A GENTLEMAN aged 65, writes:—"I heartily thank you for the great boon I have obtained through the use of your wonderful rejuvenator known as Mack's Magnetic Medicine. I am fully restored—feel like a young colt." Read the advertisement in another column. Sold in Charlottetown by Apothecaries Hall Co. (m3 1w wldy.)

TO-MORROW the Presbyterians of Covehead and Stanhope (weather and roads permitting), hold their Tea and Bazaar. As their object is a worthy one, it is greatly to be desired that their efforts will be crowned with that success which they richly merit. They have spared neither time, trouble nor money to make it enjoyable and entertaining. We trust those in and around the city who feel it their duty to promote a good cause, will attend and take their friends with them; and also those who attend such places for the sake of the enjoyment will also be present, for we feel satisfied it will be worthy of both.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

The Great Unknown.

SIR,—Certain parties have circulated a report to the effect that the George Thorn who published the bogus challenge to trot any stallion on the Island was my brother-in-law, of the same name, and that I used his name to get up a match with a horse I am now handling, and that he is the Unknown. I wish to state emphatically that I have nothing whatever to do with the Unknown or the challenge; but I will make a match with this great Unknown, for any sum that George Thorn, on behalf of the owner, dares to put up. This challenge signed by George Thorn, on behalf of the owner, has turned out a very mean, dirty piece of business, and I don't want my name mixed up with it; and I have to say, in conclusion, that if the parties do not retract the accusation against me, I will publish all I know on the subject. P. S. BROWN, Trainer. Ch'town, March 4, 1884.

SIR,—In the DAILY EXAMINER of March 1st inst. I see a paragraph headed, "the Government demand on the Bank of P. E. Island."

I was born and brought up in the belief that the assets of a bankrupt, or of an absconding swindler, were to be divided, proportionally, among the creditors of the bankrupt, or the victims of the swindler or swindlers. "Old times seem indeed to be changed, and old manners gone." Your paragraph states that it was generally thought that the Government would be willing to take their chance like all other creditors. I, for one, had never heard before of the enormous indebtedness of the Prince Edward Island Bank to the Government. This ought to have been made known to the public before this time, so as to avoid the great disappointment of the creditors of the said Bank who were looking forward to the receipt, in a very short time, of another instalment of their deposits, as promised by the liquidators of the said bank. If the Government be about to exercise their preferential right to their claim, to the exclusion of other creditors, are they not also in duty, and in common honesty, bound to institute a Government prosecution against the Directors and Shareholders of the said bank for their very culpable negligence, or connivance, in allowing the affairs of the said bank to drift into such a disastrous condition. From the general feeling of the inhabitants of this Province, such action on the part of the Government would undoubtedly tend very much to increase their popularity with all classes of this community. I am, sir, Your obedient servant, ROBERT BRUCE STEWART. Lennox Cottage, March 3, 1884.

A Boston car conductor never says "Hurry up!" It would be contrary to culture. His elegant phrase is, "Exercise a little celerity, if you please."

TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

[SPECIAL DESPATCHES TO THE EXAMINER.]

Arrival of the "Sarmatian."

MOVILLE, March 4. The steamer "Sarmatian," having as passengers Mr. T. J. Harris of the London House, Mr. A. W. Sterns of the firm of Perkins & Sterns, and Mr. James Paton of W. A. Weeks & Co., arrived to day.

Tracing Dynamiters.

LONDON, March 3. The two Irish-Americans who reached London from Southampton on the 12th February, have been traced to the Waverly Hotel, Portland. They arrived there on the 20th and left on the 25th February. It is believed they were the authors of the outrages. A portion of the valise containing the infernal machine which was found at Paddington Station, has been discovered in their room.

Cornwallis West, in a letter to the Times, says:—"The time has come for England to demand of a friendly Government protection from the attempts of O'Donovan Rossa and his blood-thirsty crew."

Movements of Troops.

SUKKIM, March 3. Gen. Graham will send the Egyptian troops found at Tokar to join the garrison at Sukkim. The English troops will be withdrawn to Teb, thence after receiving supplies of water, provisions and munitions they will advance to Tamair before the British begin attack upon the rebels. Osman Digma will be offered a conference. Five thousand rebels who fled from Tokar when the British entered the town on Saturday joined Osman Digma. Only one thousand of them are Sudanese, being fanatics sent from Kordoban.

General Graham's Victory—1,500 Killed.

LONDON, Feb. 3. The Times says:—"We understand that orders have been sent to Gen. Graham to retreat forthwith from Tokar, and to arrange for the immediate return of troops to England and Egypt." The people of Tokar kissed Gen. Graham's hand as he entered the town, and there were great rejoicings. The enemy acknowledged that 1,500 of their number were killed.

Complimenting the Government.

LONDON, March 3. The Ambassadors of all the Powers have been instructed to compliment the Government upon Gen. Graham's victory.

Dominion Political Notes.

OTTAWA, March 3. The Speaker took the chair at 3.30 p. m. After routine Bills were introduced—among them a Bill for the purpose of amending the Liquor License Act of 1883; a Bill to amend and to consolidate the several Acts relating to the adulteration of food and drugs; a Bill to amend the gas and gas meters. A motion for a return of the statement of the receipts of the Post Office at St. Stephen brought on a short discussion about the lottery scheme managed from that town through the Post Office. The result of the discussion will probably be that the pressure of the Postal Act will be applied, and the suspected letters so stamped as to reveal their fraudulent purpose to the receivers. The House adjourned at an early hour.

