A Losing Joke.
Mr. Jones was clerk in a city office, and owing to the jealousy of his fellow clerks was daily subjected to many petty annoyances. One day his enemies thought they had hit on a plan which would amuse them and add to Jones' discomfort. The next morning when Mr. Jones entered the office one after another came up and said to him in a tone of horror:
"Why, whatever is the matter with you? Are you ill? You look simply ghastly."
Mr. Jones sat listening quietly for a few minutes. Then suddenly, to the surprise of everybody, he got off his stool and slipped into the manager's office. A short time only had elapsed when the manager appeared, followed by Mr. Jones, and, addressing the astonished clerks, said:
"As Mr. Jones is so unwell I have granted him permission to take a day or two's holiday; so you must divide his work equally among you until he returns."—Pearson's Weekly.

The Holland Throne.
A Chillicothe man, H. T. Houghnay, once occupied the throne of Holland, though only for a minute. "It was when I was a ship officer," said the captain, "that myself and another officer were being shown through the royal apartments during the absence of the king and the queen. Little Wilhelmina was then only a few days old. The throne was nothing grand in my eyes. I have seen nicer looking barber chairs in America. When the guards were not looking, I jumped upon the throne and exclaimed, 'Behold the king, the king of Holland!' In an instant the soldiers hustled me out of there, and it was only by the most liberal use of Dutch money that I persuaded them not to send me to the guardhouse."—Kansas City Star.

AN OLD AND WELL TRIED REMEDY.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over fifty years by millions of mothers for their children while teething with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind, colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhoea. Is pleasant to the taste. Sold by druggists in every part of the world. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Its value is incalculable. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, and take no other kind.

How Bismarck Could Drink.
Count Andrassy's story of an interview he had with Bismarck is as follows:
"Bismarck had two immense mugs of beer brought to us. He took one of them and shoved the other over to me. I remarked that I drank only water. He looked at me in silence, curiously and almost suspiciously for a minute and then proceeded with the subject under discussion. The more interested he became in our conversation the more frequently and copiously he drank. After finishing his own mug he appropriated mine without a word and put down its contents in three or four tremendous drafts. Then he had a servant fetch and fill two enormous pipes. When he offered me one of them, I explained that I never smoked.
"What?" he cried, "neither drink nor smoke? What kind of a supernatural man are you anyway?"
"It was a mercy to both of us, however, that I did not accept the pipe, for Bismarck smoked so incessantly that within 15 minutes the air in the room was dense. When I rose at the end of the evening from the table at which we were sitting, the smoke was so thick that I could hardly see the chancellor's face."

A Convincing Argument.
A correspondent sends us the following story from Mississippi: Counsel for the defense was addressing a country J. P. of the "old school." Said he: "I realize that I stand in the presence of a descendant of the grand old Huguenot family that emigrated from France to escape from religious intolerance. Many able jurists have sprung from that family and embellished the bench and bar of the Union. Their watchwords are honor, truth and justice, and their names are spoken in every home. The law is so plain in this case that 'the who runs may read.' Shall I insult the intelligence of this court by reiterating a proposition so simple? Need I say more?" "No," interrupted the judge, "that's unnecessary. I'll give you a judgment." Counsel sat down while the judge, with emphasis, knocked the ashes from his cob pipe, and counsel for plaintiff began: "May it please the court?" "Squire, what are you fixin' to do?" asked the judge. "I have the closing argument," was the reply. "Well, you jes' as well set down. I done got my mind set on the other side. Judgment for defendant."—Law Notes.

TO THE PUBLIC—Some small minded competitor has started a rumor, which is now being circulated to the effect that prices on our goods were marked up so as to enable us to give the big discounts. We hardly need assure the public the story is false as not an article in our stock was changed and our clerks are instructed to give the full discounts advertised. We are selling off everything and will continue to give the big discounts of 20 to 50 per cent until all sold. Sale every day.
