saturday morning. I have not been down much. Been busy. I did not see him about the time he went away getting married. First time I saw him was Saturday night. Did not see him Sunday.

HENRY NEAL (sworn).—I live on Rustico Road, about 1 1/2 miles from McInnis. Was down there to charivari on Friday night; did not see him; left about 10 o'clock. Was there Saturday night. Saw Jim and George; Jim has a yellow horse and a truck wagon.

ANGELINA CUDMORE (recalled).—Jim and George came to my sister's Wednesday evening. They remained till next morning, both of them, and we left at 4 o'clock. They could not have gone down to the Cemetery Wednesday night.

RICHARD FLYNN, servant man at Mrs. Watson's, deposed that he was at the Cemetery twice on Thursday, 21st. Could not find Callaghan. All his garden tools and a basket with potato sets were in the front garden. The back door was fastened with a sleeper. Went into the kitchen and called Callaghan. The cat bawled from the inside room. He did not go in there. He noticed the place in confusion. There was a kettle on the stove, but no fire in the stove. He then went over to Prowse's that asked Prowse if he had seen Callaghan that day. Prowse said "No." Flynn then left a message with him for Callaghan regarding trees.

JOSEPH DORION (re-called).—Examined by Mr. H. J. Palmer as to whether he had told his father that his mind was troubled because he had informed on the McInnis boys and they were innocent. Dorion declared he had not.

The case against the McInnis was then dismissed.

R. T. WEEKS, Esq., was to-day sworn in as Prothonotary and Clerk of the Crown, in the place of W. A. O. Morson, resigned. Mr. Morson resumes the practice of his profession in the firm of McLeod Morson & McQuarrie.