Montague Notes.

List Thursday Feb. 25, the inhabitants of this village and neighborhood assembled at the new Hall to listen to Mr. Earle and the Glee Club, assisted by Messrs. Bremner and Reid. It is not saying too much to say that Montague never enjoyed such a rich musical treat, or that the Glee Club was ever greeted with a larger and more appreciative audience. The Club, composed of equal numbers of ladies and gentlemen, fourteen in all, were in the best of spirits, and their choruses, quartettes, duets and solos, were rendered in masterly style, and fairly took the house by storm. Encores were numerous. At the close of the concert the Club received a unanimous vote of thanks. The Hall Company are under deep obligations to the Club, as their concert was a free gift to assist the funds of the company. They are also indebted to Mrs. Emery, Proprietress of the Emery House, who kindly entertained the Club to a splendid supper, prepared in her best style, and took every care of the ladies of the party until their departure without any charge to anyone. Permit me to say that the Emery House has no superior—in town or country. We hope to see the Glee Club, with Mr. Reid and Brother Gardner, back again next year. Rev. D. Fitzgerald, D. D. is to lecture here on the 13th inst., subject, "The Lakes of Killarney."—COM.

John Hullah, the famous English musician, is dead. Deceased was born at Worcester in 1812. He studied music under Crevelin, and first became known as the composer of the music for Dickens' opera, "The Village Coquette." In 1840 he established his well-known sol-fa system of notation, and since then has done much in various ways to popularize the study among the middle classes. Deceased was the author of several works on the history and science of music. He was elected an honorary member of the Royal Academy of St. Cecilia at Rome, the oldest institution in Europe.

Pion-Pion on the Revision of the French Constitution.

A Paris cablegram says Prince Napoleon (Pion-Pion) and his son Prince Victor Napoleon gave an audience a few days ago to eighty delegates from the Bonapartist Committees formed for the purpose of considering the question of the revision of the constitution. In replying to their address, Prince Napoleon said:—"Your presence here proves that when it is necessary to defend the national sovereignty and the rights of the people, a Napoleon can always be called upon. I am happy to have my son at my side. It is a confirmation of the union of our family and shows that it is as impossible to separate father and son as to separate Napoleon from the cause of the people. The bad faith existing in some quarters has misrepresented the specific and perfectly legal agitation which our party is pursuing. The constitution of 1876, imposed upon the country by Orléanist intrigue, which subordinated everything to Parliament and handed over the Government of the country to irresponsible majorities, is the cause of our present ills, the symptoms of which are becoming alarming. I trust you will not listen to the few individuals who are preaching a narrow, bombastic, seditious policy, but that you shall follow a great and loyal policy which shall vindicate the rights of the people. Place yourselves at the head of this revision movement. The country will follow you. I speak in behalf neither of myself nor of my son, but in behalf of the principle which I represent. To the people alone belongs the right of constituting the Government by the choice of that man for the head whom it deems capable among the nation."

Imprisoned by his Wife.

An important case came up before the Court of the Queen's Bench, Montreal, on the 26th ult., James E. Walsh, reputed to be the late manager of the Bank of Toronto branch at Pembroke, Ont., is said to have fallen heir to $80,000 or $100,000 about a year ago, by the death of his half-brother, the Deputy Sheriff of Quebec. Shortly afterwards a disagreement arose between Mr. Walsh and his family, and upon several affidavits he (Walsh) was interdicted for intermeddling, his wife being appointed his curatrix. Returning to Montreal from Point Claire for the winter, he states that on the night of the 12th January last he was arrested and taken from his bedroom by two policemen, who refused to explain or show authority, but who drove him at once to Longue Pointe Asylum, where he has since been confined in the same ward with upwards of seventy raving lunatics. It is claimed that Walsh is not insane, and as a proof it is stated that he wrote several letters to a well-known city lawyer, who only received the last, and on visiting the asylum was told by the Lady Superiress that Walsh was merely kept there on the order of his wife as curatrix. The Court of three Judges in pronouncing judgment regretted to have to quash the writ of habeas corpus, but the Provincial Act, like many others in the Province of Quebec, was strangely contradictory. It defined, however, that power of a curator for drunkenness to be the same as a curator for prodigality, and was explicit in stating that an interdiction for drunkenness had all the effects of an interdiction for insanity. Hon. Justice Monk admitted that it was a most extraordinary law, but the proceedings by which Walsh had been confined in the Inebriate Asylum were perfectly regular under the statute, and he would have to be taken back. Justice Ramsay dissented from the judgment, and considered the commitment illegal. He said Quebec was the only part of the British possessions where such a law could be practised or enforced. Counsel for Walsh moved in Chambers for an appeal to the Supreme Court.

HETTIE LEWIS,

DIED FEBRUARY 27TH, 1884.

Fair Singer, now to earth so mute,— So mute to those who loved to hear— Thy voice so sweet, thy tones so clear, Passing the tones of harp or lute;

Already is thy singing done? And shall we see no more that face, Whose modest look and artless grace Drew stillness, ere thy song began?

In thee we looked for one whose skill Should blend fine words, well understood, With perfect voice and fitting mood, And sway a thousand hearts at will. We never thought the dreary sod So soon would rob the world of thee. But, peace! Thou hast not ceased to be,— Thour't gone to join the choir of God.
